Gas boost locally

Gasoline is selling for as much as 54.9 cents per gallon locally as the result of a seven cent increase one station instituted Wednesday. However, some other stations have escaped the recent surge in prices so far.

George Azar, Fina dealer at 2600 East Broadway, told The Democrat-Capital Saturday that company officials Wednesday ordered him to boost prices to 50.6 cents per gallon for regular and 54.9 cents for permium. Azar said the result has been about a 50 per cent reduction in business.

"It's just tearing us apart ... we can't make a living this way," Azar said. He added that recent events have caused him to consider getting out of the service station business.

Only two stations contacted Saturday haven't raised prices recently. At the West Derby Station, 2409 West Broadway, manager Kalo Bottcher said he's still selling gas at 45.6 and 48.6 cents a gallon. He added, however, he expects to have to boost his prices in the "next day or so" and that he anticipates an increase of "four or five cents."

Bob Lindsay, an employe at the Clark Super 100 Station, 216 West Broadway, said an increase is overdue there. He said he anticipates price increases to be implemented as soon as new pumps are installed.

Most dealers said the increases were due to wholesale price boosts with no improvement in retail profit margins.

Elvis Howerton, who operates the Standard station at 1601 South Grand, said the 5.8 cent boost he implemented Wednesday was due to wholesale cost increases. He said he anticipates another increase around early February. "What I hope is that us dealers get a bit of an increase," Howerton said.

Alerted British subject of terrorist attacks

LONDON (AP) — The British army ringed Heathrow Airport on Saturday with light tanks and armored cars in an apparent attempt to ward off terrorists reported planning to shoot down an American or Israeli plane.

At the same time, bombs believed planted by Irish guerrillas blasted the annual London Boat Show and Madame Tussaud's waxworks. Damage was heavy, but both were cleared of thousands of visitors just minutes before the explosions and no casualties were reported.

Police said, however, there was no connection between the bombs and the big alert at Heathrow, unprecedented in Britain in peacetime.

Troops in tanks surrounded Heathrow early in the day amid reports that Arab terrorists were planning to attack, possibly with Soviet-made ground-to-air missiles.

Soldiers toting submachine guns patrolled the perimeter of the airfield. Troops erected road blocks and searched motorists entering the area. Police with tracker dogs patrolled outside the airport along the flight paths of arriving and departing planes.

Passenger areas at Heathrow were kept free of troops to avoid creating panic, police said, and many passengers appeared unaware of the wall of steel protecting them.

The alert came as three members of a student extremist group opposed to the pro-Western Moroccan government appeared in a magistrate's court. The three were charged with conspiracy relating to the possession of firearms. The group they belong to is one of four or five terrorist groups thought to be in Britain now.

A second American girl detained at Heathrow on Friday as a "known associate" in the California connection was still being questioned at a police station. Scotland Yard refused to identity her.

At Travis Air Force Base in California, FBI agents arrested Theodore D. Brown, 31, a Navy veteran, and charged him with helping Miss Thompson smuggle firearms and ammunition into Britain.

Brown was charged with violation of the Neutrality Act and the Firearms Control Assistance Act and was held in lieu of $25,000 bail.

FBI agents said he had been employed at an art gallery in Santa Barbara, Calif., not far from Goleta where he lived with his wife and two children. They said he had been on medical retirement from the Navy since 1966.

Top Heathrow airport officials said the tank guard there could be maintained for weeks.

Scotland Yard, directing the army exercise, said only that the alert was expected to last for "several days."

Airport workers said the main guard was centered on cargo terminal housing offices and warehouses for major airlines including El Al, the Israeli airline, and Middle Eastern Airways.

Scotland Yard declined to say how many troops were involved in the operation, but airport sources estimated them at around 300.

Sources said army officers in charge of "Operation Heathrow" conferred Friday night with police at Ealing, where Miss Thompson was taken after her detention at Heathrow Dec. 29.

Scotland Yard said she was carrying five automatic pistols and more than 150 rounds of ammunition hidden in a false bottom in one of her suitcases.

El-Hakkaoui, the Moroccan arrested with Miss Thompson, had been president of the student body at Santa Barbara City College last year. Naseem, who was arrested Monday, was also active in Santa Barbara student politics.

Miss Thompson's aunt in Santa Barbara, Melisssa Merwin, said the girl had told her during a Christmas Eve visit that she was going to New York for "a modeling interview."

"She was used," the aunt surmised. "She's no anti-Zionist. She dated a number of Jewish boys here and had no political ambitions or feelings."

The second American girl detained was identified from papers found in Miss Thompson's possession, police said. She was picked up at Heathrow after a 72-hour watch by waiting detectives.

Security forces have rejected suggestions that the California four are working in league with Arab terrorists organizations such as Al Fatah and Black September.

Economic Director favored by one-third

One-third of 150 Sedalians contacted in a random telephone survey feel that the City Council should hire a new director of economic development.

The survey, conducted Wednesday through Friday by The Democrat-Capital, also indicated that 21.3 per cent don't think a new director should be hired, while 45.3 per cent had no opinion.

The council is expected to vote Monday night on whether to hire an out-of-town applicant recommended by the Economic Development Committee.

Of the 82 persons who answered yes or no on the issue, 60.9 per cent were in favor of replacing Bill Hall, who resigned last August.

"I think the last one did us a lot of good," Ernest L. Kettner, 2312 West First Street Terrace, commented along with his affirmative opinion.

Mrs. Clinton A. Franklin, 1013 East 10th, had the opposite viewpoint. She said: "I really don't think we need one. I think the businesses will come in if they want to."

William Shatro, 2503 Dennis Road, was against hiring a new director but added that "if they did, I feel he should be a local person."

"I don't think we got our money's worth with the one we had before," was the comment of Earl Grady, 1413 South Moniteau.

The "energy crisis" also played a part in the opinions given by some Sedalians.

G. E. Merry, 1800 South Warren, in rejecting the idea of a new director, said "I feel things are a little bit uncertain at this time."

One woman who wished to remain anonymous had this comment: "I just think everybody is concerned with the energy crisis, and I don't think the city should be taking steps to hire any economic development director in view of these circumstances."

However, Donald Brooks, 2019 West Second, took a different tack. He said he disagreed with some of the councilmen who have cited the energy crisis as a reason for not hiring a new director. "Just because there's an energy crisis doesn't mean we have to stand still," Brooks commented in casting a favorable vote.

R. D. Uhr, 2512 Anderson, agreed with that viewpoint, saying "I know there has been talk of an energy crisis, but I feel it will pass." Uhr said the community needs a director.

"Why sure we ought to get one. Who else is going to do it? No businessman will stop his business in order to scout prospects. We need a fulltime man on this job, that's all there is to it," Charles Patterson, 1800 South Beacon, said.

Mrs. R. E. Cross, 209 East Sixth, is against hiring a director even though she indicated economic development is an area needing attention. "I think it should be a combination mayor and economic development director," she said.

Mrs. N. W. Ernst, 2904 West 11th, had no opinion but she did have a comment. "I think we have to weigh things. I think this town needs something done. I don't know if the economic development director is the answer, but something should be done," she said.

Leaders meet

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger (left) said "good progress" was made over the weekend in the Mideast talks but discussions with Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan about military disengagement from the Suez Canal area were extended. (UPI)

Dayan optimistic on talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan says he thinks the Israeli Cabinet now will be ready to make a formal presentation in Geneva for the disengagement of Israeli and Egyptian forces near the Suez Canal.

"I'm going home and I do hope that the Cabinet will be in the position to form something concrete," Dayan reported after a four-hour meeting Saturday with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. It was their second meeting at the State Department in two days.

Kissinger called the talks "very constructive and very useful" and said he remains hopeful about the prospects for an agreement in Geneva between Egypt and Israel.

The secretary indicated that differences between the U.S. and Israeli positions have narrowed.

"As far as the U.S. government is concerned," he said, "we consider the talks extremely helpful and we are hopeful that progress will be able to be made in Geneva."

In discussing disengagement, Dayan was principally concerned with the "mutual commitments" that could be expected from Egypt in return for a sizable Israeli withdrawal from the canal.

Neither he nor Kissinger disclosed to newsmen the substance of their conversation on this and related points, although Kissinger said he understood the Egyptian position on disengagement "very well" and attempted to present it "as fairly as I could."

Asked when Israel would be ready to make its proposal at Geneva, Dayan replied, "I don't know. I don't think it will take a long time. By now we are already in a position to make up our minds."

The Geneva talks have been largely in an exploratory phase, awaiting the outcome of the Israeli elections held Dec. 31 and Dayan's mission to Washington.

Now, the conference apparently will move into a stage of concrete bargaining, beginning with a specific Israeli proposal to separate Egyptian and Israeli forces along the canal.

In return, Israel is likely to seek an opening of the canal to shipping and a "thinning out" of Egyptian forces on the east bank. Also, a buffer zone manned by United Nations forces.

Randall cites energy skepticism

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Rep. William J. Randall, D-Mo., said Saturday there is skepticism about the energy crisis and one reason is that William E. Simon, head of the new U.S. Energy Office, changes positions so frequently.

Randall said the skepticism is rooted in a lack of concrete information about fuel supplies, production capacities and the amount of oil imported.

"At this point, there is such a conflict and disparity of information that its difficult, if not impossible, for a member of Congress to get the facts," Randall told an interviewer.

"Of course, if that's true, it's virtually impossible for our constituents to get the facts. If we have a comprehensive energy policy at which to point, it's certainly been kept in the dark."

Rep. William Randall, of the Fourth Congressional District will hold a press conference at 2 p.m. Monday at the Bothwell Hotel.

The energy crisis will be among topics discussed. The public is also invited to attend.

Randall said when he returns to Washington he will introduce a bill which will require a compilation of data about fuel in understandable, common-sense language.

The Missouri Democrat is chairman of the Legal and Monetary Affairs Subcommittee of the House Committee on Government Operations. He said it soon will hold hearings on price increases granted in the past year to the petroleum industry by the Cost of Living Council.

"I'm certain it will require subpoenas, maybe of the oil companies," Randall said.

He has requested the Government Accounting Office to review the price increases allowed by the Cost of Living Council and the information submitted as justification for them.

Sleep lost — daylight gained

Sedalians, along with most of the United States "lost" an hour of sleep Sunday when the clocks were moved ahead for 22 straight months of Daylight Saving time.

The time change, which took effect at 2 a.m. this morning was ordered by Congress as an energy-saving measure. The country will remain on daylight time through October 1975.

By order of Congress the change will not affect Hawaii, the Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico or most of Indiana.

Arizona, parts of Kentucky and the mountain time zone areas of Idaho and Oregon were exempted by Secretary of Transportation Claude S. Brinegar, acting for President Nixon.

Ann Landers

Letter hits mothers where they live

Dear Ann Landers: The letter signed "Another Sad Mother" must have hit a million mothers where they live — and at least that many daughters.

I went through the same thing, only worse. My boyfriend was even more hopeless than her daughter's. Her guy was just a lazy slob who couldn't hold a job. My Joey was a junkie, wanted by the police for stealing, mugging and whatever else junkies have to do to support their habit.

My mother kept threatening to turn me in to the police for keeping company with him. I begged her not to. Finally she compromised and told my high school principal. My life became a living hell. I kept fighting everyone who tried to break us up. The harder they tried, the more I defended Joey.

As I look back I see what pressure can do to a normal person. It nearly drove me insane. When Mom finally gave up and let me alone I decided to drop Joey. The day I did that, my life took a turn for the better.

I am now a sophomore in college. I can't believe that was me back there. I must have been crazy. Today I wouldn't go near a guy who shoots up. But I had to decide on my own what to do with my life. I couldn't let anybody do it for me. — Got It All Together

Dear Together: I received a blizzard of letters from girls who had similar experiences. It was no easy job selecting the best letter to print. Thanks to all who wrote.

Dear Ann Landers: I had a sister-in-law just like "Rattled" and it was you who helped me solve the problems. I refer to the dear friends and relatives who simply won't stay out of your kitchen when you are entertaining. You ran a poem in your column a long time back and suggested I tack it over the sink. I did better than that. I had my artistic daughter make a canvas and I did it up in needlepoint. It is now handsomely framed and hanging on my kitchen wall.

In case you've forgotten it, Ann, here it is:

Please stay away from my kitchen,
From my dishwashing, cooking and such.
You were kind to have offered to help me
And I do want to thank you so much.
I hope you won't think me ungracious
When I ask that you leave me alone.
For my kitchen is not very spacious
And my system is strictly my own.
So please stay out of my kitchen,
It may well prevent a few wars.
And when I am invited to your house,
I promise to stay out of yours.
— An Admirer

Dear Ad: Thanks a lot. I HAD forgotten. It was good of you to remind me.

Confidential to Dead End: The end that is dead is your head, kiddo. Stop wasting time and energy trying to place the blame. No wound will heal if you continue to pick at it.

What's prudish? What's O.K.? If you aren't sure, you need some help. It's available in the booklet: "Necking and Petting — What Are the Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Farm exports key strategy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Record farm exports are continuing to be the mainstay in Nixon administration strategy for putting U.S. trade with other countries on a sound footing for the first time in three years.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, who has vigorously opposed suggestions for curbing foreign deliveries of U.S. grain and other commodities, estimated Thursday that farm exports in calendar 1973 jumped to a record of about $17.4 billion.

That would be up approximately $8 billion from the previous high of $9.4 billion in 1972, Butz said in a statement. Most important, he said, last year's farm sales exceed agricultural imports by a wide margin.

"Agricultural exports for 11 months of 1973 were $15.7 billion against agricultural imports of $7.6 billion," Butz said. "Meanwhile, nonagricultural exports were $48.2 billion, compared with nonagricultural imports of $55.7 billion."

Thus, according to Butz's arithmetic, the surplus in U.S. farm trade last year "put this country well on the way to its first favorable trade balance since 1970."

In November alone, the most recent month calculated, farm exports totaled more than $1.2 billion and offset deficits in non-agricultural exchange by about $300 million for the month, Butz said.

The statement by Butz and the figures on U.S. trade followed a report last week by the Commerce Department showing similar statistics. Asked why USDA seemed to be duplicating the earlier announcement, one department press officer said, "Commerce plays down agriculture, so we put out our own stuff."

The farm export figures also were on a calendar-year basis, despite a practice of also computing them on a fiscal year standard.

"American farmers, by virtue of their superior ability to produce, have marketed enough products to foreign customers this year (1973) to offset the value of all our imports of coffee, cocoa, bananas and other agricultural products, of all our petroleum imports for the year, plus a substantial balance to apply against other nonagricultural imports," Butz said.

Replacement

Saxbe: a 'law and order man'

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Casting himself as a "law and order man," William B. Saxbe has taken over the Justice Department as the nation's 70th attorney general.

"I pledge," he said as he took the oath of office Friday, "that I will operate this office as to bring credit on law and the legal process in this country, on courts, on individual lawyers."

"People ask me, 'Are you a law and order man?' The answer is yes, because law is for the purpose of bringing order in our society....

"What I mean is society operating in a manner as to give each individual the opportunity to express himself without fear of Big Brother taking over, without fear of Big Brother interfering in his personal life, without the fear of Big Brother doing those things outside the scope of the law in the name of protection, in the name of defense."

The balding 57-year-old veteran of Ohio Republican politics turned to the Old Testament book of Micah for his theme as attorney general. The verse he chose: "What doth the Lord require of thee but to do justice and love mercy and to walk humbly with thy God?"

"This is a big order," Saxbe said, "but one that I'm determined to do to the best of my ability."

Then he summoned Harold Hughes, the senator who is leaving politics to become a religious worker, to pray for the success of the Saxbe administration.

The solemn conclusion of the half-hour ceremony was unusual for such occasions. In other ways, the swearing-in at the department's Great Hall fit official Washington's formula complete with inside jokes, a military band, applauding well-wishers and the bureaucrats' best effort at a show business touch.

But there was another unusual circumstance: the presence at Saxbe's side of his two predecessors, Elliot L. Richardson and Richard G. Kleindienst.

Both resigned the office under pressure, Kleindienst because of his close association with a number of those implicated in the Watergate scandal, and Richardson because he refused to obey President Nixon's order to fire Archibald Cox as special Watergate prosecutor.

Saxbe made no direct reference to the Watergate case and alluded to it only once when he spoke of government officials exceeding the bounds of the law "in the name of protection, in the name of defense."

Two Lindbergh busts stolen from Memorial

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Thieves using baseball bats to break windows entered the Jefferson Memorial in Forest Park Friday night and escaped with a pair of sterling silver busts of Gen. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.

The busts, which were about eight inches high and weighed about two pounds apiece, were valued at $25,000 each, a museum spokesman said. He called the busts irreplaceable.

The Lindberghs received the busts from Japanese sculptor Fukuhgra in honor of the Americaan's flight to Tokyo.

Also taken, police said, was other Lindbergh memorabilia, including a ten-inch gold cup commemorating the pilot's historic solo flight across the Atlantic and a gold picture frame.

Airport generates new debate

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Controversy and speculation has increased in recent days among parties interested in the 2,500-page report on the Columbia-Waterloo area as a site for a new major airport for St. Louis.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch said Friday that it had learned that Alexander P. Butterfield, head of the Federal Aviation Administration, had recommended the plan in the report the FAA turned over to Transportation Secretary Claude S. Brinegar last week.

A spokesman for the FAA said Friday, however, that the agency had made no recommendations on any airport plan for this area.

Brinegar will have the final decision on the airport, which Illinois officials have tried for three years to obtain for the Illinois portion of the metropolitan area.

Rep. James Symington, D-Mo., said yesterday that he believes the report should remain on Brinegar's desk until the nation's long-term energy supply can be predicted. Symington said it would be folly for the federal government to make a commitment on a project that could cost up to $2 billion until it was sure there would be enough fuel for the airplanes and automobiles that would use the airport.

Rep. Melvin Price, D-Ill., said, however, that the Transportation Department should expedite approval of the Columbia-Waterloo site in order to avoid higher construction costs in the future.

A spokesman for Missouri Gov. Christopher Bond said Friday that state officials have not been notified that any decision has been made on the airport site. Bond and other officials have urged President Nixon to delay any decision until a master plan for expansion of Lambert St. Louis International Airport is completed.

The Phoenix Nest

Edited by Martin Levin

By DERECK WILLIAMSON

A familiar movie plot involves a newspaper photographer who inadvertently takes a picture of somebody being murdered, and then spends the rest of the movie being chased by the murderer.

The photographer never sees the murder taking place. He is too busy photographing the parade... It is only when he gets back in his darkroom and holds a tiny negative up to the dim light that he spots the crime, fourth story up, fifth window from the right, through the curtains.

He breaks out in a cold sweat, and the chase is on. A murderer can sense a sweating photographer 20 blocks away.

It doesn't happen that way in real life. I've been taking newspaper pictures for years, but of nary a murder. However, I often take pictures of things that people don't want photographed. They don't wait until I get in the darkroom; they tell me about it immediately.

Here are some typical scenes, familiar to any newspaper photographer:

Scene: A woodland clearing, two hunters in middle distance. The photographer has just taken his Annual Fall Foliage shot — nice clouds, framed by a gnarled oak. One of the hunters approaches.

Hunter: Er, ah, say Mac, did you get me in that picture, carrying these 13 rabbits?

Photog: Yeah, I guess so. I don't know if you'll be able to see the rabbits in the paper though.

Hunter: Well, I got too many rabbits. Maybe you can shoot the picture again with only a couple, eh? Otherwise me and my big buddy here might get mad and you wouldn't want that to happen, would you?

Newspaper photographers also have a difficult time shooting circus and carnival scenes. Everybody on the lot is Wanted.

Photog: This is a great shot! Why not?

Vendor: Maybe it would be better nobody sees my face. Tell you what, I'll turn my back and put my coat over my head like this. Now you can take it.

Fisherman: Er, ah, say Mac...

Photog: Look, I only have part of your ear in the shot. You're casting, and your arm covers your face. Nobody will ever recognize you.

Fisherman: My boss knows this hat and this shirt. If he sees them in the paper I'm real trouble. I'm supposed to be on the road.

Sometimes a grapherapher gets so weary of the whole routine that he disobeys standing editorial instructions and shoots a scene containing no people at all.

Photog: (To himself, as he folds tripod.) That wraps it. A landscape, and nobody bugged me. Oh no. Who's this weirdo running across the field?

Photog: The field. For the paper.

Photog: (Squinting at distant greenery) So what's wrong with the field?

Weirdo: The field's okay; it's the stuff growing in it.

Mind your money

Rush for the buses is on

By PETER WEAVER

We're going to see a dramatic "changing of the wheels" throughout 1974 as more and more of us are forced to switch from personal transportation to public transportation.

After the airlines cut off short-haul, fuel-consuming flights, some communities will find that buses are the only sure way out of town. Many bus companies are already crammed to capacity during peak hours.

Local transit buses, wherever they exist, will start getting passengers they've never seen before (car commuters). With our airline wings clipped and personal wheels restricted, the rush to buses might reach frantic proportions this year.

You're advised to grab local transit and inter-city bus schedules for your home transportation file. Wherever possible, plan your local and long-distance trips around these schedules.

You may have to combine modes of transportation. Travellers don't go from one terminal to another. They travel from home to work, from work to another office out of town and back home again. You may have to use a variety of local transit, inter-city bus, train, plane and other combinations.

When you start looking into inter-city bus schedules, you'll find that, with rare exceptions, there are no reservations. First come, first served. If you have to change buses in some distant city, there's no assurance you can get a seat (especially during peak hours).

You'll also find that the inter-city bus driver has a seatbelt but passengers are not provided with this proven safety device. Seatbelts will be put in buses when passengers begin to demand them.

There's another surprise for first time or infrequent bus travellers. You can't use credit cards to pay for tickets. You have to come to the bus terminal and pay cash on the barrel-head for your tickets. This is most inconvenient and could even be dangerous for passengers who must come to an isolated terminal, with cash, after dark.

Most companies will accept bank cashier's checks, money orders and travellers checks — if, you have plenty of identification.

James Kerrigan, president of Greyhound Bus Lines, says "we'd love to offer credit card service, computerized reservations and other amenities, but we can't afford it ... The government (federal and local) spends money on airports and trains (Amtrak), why can't we get some help?"

Greyhound, Trailways and other inter-city bus lines may well need some help this year. Last year these companies hauled 387-million passengers, which is double the combined totals for trains and planes. And, buses are expected to be jammed with even more passengers this year.

Some bus operators are ordering new buses and are keeping the old ones instead of trading them in. Why? You guessed it. Like everything else, there's a shortage of buses and bus manufacturing capacity.

The speed inter-city buses travel is important. If buses are limited to 50 or 55 miles per hour they might not be able to handle the passenger load. To attract passengers away from more wasteful modes of transportation (auto and air), buses should be able to go 60 miles per hour.

When businessmen, politicians and other people with clout suddenly have to ride buses, then you might see an upgrading of the service from a reservation system on up to better and more conveniently located terminals.

Meanwhile, try not to travel during major holidays. Get your schedules in hand and start plotting: "How do we get from here to there in the best time, for the best price, and with our hides in one piece?"

Railroad may face a merger

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Penn Central, America's largest railroad, faces possible consolidation with six other bankrupt lines under new leadership.

William H. Moore, Penn Central president and chief executive officer, disclosed Friday that he had resigned, citing new problems forced on the line by a federal law which could result in the consolidation.

A railroad spokesman said Moore, 59, of Potomac, Md., would continue to serve in an advisory capacity.

He is expected to be succeeded by Jervis Langdon Jr., 68, one of three Penn Central trustees appointed by a federal judge overseeing the line, undergoing reorganization under federal bankruptcy laws.

A lawyer, Langdon has spent his entire career in the railroad industry. He became general counsel of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad in 1954 and president in 1960. He later served as chairman of the board and president of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad.

Penn Central said Moore relinquished his duties on Wednesday, the day President Nixon signed the Regional Rail Transportation Act, under which the seven rail lines could merged with the help of $500 million in federal subsidies and $1.5 billion in loan guarantees.

Gas station operator designs sticker system

SALEM, Ore. AP) — Phillip Webb wants to protect his regular service station patrons during the gasoline shortage. So he's designed a system of windshield stickers and will ration fuel on a priority basis.

Doctors, nurses and operators of emergency vehicles will get No. 1 stickers and all the gasoline they need. Commercial vehicles — like delivery trucks, construction vehicles and autos used by commuting salesmen — will get No. 2 stickers and full tanks when there's enough gas, he said.

Regular customers will get No. 3 stickers and 10 gallons of gas. New patrons without stickers will get 5 gallons as long as supplies last.

Webb said he may set up one pump for stickered cars, allowing them to get gas quickly.

Making his 40,000 gallon-a-month allocation last has become increasingly difficult for Webb.

Last June he began closing on Sundays. In September, the station cut weekday hours and closed for a half-day on Saturdays.

Last Saturday he opened promptly at 6 a.m., pumped 1,600 gallons of gas in two hours and was forced to close at 8 a.m. despite long lines.

Webb said he devised the system because:

"It's disheartening to see the elderly women and families who have traded with us for two or three generations amid miles of strangers waiting in line with helpless looks on their faces wondering if they will get gas."

"I had to decide which individual behind the wheel is important to me," he said. "And that's the steady customer."

He expects to pay $50 to $100 for the stickers, which are being printed this week. In the meantime, he will examine his ledgers of 400 to 500 active accounts and set the priorities.

He is sending letters to regular customers and advertising the system to discourage drivers who have been skipping from station to station.

Halfway house is new Irving home

NEW YORK (AP) — Clifford Irving, author of one of the great literary hoaxes of the century — the faked autobiography of billionaire Howard Hughes — has been transferred from federal prison to a Manhattan halfway house.

At the Manhattan Community Treatment Center, a spokesman said Friday that Irving will be granted passes to visit his family. His wife, Edith, is in Switzerland, awaiting retrial of a conviction for her role in the $850,000 autobiography hoax. She had served a term in this country and was sentenced to two years on a Swiss conviction last March.

The couples' two children are expected to be brought here from Ibiza, Spain, to be with their father during his hours of freedom.

The spokesman said the purpose of Irving's confinement here is "to help him adjust to his impending release from prison." He is due for parole Feb. 14.

Fighting along Suez front continues

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The United Nations observer force reported Saturday that an Egyptian cannonade began an intense artillery, tank and mortar clash that erupted late Friday on the edge of Suez city.

Deputy spokesman Birger Hallden said the fighting broke out when Egyptian artillery in Port Taufiq, east of the canal opposite Suez city, opened fire and big Israeli guns on the west bank replied.

Hallden said, "The incident lasted two hours and eight minutes."

The Israeli command in Tel Aviv reported two of its soldiers were wounded in the fighting. There was no report of any Egyptian casualties.

Israeli forces opened up with machine gun and small arms fire about 1½ hours later near Suez city, sparking a second clash that lasted more than an hour, Hallden said.

Units of the Egyptian 3rd Army east of the canal are surrounded by Israeli troops who established a beachhead west of the waterway during the final hours of the October Middle East war.

The Egyptians have declared that in reality it is the Israeli west-bank beachhead that is trapped.

Envoys from the two nations are negotiating a pullback in Geneva designed to reduce frequent clashes along the jagged cease-fire lines.

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan and U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, in a four-hour meeting in Washington, apparently reached agreement on the disengagement proposal that Israel will make at the Geneva talks.

Following the meeting, the second in two days, Kissinger said the U.S. and Israeli positions "have approached each other very substantially."

He said the Israeli government, on the basis of Dayan's meetings in Washington "and its own consideration" will now "formulate some proposals for formal consideration in Geneva."

Skylab laser research

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — A Skylab experiment with lasers may help create a system to guide future spacemen and control unmanned satellites used for earth studies, a space agency official said Saturday.

Skylab 3 astronauts Gerald P. Carr, William R. Pogue and Edward G. Gibson easily sighted a concentrated beam of light flashed at them Friday from the Goddard Spaceflight Center in Greenbelt, Md., 272 miles below.

"I've got the laser loud and clear," said Pogue. "Boy, it's the brightest I've ever seen it. It's great, their track is just as steady as can be."

The light beam was first run on one watt of power and then reduced to a third of a watt, which was also sighted by the astronauts.

"It's sort of flickering," said Pogue. "You still can't miss it. It's bright to see." Louis O. Caudill, a member of a Goddard team studying the laser, said a worldwide system of the pure, highly amplified light beams one day may be used to guide and control both manned and unmanned spacecraft. He said the lasers would give satellites a very accurate beacon to precisely locate themselves in orbit.

Fire damage reported

Fire did $100 worth of damage to an apartment house at 1301 South Ohio early Saturday.

Firemen received the call at 2:30 a.m. and used one pump bucket to extinguish the blaze, caused when a furnace overheated.

St. Omer's Commandery No. 11 will provide an honor guard and have a service at the Ewing Funeral Home at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

Members of the Masonic Lodges will conduct Masonic services at the Ewing Funeral Home following the funeral services.

Burial will be in the Memorial Park Cemetery.

Homocide in death of soldier

(Democrat-Capital Service)

FORT BRAGG, N.C., — A former LaMonte resident, Pfc. Michael Alan Griffin, 19, was apparently murdered here Dec. 31.

According to military spokesmen, Griffin was shot twice in the back with a shotgun of an undetermined gauge.

Griffin's body was found in a deserted area of the base by three hunters, an Army spokesman said.

Army officials said the death is being considered a homocide. An investigation of the incident is currently being made.

Griffin was born Dec. 29, 1954, son of Mrs. Anna Klein and late Clarence Griffin.

He is survived by his wife, Dorit, Fort Bragg; his mother, Mrs. Anna Klein, LaMonte; five brothers, Clarence W. Griffin, Plattsburg, N.Y.; Ronald E. Griffin, Oakland, Calif.; Richard T. Griffin, Lee's Summit; Lawrence E. Griffin, Lee's Summit; David W. Griffin, of the home; four sisters, Mrs. Margaret A. Martin, Lee's Summit; and Mary, Pamela and Carol Griffin, all of the home.

Military graveside services will be held at the National Cemetery, Springfield, at 2 p.m. Monday.

Officials suspect arson in fire

Arson is suspected in a fire that caused approximately $700 damage shortly after 10 p.m. Friday to a 1966 Cadillac parked in the 1400 block of North Engineer.

According to a police report, the car apparently "had been broken into and set fire." A door handle on the car was broken off, police reported.

Police said the car was parked on Engineer about 5 p.m. Friday because it was stuck in the snow.

Fire Chief Willis Jabbas said Saturday night that arson is suspected and that he will discuss investigation of the apparent felony with the police department.

"It just kind of smells like it could be (arson)," Jabbas said, "the fire department and the police department will work closely together on that . . . but so far we don't have any evidence."

A police spokesman said the police department will cooperate with the fire department in investigating the matter.

Jabbas said that arson "is not an unusual cause of fire anymore."

He noted that in 1973, four fires were caused by arson and three others were suspected as arson here.

Missouri River has ice blocks

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The National Weather Service reported Saturday that heavy blocks of floating ice covered the Missouri River all the way from Sioux City, Iowa, to its mouth just above St. Louis.

The ice was causing erratic changes in the river's level at some points, and lowlands were in danger of flooding.

Observers reported there already was enough ice in the river to keep the heavy floes pouring into the Mississippi for several days.

Nixon energy focus on research effort

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon moved Saturday toward major budget and policy decisions on an accelerated multibillion dollar research effort to make the United States self-sufficient in energy.

Roy L. Ash, director of the Office of Management and Budget, flew here by commercial jet for a series of conferences with Nixon on what aides called "a succession of major policy decisions" to be made before submission of the 1975 budget to Congress late this month.

Sources indicated their discussions focused on acceleration of a $10 billion research and development program proposed by Nixon to make America independent of foreign energy sources by 1980.

Woman supports deserter

DENVER (AP) — A Boston woman whose son died in the Vietnam war six years ago has travelled here to support an Army deserter under court martial for refusing to serve in Vietnam.

Patricia Simon, who said she recently organized the Gold Star Parents for Amnesty, is in Colorado to attend the court martial of Army Pvt. Richard Bucklin, 27, beginning Monday at Ft. Carson near Colorado Springs.

"My son would be happy that I am here, in support of a man who has ... refused to participate in the violent course of our country," Mrs. Simon said in an interview Friday.

She said the United States should stop trying to inflict punishment on war resisters and instead grant amnesty to those who deserted during the Vietnam war.

Bucklin is accused of having been absent without leave in Sweden for five years after fleeing his unit in Germany rather than face duty in Vietnam. He turned himself in to authorities in New York several months ago.

Scheduled to be called as witnesses at Bucklin's court martial proceeding are folk singer Joan Baez, Dr. Benjamin Spock, the baby doctor, actress Jane Fonda, and Pentagon papers figures Anthony Russo and Daniel Ellsberg. All were prominent in the antiwar movement.

Mrs. Simon said persons who demand retribution from war resisters because others died in the war are demanding an "absurd psychological punishment against people who protested the violence of war."

Gas

George Craig, DX dealer at Broadway and New York, said his Jan. 1 increase of 3.5 cents did include a 1.5 cent increase for the retailer, however. He noted that the retail margin improvement was "the first increase we've got," Craig also predicted further price increases. He said his supplier hasn't missed increasing prices for the past four months.

Azar was the only dealer who reported a decline in business. Most station operators said business is good.

Craig said he's been able to "sell all the gas I can get hold of," but added that he hasn't run low so far.

Pete White, an employe at Broadway Texaco, 2602 West Broadway, said "we're selling just about as much as we normally do." He added, however, that service work is now more essential to stations. "A service station can't make it on gasoline alone anymore," White said.

When asked if retail business has been hurt, Bill True, area field representative for Standard Oil replied, "No, not a bit." He said people are not as worried about the price now as they are about being able to purchase the gas they need. True noted that retailers for Standard in this area have merely been passing on wholesale increases.

George Chamberlin, Champlin dealer at 1601 South Limit, said he received notice of a 6.2 cent wholesale increase Friday. The increase boosts local Champlin prices to 50.1 and 53.9.

Chamberlin said that four years ago, gasoline retailers were allowed to make a 20 per cent profit while federal regulations now allow only 16 per cent. "The government tells you how much you can charge and your profit so where's your freedom?" he said.

Question

Is it considered proper to shop for a funeral in advance of need?

Answer

It is certainly proper and an indication of mature judgment to evaluate the goods and services available at different mortuaries while you are in good health and capable of making a rational judgment.

We sincerely urge people to come to our chapel at any time and simply look around. Visitors are always welcome in our casket display room where they will find every casket plainly marked with a price. We welcome the opportunity to show anyone our service rooms and to discuss all of the things included in a funeral service price. It is smart to be informed concerning funeral cost.

Local industries escape major energy crunch—for now

By JACK SCHICHT
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Sedalia industries, in general, have weathered the energy crisis so far with few big problems.

None of the spokesmen for 14 companies contacted cited energy shortages at the plant. Rather, they said the major problems encountered so far have been transportation delays and shortages of raw materials, especially petroleum derivatives such as plastics.

Specific problems vary. Some companies reported no problems of any kind while at least two industries blamed the energy crisis, in part, for layoffs.

Gerry Seim, plant manager at the Permaneer Corporation, manufacturers of pre-hung doors, said the company's work force is "at bottom." He said about 150 persons are employed at Permaneer now, about half the number employed during peak production.

"The energy crisis is hurting more than just in operations," Seim said. "It's hurting businesses in the marketplace.

"For example," he continued, "we had an account in Ohio cancel an order because he couldn't get enough plywood for his building project. He had to postpone the whole project. He couldn't get the plywood because of a shortage of propane for drying plywood."

But the energy crisis is only part of the problem for building-related industries. "It's also a combination of tight money and a downturn in the construction industry," Seim said.

Another industry hurt by the energy crisis is Klassic Manufacturing Co., maker of recreational camper equipment.

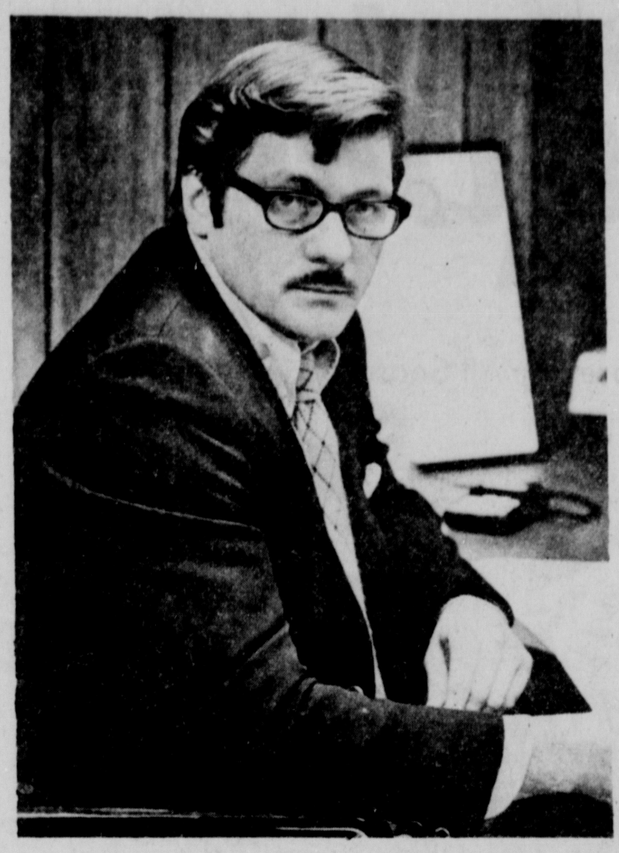

Company spokesman Jim Lewis said the public's reaction to the energy crisis has resulted in fewer campers being sold. "The whole industry has been hurt," he said.

Recently, Lewis said, Klassic laid off all but 20 of its employes. At peak, the company has about 60 to 70 employes, he said.

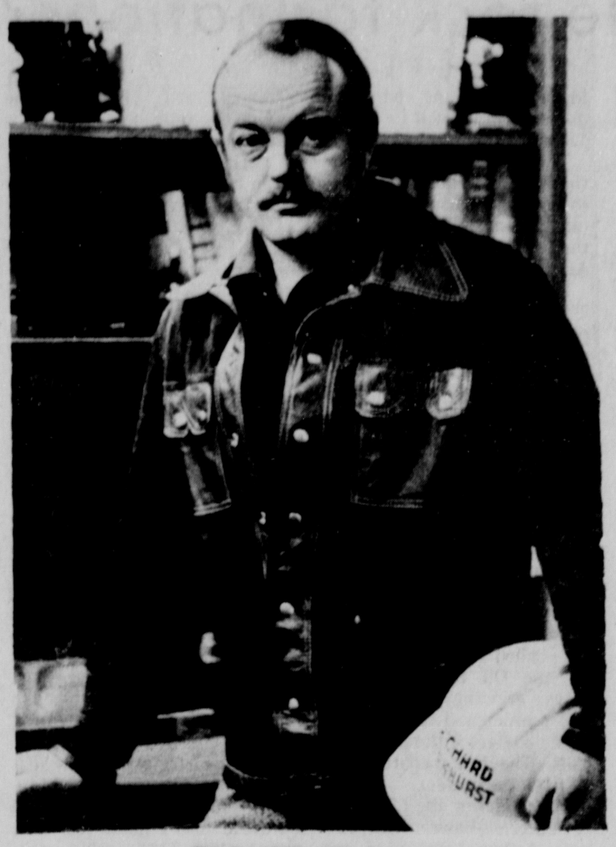

Lewis indicated, however, that a shortage of fiberglass resin and not a shortage of gasoline itself caused the recent layoff. He explained that personnel had to be given time to come up with a new method to construct certain items using a substitute for the fiberglass resin.

Lewis said that production would probably pick up soon. "We have orders to fill," he said.

Industries hampered by a shortage of plastic products are Zephyr and Parkhurst manufacturing companies and Town and Country Shoes.

Richard Parkhurst . . .
. . . one thing, then another

Plastic is scarce

Charles Huddleston, vice president at Zephyr, manufacturers of mops and brooms, said, "Some of the plastic articles are beginning to get tight . . . and they have gone up in price, too."

Huddleston said the company is being allocated its plastic products in much the same manner that gas stations are allocated gasoline. Huddleston said, though, that the plastic shortage has not affected production yet.

Kenneth Grott, manager of manufacturing at Town and Country Shoes, said the company has been hampered by shortages and shipping delays of man-made materials that are used in the manufacture of shoes.

"So far it's been mostly delays in shipping," Grott said. "They haven't hurt us yet, though."

Richard Parkhurst, executive vice president at Parkhurst, manufacturers of truck and trailer bodies, said the company has had trouble obtaining plastic splashguards.

"We've had trouble getting petroleum products of all kinds," he said, adding that the company twice last year ran out of petroleum-based products.

"As far as singular problems," Parkhurst said, "so far it's been one thing this month and something else next month."

Parkhurst, Grott and Huddleston said that the energy crisis has not necessitated any layoffs. All three said they did not anticipate any in the near future.

Not all Sedalia workers have been so lucky, however. William Giles, manager of the State Employment Seucrity office in Sedalia, estimates that approximately 100 persons have lost their jobs in Sedalia due to the energy crisis. "And this is a conservative estimate," he said.

However, Giles was quick to point out that unemployment claims "are not much higher at this time than in previous years.

"There is nothing to indicate that any general unemployment trend is attributable to the energy crisis . . . although I am surprised the figure (energy-related layoffs) is not higher."

Blame the crisis

During a one-day poll in December of 225 claimants for unemployment compensation, Giles said 50 of them — or 23 per cent — stated they were out of work because of the energy crisis. The claimants were from Pettis, Johnson and Morgan Counties. Most of the energy-affected claimants, Giles said, were employed in either construction or manufacturing.

"The real question," Giles said, "is will these people go back to work?"

Those who are employed now are working in slightly colder conditions than last year at this time. Virtually all the companies contacted said that thermostats have been turned down in the plants and offices.

And most of the industries said that they are now keeping closer tabs on all raw materials, especially petroleum derivitives.

Dick Van Dyne, vice president at ADCO Inc., manufacturers of chemical products, said shipping delays and shortages have forced the company to order products six months ahead.

"Before, we would order a month ahead," Van Dyne said. "Now we order six months in advance and hope we'll get it."

Energy summary

The following spokesmen summed up their energy-related problems as follows:

Paul Jensen and Co., manufacturers of electric motors: "We're experiencing some shipping delays . . . which are a little painful," said George Berenyi. "The truck lines are not as anxious as they once were to ship half-empty."

Lamy Manufacturing Co., maker of clothes: "At the moment we haven't had any problems," said H. W. Swearingen, vice-president. He said the company's plant is not a big user of energy and most of the shipping comes via rail. Railroads have not been affected as much as the trucking industry due to the energy crisis.

Rival Manufacturing Co., manufacturers of small appliances: "We've not had any ill effects so far at the Sedalia plant," said Bill Hall, manager of community relations. Hall, noting a 40 per cent increase in business for the company over last year, said that Rival would probably hire 25 to 30 new employes at the Sedalia plant around the "middle of 1974."

Bell Telephone Co.: "We're not being curtailed in any way," said Robert Eidson, a supervisor. "We've got plenty of gas for the trucks . . . and our supply of phones hasn't been affected by the plastic shortage. Actually, our biggest problem (nation-wide) has been getting enough wooden poles."

Missouri Pacific shops: "The only way it has affected us is in the lowering of temperatures," said Harry Satterwhite, chief clerk. Satterwhite noted that as an interruptible customer, the shops face a cutoff of natural gas. He said that in case of a cutoff, the company can easily convert to oil, which it has done in the past. Satterwhite said that the biggest problem for the shops is in obtaining steel products.

Olin Conductors: "Delays rather than shortages" of insulation (another petroleum derivative) has created problems, said Robert Hardwick, plant manager. Hardwick said the company's production has not been curtailed but that backlogs of material are lighter. "We laid the groundwork a long time ago. None of us were caught unaware (by the shortages)," he said.

ADCO: "We're harder hit than most," Van Dyne said. "It's caused a lot of headaches . . . We've got people working all the time finding alternatives (to petroleum derivatives used in ADCO's products)," he said.

Home Building Corporation: "We haven't been hurt yet because of the energy crisis," said Neal Reyburn, president of the company. Reyburn cautioned, however, that a lack of gasoline for the company's trucks "could alone shut the plant down." Reyburn said, "We've had more of a problem getting steel than any energy shortage."

Duke Manufacturing Co., producers of food service equipment: "We haven't had any problems and don't anticipate any," said Ivan Stewart, plant manager.

Farm parity establishes new high

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unofficial Agricultural Department computation puts the 1973 farm parity ratio at its highest point since 1954, pushed there by among other things the Russian wheat deal.

The ratio expresses as a percentage the relationship of prices farmers get for raw products and the cost to produce them. Although not directly a measure of farm income, the ratio does reflect at a given time how well farmers are doing.

In addition to the ratio, the Agriculture Department reported Wednesday that farm prices, recovering slightly from three months of decline, increased 1.5 per cent in the month Nov. 15 to Dec. 15.

The parity ratio, allowing for a similar boost in expenses, remained unchanged from mid-November at 89 per cent. Theoretically, farm prices and costs are in harmony at 100 per cent.

Statisticians in USDA say they will not compute the annual parity ratio for 1973 until later. An unofficial computation put last year's indicator at 88 per cent.

At that level, the ratio was the highest since 1954 when it was 89 per cent. It has not been 100 per cent for an entire year since 1952, during the inflationary cycle prompted by the Korean War.

The 1973 rate, up 14 points from a year earlier, also eclipsed the high mark of 80 per cent registered during the Democratic presidential years of 1962 and 1966.

Politically, at least for farm-belt voters, the remarkable upturn in the ratio last year proved at last a campaign point Nixon made in Des Moines, Iowa on Sept. 14, 1968.

At that time Nixon said the Democratic farm record was tragic and that the parity ratio of 74 per cent which then prevailed was an "intolerable" level.

But in 1969 the ratio sagged as farm production costs, boosted by the inflationary whirlwind sweeping the country, soared much more rapidly than prices received by producers of food and fiber.

For all 1969 the ratio averaged 74 per cent, the rate Nixon said was intolerable. And it would rise. By December 1970, the indicator slumped to 67 per cent, the lowest since the depths of the nation's worst economic depression 37 years earlier.

There were ups and downs for another year. Then, beginning with the massive sale of U.S. grain to the Soviet Union, farm prices began to rise. So did retail food prices, so that in 1973 consumers saw eating costs go up at unprecedented rates.

By mid-December it was clear farmers would reap record profits in 1973 of more than $25 billion, up more than 20 per cent from 1972 which had been another record.

Thus, at yearend, wheat was averaging a record farm price of $4.78 per bushel, up from $1.32 only 18 months earlier. Although down from peaks last August, meat animal prices were 15 per cent higher than in December 1972.

All of them helped bolster the parity ratio and their momentum going into the new year caused economists to predict that 1974 will be another good time for farmers.

If one development can be linked with the upsurge in the parity ratio, record farm income and high food prices it is the tremendous export demand for U.S. commodities.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, who has called the parity ratio an outmoded indicator of farm well-being, has been among the staunchest supporters of unfettered farm trade.

In a statement Thursday, Butz called attention to the contribution farm exports make to U.S. trade balances. For all of 1973, he said, farm exports more than made up for deficits in foreign sales of nonagricultural products.

"This is proof once again that agriculture's export trade is essential, not only to farm prosperity, but also to our national economy," Butz said.

Although he did not, Butz could have added that huge farm exports, which have drained off U.S. food reserves to an alarming degree, also have bailed out Nixon from the embarrassing parity ratio dilemma the administration endured in its early years.

Behind the shortage

Does the answer lie in shale rock formations?

By PETER ARNETT
AP Special Correspondent

The Rocky Mountain states have some of the most dramatic scenery in the United States. And under those gnarled rock outcroppings, semi-arid valleys and plunging arroyos is something that in an economic sense is as dramatic as the scenery: fabulous fields of shale oil.

As America faces an energy shortage, attention is spotlighted on this vast resource. Estimates of the oil locked in the shale rock formations range from 600 billion barrels to three trillion.

At America's present rate of petroleum consumption, 600 billion barrels would meet all the nation's oil needs for nearly 100 years.

Men with money say they're eager to exploit these reserves, so how soon can Americans expect the Rocky Mountain oil to flow?

"We have the technology in hand and the costs are competitive," said the chairman of the Oil Shale Corporation, H.I. Koolsbergen.

Until recently, inexpensive petroleum made shale oil uncompetitive and unprofitable. But the most inexpensive domestic crude oil has more than doubled in price in the past year and now is above $5 a barrel. Experts say oil from shale rock became profitable when petroleum passed $4.50 a barrel this fall.

But while industry knows the technological answers to winning oil from shale, it hasn't satisfied the demands of environmentalists.

The Interior Department early this year reported three drawbacks to developing shale oil:

—Disruption of land, destroying vegetation and wildlife, and scaring scenic areas. Some species of animals would be wiped out and the deer population of the Rocky Mountains reduced by 10 per cent.

—Reduction of underground water supplies and lowering the quality of surface water.

—Urbanization of rural areas with construction of roads through untouched mountains and forests.

Despite these possible drawbacks, however, the Interior Department has decided to go ahead with a program to tap the shale oil reserves. "It is in the national interest" to go ahead, said Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton. "We have developed rigorous and comprehensive environmental controls. The potential benefits outweigh the unavoidable costs and risks involved."

The federal government has a major say in shale oil development because it owns 70 to 80 per cent of the oil-bearing lands.

Of the government's eight million acres of oil shale land, only six tracts will be leased now for exploitation: two each in Utah, Wyoming and Colorado. Each tract will be only 5,120 acres.

The two richest parcels—those in Colorado—are believed to contain nearly as much oil (about nine billion barrels) as the petroleum deposits along Alaska's North Slope.

Bidding will be in January. The Interior Department expects different extraction techniques to be used in different locations.

There are patents on more than 350 methods of producing oil from shale. But only two are under serious consideration by major oil companies planning to invest in shale oil.

One is the gas combustion retort process which involves burning shale in a huge kiln. The heat forces the shale to yield its oil which is syphoned from the kiln. The other process—called Tosco, the acronym for the Oil Shale Corp.—involves grinding the shale into fine powder and then bringing it into contact with red hot iron balls. The heat separates the oil from the powder.

A scientist at the University of California Lawrence Laboratory, Arthur Lewis, has suggested the explosion of atomic bombs deep underground. The heat from the blast would make the layers of shale yield their oil.

Under present plans, most shale will be taken from the ground by conventional deep mining, with pillar-and-dome tunneling into the ground, as is done with coal.

"The amount of oil shale that can be done by strip mining is trivial," says M.A. Hassialis, a Columbia University minerals specialist who has done shale oil production studies for industry.

Strip mining, opposed by environmentalists, would mean peeling back the landscape and removing billions of tons of earth to reach the shale oil rock.

The cost of any method is huge. A Mobil Oil study indicates that an investment of $750 million is required to produce the first 100,000 barrels a day of oil. That's less than one per cent of the nation's present demand for petroleum.

And return on investment will be slow. Construction of mines and refineries will take seven years, so the first oil from shale rock won't be produced in commercial quantities until 1980 or later.

But industry experts say that if all goes well the shale oil industry could be expanded to provide one million barrels a day by 1985. That would be one-seventeenth of present petroleum demand.

Some day, the experts say, shale oil could provide 100 per cent of the nation's oil needs.

Inmate wins his case

OLATHE, Kan. (AP) — A real "jailhouse lawyer," Henry John Dolack, has won his case after spending two months doing research in the law library at the Johnson County courthouse.

Dolack, 39, had been granted permission to study in the library. Wearing jail fatigues and clanking leg irons, he sometimes disturbed the lawyers.

He helped his lawyer, David Waxse, prepare a brief contending that Dolack had been denied his constitutional right to a speedy trial because it had been 38 months since he was charged with kidnaping and raping a Kansas City go-go dancer.

Judge Phillip Woodworth dismissed the charge, stating that his decision was based on the legal arguments presented by the defense.

Waxse said the case was difficult and involved seven complicated issues and without Dolack's research. "I wouldn't have had time to prepare the briefs."

The district attorney's office said it will appeal Woodworth's decision on to the Kansas Supreme Court.

Dolack, who has spent 10 of the last 11 years behind bars, has filed a $102,000 damage suit against the dancer, now a housewife in Houston, Tex.

"Bitter? You bet I'm bitter," he said Thursday. "I've got a lot to be bitter about." He said he wants to use his knowledge of law in legal research for public defenders.

"The system is stacked against the guy who can't defend himself in church," Dolack said. "The guy who can't hire a lawyer, hire investigators or hire expert witnesses can't properly defend himself.

"The prosecution has everything in the world going for it. They have all the resources of the government."

Reporter protection gets boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — An amended bill to protect reporters against forced disclosure of confidential information has gained general agreement between a House panel and most major news organizations.

The House Judiciary subcommittee approved a bill last June, but Chairman Robert W. Kastenmeier, D-Wis., postponed further action on it while seeking backing from the news industry.

The agreement resulted from months of discussions through meetings, letters and telephone calls with representatives of the press, radio and television, and Kastenmeier said he would push for early passage in Congress this year.

Under the bill's provisions, reporters could not be compelled to disclose confidential information or its source to a federal or state grand jury or in any pre-trial proceeding.

At a trial, such disclosure could be compelled only if those seeking the information satisfied the court the information was vital to the defense or prosecution case, was unobtainable from any other source and that a vital public interest required disclosure.

The agreed-upon version of the bill strengthened the original measure somewhat by adding the pretrial section, but it falls short of the absolute protection against disclosure sought by some originally.

Most major media organizations, led by the American Newspaper Publishers Association, took part in the discussions. Participants also included the National Broadcasting Co., Columbia Broadcasting System, Newsweek, Scripps-Howard and the Newspaper Guild.

The bill faces significant opposition in Congress and also is opposed by the Nixon administration, which dislikes the proposed extention of protection to state proceedings.

Some in the news media also would prefer to rely on a case-by-case test of the First Amendment right to a free press rather than a legislative solution they contend would dilute that right.

Found an answer

Sales personnel at A. W. Champion's, a do-it-yourself shop in southwest London's New Malden district, have found their own solution to Britian's power crisis. Farmers are alerted for cattle disease spread COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Veterinary specialists at the University of Missouri warned the state's farmers Friday to be alert for two cattle diseases — grass tetany and fescue foot.

Scattered cases have been reported as cattle are more vulnerable to them in bitter weather.

Grass tetany most often hits cows about two to eight weeks after they have calves. Fescue foot is prevalent in central and southwest Missouri, where most of the state's fescue pasture is grown.

Two ounces of magnesium oxide added to a cow's daily food is the cure for grass tetany. Supplemental feeding, to keep cattle from rooting through the snow to get at fescue, is the remedy for fescue foot.

Dr. Bonnard Moseley, extension veterinarian at the university, said 50 to 75 per cent of the tetany victims survived if a veterinarian got to them quickly. Only 20 to 30 per cent of the others survived.

Missouri veterinarians reported they treated 5,270 cases of tetany in 1973, three times as many as in 1972. The onset came when wet spring weather produced a rank growth of pasture grasses which were shy of mineral nutrients.

Fescue foot is a menace to all cattle. They get humped, go lame and lose weight. They can lose toes on their rear feet, a part of their tail or the outer third of an ear.

Rule that service is tax exempt

WASHINGTON (AP) — A non-profit organization that advises women with unwanted pregnancies, including counseling on legal abortions, is an educational organization and exempt from federal income tax, the Internal Revenue Service said Friday.

Such organizations, the IRS said, are "instructing the public on a subject useful to the individual and beneficial to the community."

The IRS, which said it had been asked for an interpretation of tax laws with respect to such organizations, said personal counseling is recognized as a valid method of instruction for educational organizations.

The pregnancy counseling organization whose case led to the ruling was not named. But the IRS said the group did not provide financial assistance to the women it counseled.

The IRS said the organization was formed solely to provide free counseling to women with unwanted pregnancies by informing then of the alternative means of resolving an unwanted pregnancy.

It said discussion topics include lawful abortion, delivering and placing the child for adoption and delivering and keeping the child.

The decision is one of several relating to abortions and birth control in the past year.

The IRS has ruled that expenses for lawful abortions can be included in medical expenses in computing a medical deduction from taxes.

Expenses for birth-control pills, when prescribed by a doctor, can be counted in determining the deduction for medicines.

Request help despite crop

WASHINGTON (AP) — Laotian peasants are selling their first good rice crop in years and then turning to the United States for emergency aid when they run out of food, American officials say.

Sources in the Agency for International Development (AID), say the situation could cost the United States hundreds of thousands of dollars.

For years Laos has had a severe rice shortage and AID has supplied food to as many as 379,000 peasants a year.

The past year the crop was excellent and resulted in a drop to 161,000 in the number of Laotians receiving the American food.

The aid amounts to about 17 pounds of rice a month to each person, plus 15 pounds of protein food.

However, many of the peasants who have gone off the program have ignored advice by American experts and are not storing the surplus for seed and future consumption, officials say.

Instead, they are keeping just enough to eat for the next few months and are selling the rest.

American policy is to provide food to Laotians until they become self-sufficient. For many years, the crops have been so poor that few people could ever grow enough to feed themselves.

But the past crop was bountiful and AID discontinued rice shipments for 218,000 peasants, telling them they were on their own unless a natural disaster cut their food supplies.

That the U.S. advice to store the surplus rice was rejected is no surprise, the American sources say. The peasants not only have been hungry, they have been poor. U.S. officials say it is understandable that they would take a rare chance to pick up some money.

There is little that can be done to stop the selling, the officials say.

The only direct punishment is to refuse aid to peasants who ask for food after having sold their own harvest. Officials say it is difficult to prove that such peasants have sold their extra rice.

And even if that could be done there are humanitarian and political reasons to give the aid, the officials concede.

"How can you tell some farmer he and his family must go hungry because they tried to make a little pocket money for once in their life," one source said.

Further, Democratic Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts has been critical of the American aid program in Southeast Asia, charging the administration often has not given sufficient help to refugees in the area.

To take a hard-nosed attitude on the rice aid would only give new ammunition to Kennedy, the AID sources acknowledge.

Officials feel, the only apparent course of action is to give aid when necessary, hope for another bumper crop and continue to encourage the peasants to conserve what they have.

Shortcourse is planned

A five-week horsemanship short course, to be held via amplified telephone, will start at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 15 at the Federal Building meeting room, according to Bob Heitmeyer, area youth specialist.

Subsequent meetings will be held at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 22 and 29 and Feb. 5 and 12.

Those persons interested in enrolling should contact Heitmeyer at the University of Missouri Extension Center in the Federal Building.

Student reports

OTTERVILLE — Joy Gronstedt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gronstedt, Route 2, and a junior at Otterville High School, was recently notified that she will be featured in the eighth annual edition of "Who's Who Among American High School Students."

Miss Gronstedt is active on the high school's annual staff, the school band, glee club and has received awards in English, history, science, algebra and music. She plans to attend the University of Missouri after graduating.

Students are selected for inclusion in the volume on the basis of their academic achievement and community involvement.

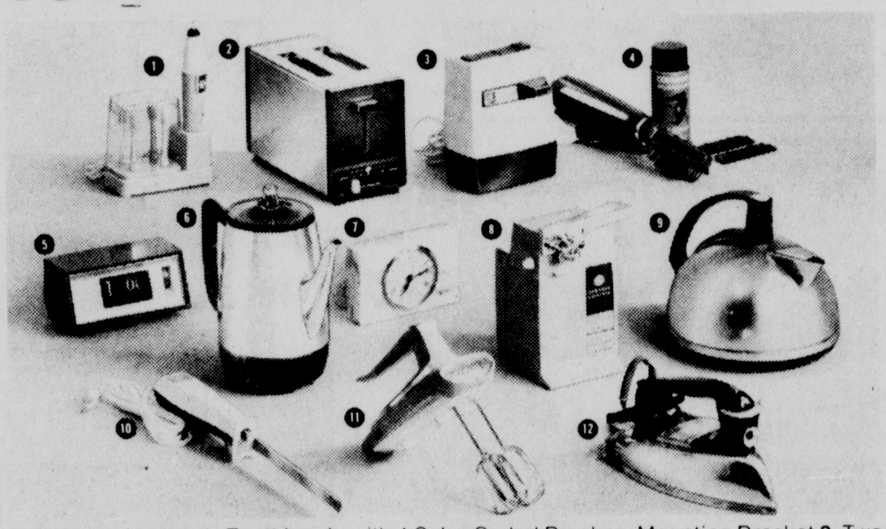

Scientists estimate that 1,000 earthquakes cause damage every year, and 100,000 can be felt.

Symphony to resume rehearsals Monday

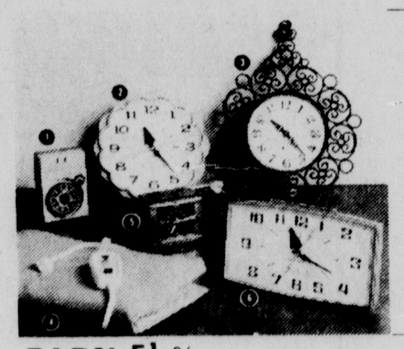

The Sedalia Symphony Orchestra will resume rehearsals at 7:30 p.m. Monday, conductor Abe Rosenthal has announced.

On Feb. 25 the orchestra will present its second concert, featuring Marilyn and Wes True, duo-pianists.

Director idea is turned down

Employing an economic development director for Sedalia met with resistance from 83 per cent of The Democrat-Capital's readers who responded to last Sunday's survey. A total of 16 responded.

They were asked: "Now that the question of hiring a new economic development director for the city seems to be coming to a head, once again, what is your opinion on the matter? Do you think the office should be filled at this time?"

Loyd B. Gardner, 152 Summer, does not. He wrote, "It looks to me that the 'city fathers' should know the honeymoon is over. They should put the money they are trying to spend on an economic development director, and other things, in the city sack and use it when they need a new broom and not go to the taxpayer with a bond issue..."

Another "no" vote was accompanied by this note: "I have written to my councilman with this same opinion — I do not think the office is as beneficial to our city as the amount of salary to be paid. Neither do I believe we recognized the results from the amount paid Bill Hall (former economic development director who resigned). It seems to me if the city can pay that kind of money, it would be better to go to a local man — if they insist on filling the position."

DEMOCRAT- CAPITAL SURVEY

QUESTION — As gasoline supplies dwindle and prices go up, the argument for gas rationing continues to be heard. Others argue that rationing would be all but impossible to administer. Do you favor rationing as one way of coping with the energy crisis?

On the opposite side of the coin, an unidentified reader wrote this: "Yes, the office needs to be filled right now. Also our good mayor should be put into office on a full-time basis, as we voted for that. The council has talked about what to pay him. Let them decide, but he is our elected mayor, so let him do his job."

Another unidentified note said, "We do not need an economic development director. It is a waste of money, which can be used for other things. If an industry wanted to come here, they will come without a person begging them to come. The town is large enough as it is. If any larger, there will be more empty buildings downtown. If one (a director) is not appointed and that part is taken from our taxes, it might be those on a fixed income could live better ..."

Charles H. Bolton, 400 West Fifth, wrote: "I think, during the energy crisis, it would be very unwise to hire a new economic director. Right now, we do not know whether we will be able to obtain enough energy to allow our present industries to operate fulltime this winter."

A letter signed by "a constant reader" said this: 'I think the office should be done away with completely. The idea of hiring an out-of-towner for the job is absolutely crazy. It seems to me that they think the home-town people are not qualified and not smart enough, but yet we are good enough to pay the salary. Have you noticed most jobs have been awarded to out-of-towners? Every city or town is different, so why not prove to our people in Sedalia that we are just as intelligent as the people from other towns and states? We didn't use to have all these fancy jobs, and Sedalia got along much better. I am very much against hiring an economic development director."

Gives up

Zanshiro Miyamoto, a 31-year-old Japanese-American who spent six torturous months trying to stretch his 5-foot-5 frame to the 5-foot-7 requirement for the Detroit police force in 1972, uses a rule to check the milling of a part at his tool and die shop. Miyamoto said that he has given up trying to join the force even though the height requirement has just been abolished. (UPI)

Find a safer way to 'thaw' people

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Two persons near death from long exposure to deep cold survived after their bodies were warmed from the inside out, officials at Hennepin General Hospital say.

Dr. Ernest Ruiz, chief of emergency medicine, said doctors thawed out a man and a woman by hooking them up to heart-lung machines and warming up their blood to a normal temperature of about 98 degrees.

The procedure was employed New Year's Eve.

Ruiz said the technique appears to be safer for the patient than the old method of thawing from the outside in by immersing the victim in water.

He said a major advantage of the machine over the tub is that the patient can be treated for cardiac arrest during the warmup.

He said it is too hazardous to try to use electrodes to monitor the heart or treat a heart stoppage of a water-covered patient.

Hospital officials identified the patients only as a 39-year-old woman and a 64-year-old man.

Both had spent the night in a snowdrift, officials said.

The woman was in cardiac arrest when she was brought into a hospital. Ambulance attendants and doctors kept her alive by pressing on her chest to assist her heart.

Surgeons hooked up the heart-lung machine, the device which makes open-heart surgery possible, to a blood vessel in her groin.

Within 15 minutes they had warmed up her blood from 72 degrees to 98 degrees. Ruiz said she recovered quickly with no signs of permanent damage and was sent home in good condition the next day.

The man's temperature had dropped to 75 degrees. His internal temperature also was brought up to normal within 15 minutes.

Energy crisis hits the U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations diplomatic corps is feeling the energy pinch like everyone else, and a few ambassadors are complaining about it.

There are more than 142 U.N. missions and scores of consulates in New York City and many of the diplomats daily commute into Manhattan by either car or train, or a combination of both.

As a result some of them have joined the hundreds of Americans waiting in line at gasoline stations.

Senegal's ambassador, Medoune Fall, complained recently that a New York policeman prevented him from getting gas and told him "African countries should go to the Arab countries to get gas."

Although his chauffeur later was able to get gasoline at the station, Fall said: "People should understand we are not here because we love the United States or New York City."

Most African countries have sided with the Arabs in the Middle East conflict.

Spain's U.N. ambassador, Don Jaime de Pinies, has suggested that gasoline pumps be installed in the U.N. garage to serve tax-free fuel to diplomats and U.N. civil servants.

Such a provision would "ensure that diplomats don't have to stand in endless long lines waiting for gas," de Pinies told the committee on U.N.-U.S. relations.

An Iraqui diplomat, Wissam Zahawie, said Fall's experience illustrated that "New York is not the most suitable place to serve as U.N. headquarters." Some countries have for years urged moving the headquarters elsewhere.

But a diplomat from the Netherlands, better off in New York than in his Arab-targeted homeland, told a reporter he saw "little reason for diplomats to be treated any different than anyone else."

During the New Year weekend, the Dutch diplomat said he waited in line for gasoline and then got only $2 worth, about 3.5 gallons.

Although the U.N. complex along Manhattan's East River is an extra-territorial enclave, the world organization has complied with New York City's energy conserving measures.

Thermostats have been lowered to 68 degrees and the lighting and fan systems carefully monitored, officials said. And since the energy crunch began, employes said they have noticed a marked dimming of lights in the corridors.

Q — I've heard that some women bus drivers take their own pre-school age children along on the buses when driving. Is this true, and, if so, how can drivers be expected to be alert and do a good job if they have to watch after their own kids? — F.B.

A — Dave Palmer, manager of School Transportation Inc., told Hot Line that two of the 10 women bus drivers employed by the company are allowed to take their small children with them while driving the bus. Palmer emphasized, however, that there have been no complaints, accidents or problems of any type connected with the practice.

"We allow them to take their children because it's difficult to get drivers for the buses and the women would not be able to concentrate fully on driving the bus if they were constantly worrying about their kids at home," said Palmer.

"We've had no reports or complaints about the small children being destructive or distracting the drivers from their job," he added.

Palmer said the pre-schoolers sit in special chairs on the buses and are strapped in. He said the practice would be allowed to continue as long as the driver's children presented no problems to the driver or to any of the children riding the bus.

Q — What became of the ordinance controlling animals? I think it's a shame the way the dogs are allowed to run loose in Sedalia. I don't appreciate having to clean up in my yard after someone else's dog, or having my garden and flower beds torn up. — Mrs. D. T. B.

A — The ordinance that stipulates an owner may not permit his pet to run free in the city is still very much in force, and employes of the Sedalia Animal Shelter are called on constantly to either capture or dispose of animals that are making nuisances of themselves.

Hot Line was informed by city officials that if stray animals are a problem in your area, you should contact the Animal Shelter or the police department to obtain assistance in having the ordinance enforced.

Vocational-technical programs are discussed

State Fair Community College (SFCC) officials and representatives from area high schools discussed Friday a cooperative vocational-technical program between SFCC and high schools in the SFCC district.

College President Fred Davis told The Democrat-Capital that SFCC officials provided information to help the schools comply with the curriculum reclassification, required by the State Board of Education. Davis said all Missouri schools will be required to offer a prescribed amount of vocational-technical programs by 1975.

Mrs. Nila Hibdon, SFCC dean of vocation technical education, said that a centralized program, such as the one proposed by SFCC, will be moderately priced, compared to the debts individual schools could accrue if they attempted to fulfill the reclassification requirements on their own.

Under this centralized program, students would be bussed to SFCC for high school accredited courses on a daily basis.

Mrs. Hibdon said that schools would contract with SFCC and the school districts billed for the number of students they send. Each school will be offered a certain number of "slots" (areas of study) and the schools will be able to choose from these according to the interests of the students, Mrs. Hibdon said.

"For example, Green Ridge and Cole Camp already have their own agriculture programs" but may need other types of vocational programs, Mrs. Hibdon said.

Mrs. Hibdon also pointed out that the schools would have the opportunity to decide the times that would be most convenient for them to transport students to SFCC. She said the college will offer vocational programs in three-hour blocks.

The vocational courses available for SFCC's cooperative program are in the areas of agriculture, health, business and office practice, electronics and welding.

Mrs. Hibdon said SFCC also has a program available to Smith-Cotton students in auto technology. Smith-Cotton students are currently participating in vocational-technical programs at SFCC, Central Missouri State University, Warrensburg, and Missouri Valley College, Marshall.

Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Allan Henningsen told The Democrat-Capital that 53 Smith-Cotton students are involved in cooperative vocational-technical programs. Regarding the program proposed by SFCC, Henningsen said each student desiring to take vocational-technical courses at SFCC will have to make a written commitment.

Henningsen also said he could not predict the plans of Sedalia school system regarding the SFCC programs because "we need to know how many youngsters will be involved."

Sedalia school system administrators and those of schools in Pettis and Benton Counties will study their individual vocational-technical needs and meet again Feb. 14 with SFCC officials.

"We tried to bring out all the points they (area schools) will have to consider in drawing up contracts, . . ." Mrs. Hibdon said.

SFCC officials also discussed the school bond issue that, if passed would provide a vocational-technical building that could be utilized in the cooperative program with the high schools.

Mrs. Hibdon said area high schools "are interested in the bond levy" because of the need for more vocational education facilities.

"This is a cooperative effort to provide vocational education to area high schools," she added.

On Watergate tape issue

Nixon's refusals will stand

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon's personal rejection of broad-scale Senate Watergate committee subpoenas for tapes and documents apparently will stand, even if the committee scales down its demands.

Nixon used strong language Friday in telling committee Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr. by letter, "I can only view your subpoenas as an overt attempt to intrude into the executive to a degree that constitutes an unconstitutional usurpation of power."

Anticipating Nixon's reaction to three subpoenas for nearly 500 tapes and scores of documents, deputy committee counsel Rufus Edmisten had predicted the Senate panel would narrow its subpoenas "to the essentials."

Nixon's letter was released simultaneously with an announcement that he has shaken up his Watergate legal defense staff, criticized recently by Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler as having made some mistakes he attributed to overwork.

To replace J. Fred Buzhardt as special counsel and chief of the Watergate legal staff, Nixon named James D. St. Clair, 53, of Boston. A senior partner in the firm of Hale and Door, St. Clair has lectured in law at Harvard University since 1955.

Also removed from the handling of Watergate-related legal matters was former Nixon law partner Leonard Garment, who had been acting White House counsel since the firing of John W. Dean III last April 30.

Buzhardt, who had been loaned to the White House by the Defense Department, where he held the title of general counsel, was appointed White House counsel to succeed Dean. Garment was named an assistant to the President to specialize in cultural affairs, voluntary action programs and civil rights matters.

Nixon wrote Ervin that "to produce the materials you now seek would unquestionably destroy any vestige of confidentiality of presidential communications, thereby irreparably impairing the constitutional functions of the office of the presidency."

He also argued it would "serve no legislative purpose which I can discern" and could impair the work of Special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said St. Clair met secretly with Nixon here Monday and participated in the decision to reject the committee subpoenas.

In Washington, Ervin responded that "there's nothing in the Constitution of the United States that gives the President the power to withhold information concerning political activities or information concerning illegal activities."

In a statement issued through his office, Ervin said the committee's search for evidence was confined to those two categories.

Nixon's rebuff to the subpoenas appeared certain to lead to a new court fight over access to White House documents and tapes of his private convensations.

Stocks available for less now

By STEPHEN H. MILLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board slashed the margin requirement for stock purchases this past week to its lowest level in more than a decade, letting investors buy stock with less cash.

Margin is the minimum amount of cash an investor has to put down to buy stock. The board cut the requirement from 65 to 50 per cent, allowing half the price of a securities purchase to be met through credit.

Many in the securities industry hoped the move would bring some life into a stock market that has sagged and suffered since October.

"This is an important step that should serve to encourage investors to take a more active role in the securities markets, and in the process it should aid the nation's capital-raising machinery," said Paul Kolton, chairman of the American Stock Exchange.

Brokers Thursday credited the margin cut and Henry Kissinger's announcement that President Nixon would take a personal role in Middle East oil talks with touching off one of the stock market's biggest rally days since the Depression.

The Dow Jones industrial average soared 25.37 points to close at 880.69, its eighth biggest one-day gain since 1929 and theolargest since last Dec. 6, when hopes were rising for a Middle East peace.

The market consolidated its gains Friday. The Dow finished the day down .46 at 880.23, but advances outnumbers declines on the New York Stock Exchange 2 to 1.

Sagging sales in large American automobiles was reflected this past week in Detroit's plan to produce cars in January at rates well below last year's levels.

The January production targat at General Motors, biggest of the automakers, was 358,000, down 29.9 per cent from actual production in January 1973.

Ford's target was down 21.5 per cent from last January's production and Chrysler was shooting 36.4 per cent lower. American Motors said it would cut large car production 10 per cent, but that reduction still left AMC's January target 3.8 per cent above year-earlier production.

All the auto companies said their 1973 production was higher than that of 1972. GM assembled 7.10 million cars and trucks, more than all three of its domestic competitors together and a gain of 13 per cent over 1972. Ford was up 6 per cent at 4.06 million units and Chrysler gained more than 12 per cent with a total of 2.22 million.

AMC's production was up 28 per cent, a total of 448,642 cars and Jeeps.

Southeastern Arizona's Chiricahua Mountains, for 300 years a rocky, forested base from which Apache warriors rode down to attack Spanish invaders and American settlers, are now called the "cheery cows" by local residents. The leading industry there is cattle raising.

Authorities believe money was primary motivator in intrigue

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Allison Thompson was a pretty teen-ager who impatiently waited on tables while dreaming of life as a beauty queen, a model and a fashion designer. But most of all, she dreamed of being rich.

Abdelkbir El-Hakkaoui was a handsome Morrocan student, so "ungodly good-looking" and charming that friends compared him to movie star Omar Sharif. "All he wanted to do was make a lot of money," one pal recalled.

Together, Allison, 18, and the man she called "Kawai" have become central suspects in a case of international intrigue, arrested in London for allegedly importing guns for a terrorist plot to assassinate diplomats.

Those who knew them in this picturesque seaside city suggest that if they were involved, the two young people probably were motivated by money, not politics.

"I think Allison hated being a waitress," said a friend from her high school days. "She once told me, 'I'm not going to be doing this much longer. I'm going to be rich.'"

Cliff Harrison, an editor who started a small newspaper with El-Hakkaoui, said the 25-year-old Morrocan was expert at "hustling" advertising accounts. "He was a traditional businessman," said Harrison. "All he wanted to do was make a lot of money."

The Morrocan's latest venture was a Santa Barbara clothing store which he ran with the help of Atler Naseen, 21, a Pakistani who was a former student at Santa Barbara City College where El-Hakkaoui was student body president.

Naseen was arrested along with Miss Thompson and El-Hakkaoui. The three were charged Friday with arms conspiracy, and London officials said a second American girl had been seized and held for questioning.

Miss Thompson and El-Hakkaoui were seized Dec. 29 after she arrived on a flight from Los Angeles and greeted El-Hakkaoui aboard a shuttle bus from Heathrow Airport to London. British authorities said she was carrying five auomatic pistols and more than 150 rounds of ammunition in her luggage.

London police said they believed the three were involved with a group planning to assassinate Morrocan diplomats, possibly including the Morrocan ambassador. Due to a rash of problems with terrorists, it took a decision at the highest levels of British government to prosecute the trio rather than deport them in an effort to stave off terrorist reprisal actions.

To Allison's thrice-married mother Jane Geza Akers, the events involving her daughter seemed "just ludicrous." Mrs. Akers, who lives in Las Vegas, Nev., said she was keeping in touch with the U.S. State Department for information about her daughter but had not tried to reach her directly. She said she could not understand Allison's involvement in such a conspiracy "unless she was duped into this."

An aunt in Santa Barbara described Allison as "naive" and said she suspected the girl "was used" by others.

Allison was born in Oregon, where her father Curt Stuart still lives, the aunt said. Although the parents were divorced when Allison was a baby, she finished elementary school there. When the mother remarried, the new husband adopted Allison. The family moved to California when she was in high school.

She attended three high schools in the Santa Barbara area, and in 1971 became a runner-up in a Miss Teen-Age America contest.

When Allison's mother moved on, the teen-ager stayed in Santa Barbara, living for a time with the aunt, Melissa Merwin, 29, a professional seamstress and mother of five children.

Some months before she was to graduate, Allison dropped out of high school and went to Oregon.

Betty Mazetti, director of the La Belle Model Agency, remembers that Allison had enrolled in the agency's modeling school when she was 16 and showed such great promise that she was given a "work scholarship." To help pay her tuition she worked as a "dresser," fitting clothes on the agency's models during fashion shows.

"This is a business of pretty people," said Miss Mazetti, "And Allison fit right in."

Then, in April 1972, Allison said she was leaving town. Miss Mazetti lost track of her until she received a letter last April. Postmarked Canyonville, Ore., Allison's letter announced that she was returning to Santa Barbara.

Last August she was back at the modeling school, paying her tuition by working as a waitress in a restaurant near the tourist-favored ocean front.

"She was a fine girl," said Miss Mazetti, "warm and charming and lots of fun to be with ... She wanted to be a dress designer, and she was very good. I saw some of her work." Because her training wasn't finished, Allison never worked as a model.

Of Allison's arrest, Miss Mazetti said, "All of us were very surprised. She never talked about politics. We didn't know she even knew about such a thing. She just was not the type to be politically motivated."

One other detail occurred to Miss Mazetti last week. She remembered that sometime last year the Moroccan who owned the "His and Hers" clothing shop — El-Hakkaoui — phoned the model agency and "said he was interested in using some models in fashion shows."

"I went to see him," she recalled. "I took along a head sheet (photographs of models) and told him about the agency ... We called him later to see if he was ready to begin using models, but he said he didn't have the money now." She said this was "quite awhile ago ... I'd guess it was before he knew Allison."

The clothing store was one of several business enterprises that El-Hakkaoui dabbled in while attending college. Last November he sold the store, which is still operating.

At Santa Barbara City College, El-Hakkaoui was student body president for the 1972-73 school year. The college campus sits on a hilltop area with a view of the ocean in the distance.

When El-Hakkaoui was graduated from the junior college, he immediately applied and was accepted at the University of California at Santa Barbara, where he enrolled last September. But about the same time he was selling his clothing store, El-Hakkaoui dropped out of school.

Fareed Hadad, head of the campus' Arab Student Association, remembers his contact with El-Hakkaoui during last fall's Arab-Israeli war.

"He had some nationalistic feelings about the Arab world, but he never mentioned anything of this sort," Hadad said of the alleged assassination plot.

"He was a charming fellow," Hadad recalled. "During the war we had tables set up on campus and we did some picketing. He helped us make banners and he sometimes sat at the tables talking to people. He would tell them about his nationalistic feelings, how the Arab people have the rights ... He never spoke about Morrocco."

Did Hadad consider El-Hakkaoui a militant? He laughed.

"I would have called him a sitting-room radical," he said.

Harrison, who is currently editor of a small newspaper, "The Town Crier," said he met El-Hakkaoui in 1971 when he joined a group starting a paper called "The Isla Vista Initiative," in a suburb of Santa Barbara.

"He was a very quiet guy," Harrison recalled, "very soft spoken and charming ... He was really ungodly good-looking. He had the looks of an Omar Sharif ... He's about six-foot-two, has a dark complexion and wore his clothes well. He always wore nice clothes.

"...He wasn't overly open with his thoughts," Harrison said. "In terms of the Arab-Israeli thing I had no clue to what he thought. I'm a Jew, and he's an Arab and he knew it, but we never had any problems ... The only political thing I ever knew Kawi to be involved in was trying to get discounts for students at the stores in town."

Sheriff won't quit his office

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — Sheriff H. C. Myers of Buchanan County says the 34-count indictment charging him with felony, fraud and oppression in office was politicaly inspired.

"I have absolutely no intention of giving up my office or resigning of anything," Myers said Friday. "You had better believe I will remain in office."

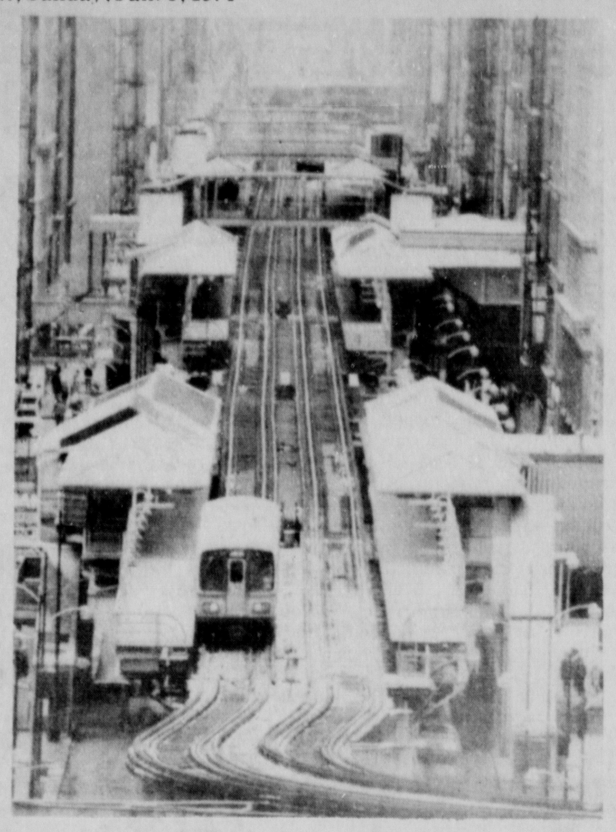

A county grand jury returned the indictment Thursday. The sheriff's son, Steven Myers, and three deputies were among persons accused of obtaining payment for guard duty in taking prisoners to Jefferson City when the services allegedly were not performed. At least $990 was involved.

Myers said he would not ask the indicted deputies to resign nor would he suspend them.

Myers, a Democrat, said the only person asking for his resignation is a Republican, Ken Christgen Jr., presiding judge of the county court. The sheriff said Christgen's move was "strictly political."

Myers was a professional wrestler 26 years before being elected sheriff in 1968.

Heider said there is no Missouri law for suspending a sheriff or his deputies while they are under indictment.

Lower speeds could save lives

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Senate Appropriations Committee was told Friday that lower speed limits will save lives in rural Missouri and that the gasoline shortage should not hurt Missouri tourism.

Officials of the state Council on the Arts pledged increased aid to locally initiated arts in Missouri in the second day of hearings on an estimated $2 billion state budget.

The new 55 miles per hour speed limit that may soon become law in Missouri might save 250 lives as a result of less fatal auto accidents in Missouri, state Highway Patrol Supt. Sam S. Smith said Friday.

Accidents in outstate Missouri could drop as much as 20 per cent, Smith said. Urban accidents are not likely to be affected as much by the new speeds, he said.

However, he noted that trends toward purchase of compact cars might cause accidents to be more serious.

He said the patrol's gasoline use dropped 12 per cent last month compared with December 1972. However, the patrol will not cut services to save gasoline, he said.

He asked for a $2.6 million budget increase in fiscal 1974-75 over the patrol's present $20.3 million funding. However, the committee was warned soaring gasoline costs could cause havoc in budgets.

Smith said overlay stickers to cover posted speed limits will be printed by Friday and could be in place within three weeks after the governor signs a new speed law. Interstate highways will get the new stickers first.

A bill allowing the governor to set the limit at not less than 50 miles per hour has been passed by the Missouri House and is in a Senate committee. The current limit is 70 miles per hour on U.S. higyways and 65 in the day and 60 at night on state highways.

Other requests included a $400,000 increase in the Tourism Commission's current $698,000 budget. Tourism Director James L. Pasley said about half of that increase is needed for advertising the state.

He said 1974 will be a good tourist year despite the energy crises and the advertising funds would be an investment to attract tourist dollars.

The agency is making money for Missouri and he said the state ranks 10th in the nation's share of tourists' spending. But he said the state ranks only 22nd in money spent for promoting tourism.

The Council on the Arts chairman, David H. Morton, cited the need for aid for locally initiated cultural programs. Less emphasis will be put on touring companies to save energy, he said.

Sen. Richard Webster, R-Carthage, told Morton to balance the agency's aid program between "the rustic wood carver and the urban orchestra cellist."

Morton agreed and said there would be continued support of bluegrass and gospel music and weaving and pottery in southwest Missouri.

Morton asked for a $1 million increase over his current $655,000 budget; however some of that increase will come from Washington.

Anti-tax bills introduced

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Bills were introduced in the Missouri legislature Friday to eliminate the state sales tax on food and medicine and to crack down on drunken drivers.

Rep. Harold Lowenstein, R-Kansas City, offered the bill which gives police officers authority to revoke a license on the spot for a person suspected of driving while intoxicated. The driver could ask the director of revenue for a hearing and could appeal any decisions to a circuit court.

Licenses could be revoked after a driver takes a chemical breath test indicating he was intoxicated, or even if he refuses to take the test.

The bill would also allow the seizing of vehicles of persons who an officer finds to be driving while his license is revoked. The director of revenue would then take legal action to sell the seized vehicle.

This proposed legislation is supported by Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth, whose office helped draft it.

Sen. Ray Howard, D-St. Louis, introduced the bill to exempt food and medicine from the state sales tax. He said with food costs having increased 20 per cent in the last year "the average family in Missouri pays more in sales taxes on food than in state income taxes."

To offset the loss in revenue to local communities, Howard's bill would have the state reimburse them through additional revenues gained in the state income tax by allowing only a 50 per cent deduction for federal taxes paid by corporations and individuals rather than the present 100 per cent deduction.

Sen. Truman Wilson, D-St. Joseph, introduced a no-fault insurance bill he said was modeled after the Kansas and Delaware laws. After he did so, the Kansas law was declared unconstitutional by a state court judge. Wilson sponsored a no-fault bill last session which died in the Senate. Several other no-fault bills also failed last session.

Sen. Howard also introduced a bill requiring fluoridation of water supplies and submitted a resolution calling for ratification of the women's Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Sen. William J. Cason D-Clinton, has introduced a proposed constitutional amendment to allow the legislature to call itself into special session upon petition of one-third of the members of both the House and Senate.

Guard's pilots restricted

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Because of the fuel pinch, Air National Guard pilots assigned to defend the United States against possible bomber attacks are allowed to fly only when ordered aloft to investigate suspicious planes, a Guard source says.

"They fly only on a direct scramble order from the North American Air Defense Command," the source said Thursday.

The pilots are barred from practicing their aerial skills, including important instrument and night flying, when they are not on runway alert even though their squadrons have been given a first line mission, the source said.

It is this ban on proficiency flying that has prompted military officials to warn that reserve pilots of all the armed services will lose their edge and national security will suffer unless it is relaxed.

Of particular concern to them is the effect on pilots belonging to 19 Air Guard squadrons which have been assigned the major responsibility for continental air defense in recent years. Only seven regular Air Force squadrons serve in that mission.

Guard officials said a part of every squadron is on runway alert at all times. Pilots draw active duty for several days in a row.

The National Guard Bureau reportedly had appealed to Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger to grant air-defense pilots an exemption from the training flight ban he imposed Dec. 21 on the air reserves of all services.

Schlesinger acted after the Federal Energy Office said it would divert up to 1.5 million gallons of military jet fuel to commercial airlines through this month.

The Pentagon had cut back Regular Air Force, Navy, Marine and Army training flights by as much as 30 per cent even before the energy office ordered the jet fuel diversion. The training of undergraduate pilots also has been stretched out to save fuel.

On Wednesday, the Pentagon announced it had asked the White House and the energy office to boost the military fuel allotment slightly to permit more regular air crew training and to "do something about the Guard and the Reserve stand down."

Killer storm came without advance notice

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Weather Service has told Sen. Tom Eagleton's office that some areas of Missouri failed to get advance warning of a tornado that killed two persons Nov. 24 in the state's Bootheel area.

The senator's office released a letter Friday from the Weather Service saying that "a breakdown in part of our distribution procedures" prevented the warning from reaching some radio and television stations.

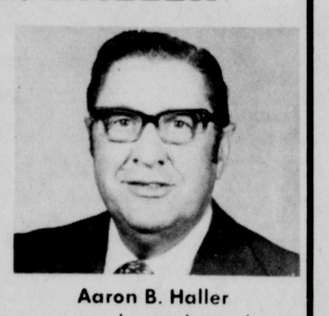

Director George P. Cressman of the Weather Service said in the letter, dated Dec. 27, that St. Louis forecasters transmitted a warning of the impending tornado to Tennessee and Kentucky weather bureau offices but Kentucky did not carry the warning on its wires to news media offices.

Cressman told Eagleton that the Kentucky office has been instructed to transmit such warnings now for areas within 100 miles of the state boundaries.

The two Dunkin County persons were killed 40 minutes after St. Louis issued the tornado warning—for which a "watch" had been in effect for four hours, the letter said.

Farm roundup

December price index still below August peak

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department's index of prices farmers get for grain, livestock, and other raw commodities rose 1.5 per cent in December but still averaged about 11 per cent less than its record peak of last August.

Although the increase in the index ended three months of steady decline, substantial price losses were reported for some individual items.

The report, issued Wednesday, nevertheless showed farm prices over-all averaged 34 per cent more than a year earlier. It covered the month from Nov. 15 to Dec. 15.

Beef cattle, including all types, averaged $37.60 per hundredweight, down from $39.50 in November. The price last month also represented a drop of nearly one-third from the record peak last August of $51.70 nationally.

Hogs were down to $38.20 per hundredweight from $40.40 in November and a peak of $56.50 last August.

But wheat soared to another record, $4.78 per bushel, from $4.20 in November and the previous high of $4.62 last September.

Corn was $2.39 per bushel, up from $2.18 in November and $1.42 a year earlier, but still trailed the $2.68 average of last August. Soy beans, at $5.65 per bushel, were up from $5.14 in November and $3.95 a year earlier.

Cotton soared to a record farm average of 47.9 cents per pound from 41.2 cents in November and 25.2 cents a year previous.

The Crop Reporting Board said its dairy index was up 2 per cent during the month, including a gain of 15 cents for fluid-market milk to an average of $9.03 per hundredweight.

While prices farmers received for products generally rose, those they pay to meet production expenses continued to climb again by 1.5 per cent during the month. In all, those prices were 17 per cent above Dec. 15, 1972.

Thus, the 1.5 per cent tradeoff between prices farmers get and those they pay out left the historical parity ratio unchanged from November at 89 per cent.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Meat imports are expected to climb 15 per cent this year to an estimated 1.575 billion pounds as the result of a decision by the Nixon administration to keep the door open to foreign beef.

The estimate on 1974 imports was announced Wednesday by Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, who is required to make quarterly estimates on how much meat is expected to be received during the entire calendar year.

President Nixon began suspended the quotas in June 1972 in an effort to dampen rising retail meat prices. The door was continued open in 1973, and Butz recently announced the quota suspension will continue this year.

Although not tabulated fully, imports of quota-type meat last year were expected to total 1.4 billion pounds.

Coal research funding sought by governor

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Gov. Robert Ray wants the Iowa Legislature to fund a sweeping state program of coal research and development to provide a medium-range solution to Iowa's energy problems.

The effort would cost $5.5 million, Ray's advisor said Friday.

The plan involves purchase of about 600 acres of Iowa land, development of a mine and coal washing facilities, and actual sale of the product gleaned from the project.

Dr. D. J. Zaffarano, Iowa State University research vice president, said it is believed possible to successfully take Iowa coal from the ground in a strip mining process, but also restore and improve the land.

A team of six to eight persons would manage the operation, Zaffarano said, and would use "some of the fancy techniques" of oil prospecting to find the coal.

State officials believe using washing techniques and developing other procedures could rid Iowa coal of enough of its sulphur content for it to meet environmental standards.

"It is estimated that enough coal lies under this state to meet Iowa's energy needs for from 300 to 500 years," Ray said.

"The cost of this project is a small investment," he explained, "when we consider the enormous potential of our coal resources in this state."

Searchers have found traces of coal in one-third of Iowa—roughly the southwest third of the state. Most of the five to eight coal mines now operating in the state are clustered along the Des Moines River, and last year yielded 900,000 tons of coal.

Most of that was used by utilities, Zaffarano said.

The Iowa State vice president explained that 450 coal mines were in operation in Iowa in 1917 but various factors caused their demise—among them the decline of the railroads, labor problems, and increased use of oil and natural gas for home heating needs.

Zaffarano explained that Iowa coal would have to be mined in radically different operations from the efforts now employed in the giant coal-producing states such as Kentucky and Pennsylvania.

He said Iowa coal lies in "lens-shaped pickets," and not in the rich, thick seams of coal-producing states.

He said this means removal of Iowa coal would call for development of smaller companies and strip mining instead of deep mines as is required elsewhere.

Ray emphasized it was not the wish of the state to compete with private enterprise in extracting coal from the soil.

"Instead, we hope that through the leadership and efforts of state government we can revive this lagging industry."

Eagleton tour is set for Missouri

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Tom Eagleton, D-Mo., will make a 10-day tour of Missouri beginning Jan. 12.

Eagleton's office said Friday the senator has scheduled eight days of public apperances, making stops in 13 cities to speak at meetings and hold news conferences.

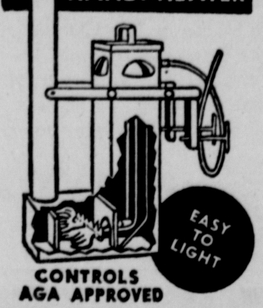

The senator was scheduled to return to Washington Friday night with a trip to Israel, Europe and Ireland that began Dec. 26.

From 70 to 55

Shortly after President Nixon signed into law a bill establishing a maximum speed of 55 miles an hour on the nation's highways, personnel of the California Highway Department pulled up to a 70-per-hour sign on the freeway in front of the President's Western White House at San Clemente and posted the new speed limit. The timing of the change was coincidental to the President's signing of the law. California changed to the lower speed limit Tuesday.

Judges promise they can be impartial

By ROY MALONE
Associated Press Writer

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Judges of the Missouri Supreme Court say they can render an impartial decision on whether low number license plates should be issued to favored persons—even if five of the seven judges have the special plates on their family cars.

Gov. Christopher S. Bond made a campaign promise to end the distribution of plates up to 9,999, saying they were a carryover of the Democratic spoils system.

Shortly before Bond took office the former Democratic administration speeded up the renewal process so that holders of low plates could have them another year.

Last fall, a Montgomery City, Mo., couple brought a class action suit to keep their low plate. It was upheld by Cole County Circuit Judge Byron Kinder, who interpreted a section of the law as meaning non-commercial passenger car licenses can have the same number reissued to them each year.

Bond said this opened the door to a broader interpretation that could require all passenger car licenses to be reissued. He said this would be a costly burden on the state and an appeal was made to the Supreme Court.

The low number plates are being reissued, pending the appeal, which probably won't be heard for several months.

Chief Justice Robert T. Donnelly's wife, Susie, has plate 3288, although she hasn't renewed it for this year.

"It would never occur to one of us that we'd be prejudiced because of a low number plate," said Donnelly. "It's kind of bad that a judge has to worry about what license plate his wife has. I guess that's the way the ball bounces."

Judge John E. Bardgett, who does not have a low plate, said "I don't consider it a conflict of interest." He said the fact that most of the judges on the high court have low number plates should not influence their deliberations.

The other judge without a low plate is James A. Finch Jr., one of two Republicans on the bench. "I wouldn't want to comment on that at all," he said.

Judge Fred L. Henley, who has license No. 107, said the question is insulting." He said having a low number "is the most inconsequential thing. . . It's the most ridiculous thing," and he saw no reason why it should influence the judges.

Judge Lawrence Holman, with numbers 4333 and 6878, said he was certain there was no legal basis for any judge having to be disqualified in the case.

"I can see how someone might think we would want to keep them," Holman said. But he added: "It's just a matter of law and we really don't know yet what the issues are."

He said he didn't think the license plates—"A little thing like that, would influence their decision."

Judge J.P. Morgan has just renewed his two low plates, numbers 824 and 1043. "I didn't want to be without a license," he said.

He said the main job of the judges is "to find what the legal answer is" and he had confidence this would be done.

Judge Robert E. Seiler, a Republican, has the lowest number of all—64. "My being on the court has nothing to do with my having a low number plate," he said. "It would be unfortunate if judges on the supreme court are awarded low number plates."

Seiler said he obtained his low number when he was a Joplin lawyer—15 years before he became a Supreme Court judge.

One of the judges said off the record he was considering not renewing a low plate and said maybe it would be better to get "a number not so distinguishable."

Meanwhile, the appeal of the low plates has not diminished.

James R. Spradling, revenue director, said his department has issued a number of low plates for 1974 to certain persons who did not have them before. He said many became available because some former holders died and others did not renew theirs for various reasons.

But Spradling said when the governor heard about special plates being given out to new applicants he ordered it stopped.

Barker paralysis is blamed on cold

WASHINGTON (AP) — Watergate conspirator Bernard L. Barker says exposure to cold while in prison caused paralysis of the right side of his face, but a prison official says the condition is the temporary side effect of a head cold.

Barker could barely speak because of the paralysis when he was freed Friday to await the outcome of his appeal.

Barker, one of five Watergate defendants who pleaded guilty to burglary, conspiracy and wiretapping in the break-in of Democratic party headquarters, has served a little more than a year of a sentence of 18 months to 6 years in prison.

Barker said the paralysis, diagnosed as Bell's Palsy, was caused by exposure to cold a week or 10 days ago while he was digging a ditch at Eglin Air Force Base in Florida, where he was imprisoned.

However, Marion Lacy, assistant prison superintendant, said, "the doctor said it was a side effect of a head cold and it didn't require hospitalization."

"It's not a permanent thing," Lacy said.

Barker was excused from work because of the ailment, Lacy said. Prisoners normally perform manual labor around the facility.

Medical textbooks say that the ailment can be treated in most cases, with good chances of recovery.

Barker was flown from Eglin to Washington, where he was freed on bond. He then went to his home in Miami.

Bernard L. Barker

"I'm back home," Barker told well-wishers and newsmen in Miami. "Now I have to go to work and work hard to raise enough money for my defense."

Barker is the third Watergate defendant to be freed pending appeal.

E. Howard Hunt, who recruited Barker and three others for the June 17, 1972 break-in, was released on Wednesday and James W. McCord has been free on $5,000 bond.

The three others, Eugenio R. Martinez, Virgilio R. Gonzalez and Frank A. Sturgis, are still at Eglin pending the decision a parole board will make in Washington on Monday.

Group wants TV station's license held

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) has asked the Federal Communications Commission to withhold operating licenses from two television stations and three radio stations in Kansas City, alleging discrimination against minorities.

Operating licenses for all Missouri television and radio stations expire Feb. 4.

Mrs. Julia Hill, president of the Kansas City NAACP chapter, said the organization's state and national boards had recommended that local chapters survey the broadcast media in their areas. She said this is the first year the Kansas City chapter has conducted a survey.

Spokesmen for the stations generally denied the allegations of discrimination, or declined to comment.

Going for scrap

The once giant red stack of the liner Queen Elizabeth is lifted off the rusted hull Saturday as the former queen of the seas is cut up for scrap. The liner, later renamed Seawise University, was gutted by a fire in 1972 and has been on the bottom of Hong Kong harbor ever since. (UPI)

Lending rate decrease

NEW YORK (AP) — Several of the nation's largest banks have announced they will lower their prime lending rates from 10 to 9¾ per cent indicating a possible loosening of the nation's money situation.

Among those lowering the interest rates for their largest corporate customers Friday were First National City Bank of New York, the country's second largest bank, and Bankers Trust of New York, seventh in size.

The decision followed similar moves within the past 10 days by the First National Bank of Boston and New York's Chase Manhattan Bank, third largest in the nation.

The prime rate is the interest banks charge their largest, most credit-worthy customers. It is not tied directly to consumer or small business loans, but it often indicates the direction in which these interest rates will go.

Former slave dies

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — Mrs. Polly Mason, a former slave born when Franklin Pierce was President of the United States, died at her nearby Woodworth home Friday. She was 118.

Recently asked to what she attributed her long life, she replied: "Red beans and rice, chewing tobacco, and a quart of corn liquor every day for the last 80 years."

Russian's book comes under fire

MOSCOW (AP) — The Kremlin went on nationwide television Friday night to attack Alexander Solzhenitsyn's latest book "Gulag Archipelago" as "malicious slander."

The stepped-up attack let the Soviet public know for the first time that the book had been published in the West.

"The lampoon is typical of his latest works," said commentator Anatoly Potapov. "... It is a malicious slander against our Socialist state."

Echoing commentaries issued earlier this week in the Soviet news agency Tass, but not carried in the Soviet press, Potapov linked Solzhenitsyn with "the enemies of detente who are searching for any method to poison the atmosphere of detente, to slander the Soviet Union and to undermine the trust in our way of life."

But Potapov did not disclose to his listeners that the work was a documentary about Soviet labor camps.

Rather he called it a "novel" and concentrated his attack on sections in which Solzhenitsyn attempts to rehabilitate the memory of Soviet soldiers captured by the Nazis.

The author "even tries to cover up for those who became traitors to our motherland in World War II," said Potapov. "Just listen to this ... the Hitlerites were merciful and indulgent toward the Russians and other peoples."

But by giving the title of the work, the commentary did tip off at least some readers about its subject. "Gulag" is the well-known acronym for the administration of Soviet labor camps.

Former commander new Tel Aviv mayor

TEL AVIV (AP) — Shlomo Lahat, who once commanded Israel's southern front, was named mayor of Tel Aviv on Friday.

The retired army general's right-wing Likud bloc won control of the City Council in Israel's New Year's eve elections.

Labor won a narrow victory in the parliamentary elections over the Likud.

Applications for defender still taken

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Applications for the job of public defender for the 13th Judicial District of Boone and Callaway counties will be accepted until Jan. 18, state Courts Administrator James M. Parkinson said today.

The Appellate Judicial Commission, which nominates judges for selection of one by the governor under the non-partisan court plan, will name the public defender.

The commission is made up of the chief justice of the Supreme Court, a lay member from each of the three courts of appeal districts, and one lawyer member from each of the appellate districts.

William G. Mays, Columbia attorney, has been acting public defender for Boone and Callaway counties. He took over after the resignation of F. Cullen Cline, Columbia.

The defender represents indigent persons charged with felonies and is paid $17,500 a year.

Applicants must be lawyers and a resident of the circuit. Persons interested can apply to Parkinson's office in the Supreme Court building or write P.O. Box 150, Jefferson City.

Weather gets some credit

Fuel consumption is reduced

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Americans used less electricity, natural gas and heating oil than anticipated in December because of energy conservation and generally milder weather in the early part of the winter, an Associated Press survey shows.

The drop in consumption, particularly of electricity, was more than 10 per cent in some areas, although utility officials and industry spokesmen said variables like the weather made it hard to tell just how much of the savings was from concentrated efforts to cut back.

They also said the December period also was difficult to analyze because of the Christmas and New Year's holidays. The holidays fell on Tuesday this year and many businesses closed on Monday as well, providing two three-day work weeks in contrast to last year when there were four-day weeks.

But there were signs of definite cutbacks.

The Delmarva Power and Light Co. took a survey in November, just after President Nixon's first energy message, and found electricity consumption had decreased six or seven per cent when weather and other variables were taken into account.

"We believe it is still holding at about the same level and held through the holiday season when consumption traditionally is up," a company spokesman said.

The Oil Heat Institute for the state of Washington said there had been a definite conservation effort in the Seattle area this winter, but said it had no figures. A spokesman said milder weather, higher prices and conservation appeals all have been factors in contributing to a reduction in the amount of heating oil used.

The Edison Electric Institute, an association of investor-owned utilities which surveys nationwide consumption, said electricity use during the week ending Dec. 22, 1973, was higher than in the same week of 1972, but a spokesman pointed out that the increase was lower than what normally would be expected.

The institute said that Americans used 36.879 billion kilowatt hours during the week ended Dec. 22, up 2.7 per cent over the same period in 1972 when consumption was 35.914 billion kilowatt hours. The figures contrasted with the four preceding weeks when 1973 consumption was lower than 1972 usage, but the spokesman said that the normal growth rate would have been 7 or 8 per cent.

During the week ended Dec. 29, 1973, usage was 31.952 billion kilowatt hours, down 1.5 per cent from the same period in 1972 when less work time was lost because of the Christmas holiday.

Police officer killsman

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — John C. Olson, 43, was shot to death by a policeman in a house Friday night when he lunged at the officer with a butcher knife, police said.

Patrolmen David Cosner, 24, and Jack D. Highly, 27, went to the house on a disturbance call and found Olson inside with the knife.

Problems

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., is suffering from a "pinhead" tumor of the bladder and has been undergoing X-ray treatments since the first week in November, his doctor said this week. Dr. Edgar Berman, Humphrey's personal physician, said, "We think we have it stopped," but added it was uncertain whether the tumor is malignant. (UPI)

Quotable women

Here are some quotable quotes from women during the week:

"Ideally in life I should have been a criminal lawyer, a criminologist or a criminal, but I don't have the personality for any of these things." Paulette Cooper, author of "The Medical Detectives."

"I don't want any publicity. While he's off being paid to do nothing, I'm here alone. I'm trying to teach school and I've got two kids and let me tell you, it's tough. I could tell you about what he did, but I'm not going to." Mrs. Edward Nixon, President Nixon's sister-in-law, speaking about her husband to newsmen who were checking reports that her husband had received a consultant's fee of $21,000 to find out where the Nixon family wanted a presidential library built.

Maham-Blevins say wedding vows

(Democrat-Capital Service)

KNOB NOSTER — Miss Jacqueline Sue Maham became the bride of Charles Robert Blevins at 2:00 p.m. Saturday, December 22, at Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Warrensburg.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Billy R. Maham, Knob Noster, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A Blevins, Knob Noster.

Miss Mary V. Hogan of Knob Noster, organist, provided a prelude of nuptial music and the wedding marches.

Mark Blevins, the groom's brother, was the best man.

Dan Maham, brother of the bride, and Wayne Hinton, both of Knob Noster, were the ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Christmas decorations were used throughout the rooms. Mrs. Oscar Wolfrum served at the table, which was covered with a white linen cloth. The three-tiered white wedding cake was decorated with red sugar roses and topped with a miniature bride and groom. There was a Christmas wreath around the punch bowl and floating in the punch bowl was a frozen wreath of red and green maraschino cherries.

The couple is at home in Knob Noster. The bride is a student at the Warrensburg Vo-Tech School and Mrs. Blevins is a student at the State Fair Community College in Sedalia.

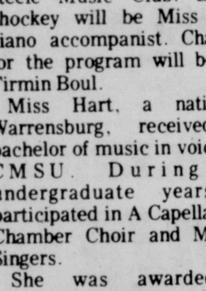

Shredded cooked cabbage, when it's leftover, may be added to cream of tomato soup. Good flavor combination!

Canned pimiento may be mixed with mashed potatoes. Finely dice the pimiento before adding.

Afternoon tea honors 1973 candidates for outstanding young woman

Mrs. Laura LaVerne Heitmeyer

Miss Nancy Louise Catron

Mrs. Connie J. Evert

Mrs. Myrna Ragar

Mrs. Myrna Lou Gorrell

This afternoon a tea will be held in honor of five young women whose names have been submitted as candidates for the annual Jaycee Wives Outstanding Young Woman Contest.

The tea will begin at 2 p.m. at the Farm and Home building. Jaycee Wives will sponsor the event. Everyone is welcome to attend.

The contest, which seeks to honor women between the ages of 21 and 35 who serve their families, churches and communities in outstanding manners, was open to all civic, social and church organizations as well as individuals.

Each candidate has been judged on the basis of a form submitted by the nominating organization which states the outstanding work or activity participation of the nominee from Nov. 1, 1972 to Nov. 1, 1973.

The winner will be announced at the Distinguished Service Award Banquet Jan. 10, sponsored by Sedalia Jaycees.

Last year's winner was Mrs. Douglas Kneibert.

Mrs. Laura LaVerne Heitmeyer, 2202 South Vermont, a substitute teacher for Sedalia public schools, is the nominee of the Sedalia branch of American Association of University Women.

During the past year, she accepted the office of publicity chairman for that organization which involved reporting all meetings, publicizing paper drives, planning the card party for the American Field Service program and participating in the July street fair.

As a substitute teacher, Mrs. Heitmeyer teaches at all levels and many subjects.

Church related activities include membership in Christian Education Committee. She also is a Sunday school and Bible school teacher.

Mrs. Heitmeyer holds bachelor of science in education and master of education degrees from the University of Missouri-Columbia.

Mother of two sons, Mrs. Heitmeyer is a Cub Scout mother and local 4-H leader, an active member of Sorosis and League of Women Voters.

During the past year, Mrs. Heitmeyer devoted many hours to the AAUW ecological paper drive, became second vice president in charge of membership and served on the yearbook committee.

Miss Nancy Louise Catron, 1301 South Ohio, is the moninee of Sedalia Business and Professional Women's Club.

Miss Catron received a B.S. in education from CMSU and a M.A. in Teaching from the University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire.

As Curriculum Specialist of Business and Office Reproduction and Distribution at State Fair Community College, Miss Catron was involved in the coordination of duplication, distribution and implementation of the individualized instructional materials prepared by the Business and Office Division at SFCC in four area vocational schools in the state of Missouri: Cape Girardeau, Springfield, Columbia and St. Louis.

Miss Catron set up and developed the Secretarial Science Program at SFCC during the first year of operation. She has been a secretarial science instructor there for four years.

In Eau Claire, Wis., at the Annual Business Education Workshop and in Portland, Ore., at the American Vocational Association Convention, Miss Catron demonstrated the individualized instructional materials prepared by the Business and Office Division of SFCC.

Miss Catron has sponsored the SFCC Samothrace Club, assisted with Children's Therapy Center drives and judged the queen contest for Warsaw Jubilee Days.

She was selected as one of the Outstanding Educators of America, 1972-73, is a member of SFCC Dames Club and is a member of the following professional organizations: Missouri Association of Junior Colleges, Missouri State Teachers Association, National Business Education Association, American Vocational Association and Missouri Vocational Association. Miss Catron is a member of United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Connie J. Evert, 107 S.W. Boulevard Court, is the nominee of Rho Tau Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha.

Mrs. Evert received a B.A. in education from the University of Missouri-Kansas City and was a member of the following honoraries: Kappa Delta Pi, Sigma Zeta and Alpha Phi Delta.

As a wife and mother of one son, Mrs. Evert feels her most important activity is at home. Gardening, canning, painting and decorating are among her many activities.

Related to her role as a teacher, Mrs. Evert is sponsor of an ecology club which has, in the past year, collected paper, painted trash barrels, planted trees, went on field trips and attended educational meetings. The club has received the President's Environmental Award for their activities.

As president of two major women's civic organizations simultaneously, Mrs. Evert helped the needy, raised money, attended conventions and donated toys and clothing to organizations.

In recognition of outstanding service, Mrs. Evert received the local chapter's Woman of the Year award.

Mrs. Myrna Ragar, 1315 Maple Lane, is the nominee of the Sedalia Charter Chapter of American Business Women's Association.

Mrs. Ragar attended CMSU for two years and studied under one of Missouri's top ten artists.

She has been employed as a commercial artist for seven years by a local company and is presently self-employed as a free lance commercial artist and painter in her own studio.

Mrs. Ragar was instrumental in organizing the Sedalia Art Association to promote and enjoy visual arts in the community. She served as president for that organization during 1972. Mrs. Ragar continues to support the association by donating watercolor and sketchings for the members.

Last spring, Mrs. Ragar donated her time to Kaleidoscope, a project developed by Hallmark Cards to teach children to think creatively.

Mrs. Ragar is president of the Sedalia Charter Chapter of American Business Women's Association, upper rooms chairman on the PTA Board, a member of Municipal Building Art Commission and serves on the decorating committee for her church.

Mrs. Myrna Lou Gorrell, 600 East Tenth, is the nominee of Xi Beta Upsilon chapter of Beta Sigma Phi.

A 1958 graduate of Green Ridge High School, Mrs. Gorrell is the mother of two daughters, 10 and 13 years.

For the past three years, Mrs. Gorrell has been employed part-time as deputy assessor in the Assessor's Office and in the Clerk's Office. Presently, she is employed full-time in the Assessor's Office.

Mrs. Gorrell has been an executive board member for 10 years and publicity chairman for the past three years for a women's indoor athletic association. For six years, Mrs. Gorrell has been an instructor for a junior athletic association.

Supporting her local Girl Scouts, Mrs. Gorrell has been a brownie and junior leader, brownie troop consultant, unit leader, camp nurse and co-director at Camp Sacajewea, council day camp task force and junior troop consultant.

Mrs. Gorrell has served on the Girls Khoury League executive board for two years, is a member of an elementary school PTA and a volunteer for the Children's Therapy Center.

Cromley-Dalton united in wedlock

MRS. RANDY DALTON
Miss Carolyn Cromley

The Wesley Methodist Church was the setting for an afternoon ceremony at 4 p.m. Dec. 29, uniting Miss Carolyn Cromley and Randy Dalton.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cromley, 514 Dal-Whi-Mo Court, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Dalton, Smithton.

Dr. Thomas Hall performed the ceremony before white mums and red roses and two seven-branch candelabra. Organist was Mrs. Robert Woolery and vocalist was Willetta James accompanied by Melvin Kerr.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a long empire-waisted white crepe gown with full sleeves cuffed with seed pearl embroidery. Her high neckline was embroidered with seed pearls and a rope of pearls and crepe accented her empire waist. The bridal bouquet was of white carnations and red rosebuds.

Best man was Dennis Todd. Phillip Cromley and Kenneth Cromley, brothers of the bride, served as ushers while David Cromley, brother of the bride, was candlelighter.

Mrs. Kenneth Mahalovich, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Gordon Jahn were servers at the bride's table. Miss Dona McInteer was in charge of the guestbook.

The couple will live at 501 West Fifth.

Teacher retires

LaMonte — Mrs. Elizabeth Higgins was presented a dozen red roses by the Knob Noster Association of Teachers. Mrs. Higgins will retire on Jan. 1 after teaching for 25 years. She has taught the third grade in the Knob Noster school district for the past six and a half years. The faculty of the Elementary School honored Mrs. Higgins at a party Dec. 3 at which time they presented her a terrarium and music box. Retirement plans include pursuing her hobbies of china painting and knitting and enjoying her grandchildren.

Successful actor shares time between acting and business

By JERRY BUCK
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — If Wayne Rogers weren't busy starring in the hit TV series "M-A-S-H," he might be running the studio instead.

Rogers, who plays the inconoclastic Trapper John, is a practical man who regards acting as business and business as acting. He is successful in both.

On a break from CBS' "M-A-S-H," Rogers sits down and begins immediately to lament the depressed state of the movie industry.

"I attribute it to the fact that the business is run badly," he said. "In the early days you didn't have to be a good businessman to be successful. They didn't train executives, and when television came along they weren't ready for it."

His own show is produced at 20th Century Fox Studios, where the back lot was sold off to obtain cash. Where such movies as "Young Mr. Lincoln" were made now stands Century City, an array of business towers, hotels, theaters and shops.

Rogers said, "Disaster presents a chllenge to me. If I were running 20th Century Fox, I'd have built Century City myself. They sold off the property. They could have run it."

To the question of giving up acting for business, he replied, "Oh Lord, no. I think the most important thing is the life experience. Acting is business. Anything that's intangible, and I think business is intangible after you get the numbers out of the way, is a life experience. That's exciting."

Like most actors who make a lot of money in a series, Rogers invests in various enterprises. For instance, he is a partner in a $2-million, 500-acre grape vineyard in the Napa Valley in northern California. The martini-tippling Trapper John is into premium varietal wines. But, unlike most actors, he is an active partner.

"I don't passively invest in anything," said the lanky, curlyhaired actor. "I learned that lesson quickly in life. You look at the bottom line. Murphy's Law says if anything can go wrong it will. You want to be in a position to do something about it. I've been in positions wnere the canoe leaks and people ask you for your bailing can."

Rogers said he likes acting and business because of two common links: they're both creative and both require problem solving.

"I'm not into business because it's business," he said. I'm into it because it's interesting. It's creative to start something. Business per se bores me. The game is what's interesting. The challenge, the ability to solve problems. Especially when people say no. The word no doesn't exist in my vocabulary.

He said, "I think acting and business are synonymous. In business you're always acting and in acting you're always problem solving. there are always elements common to both. The ability to think, imagination. Not just the cognitive things, but emotional response to stimuli."

Rogers, 40, is in his second season with "M-A-S-H," which didn't become a hit until it was moved by CBS to Saturday nights following "All in the Family." The wacky military comedy nearly died in its first season on Sunday.

It's his second series. The first was "Stagecoach West" in 1959. In between, he appeared in numerous TV shows and such movies as "Cool Hand Luke," "Pocket Money" and "WUSA."

Rogers, a native of Birmingham, Ala., and a graduate of Princeton University, lives in Beverly Hills with his wife Mitzi — a former actress — and their two children, Laura, 9, and Billy, 5.

Winter fun

A train of sleds made up of nine boys broke up as it speeded down a hill in Kansas City Wednesday. Most Kansas City school children were given extra holiday time because many of the schools had their gas supply cut off and because of snow-packed roads which made school bus travel dangerous. (UPI)

Young-Prince are married

(Democrat-Capital Service)

Knob Noster — Miss Robbinette Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Young, Columbia, and Eugene Prince, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Prince, Knob Noster, were married at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, December 27, at the R.L.D.S. Church in Knob Noster.

The bride wore a floor length blue dress, fashioned with long sleeves with ruffles extending over the hands, and a ruffled high neck line. Her head-piece was a prayer cap of lace. She carried red roses on a white Bible.

The serving table was covered with a white cloth. The three-tiered white wedding cake was decorated with red sugar roses, topped with a miniature bride and groom and was served with punch.

The couple is at home in Columbia.

Mr. Prince is an accountant at the University of Missouri in Columbia, and Mrs. Prince is employed at Food Service in the Memorial Union at the University.

BROOKFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Brookfield Zoo's Salt Creek and Western Railroad now has a new steam engine, No. 242, running on its 2¼-mile narrow gauge passenger line.

The new steamer boasts the colors of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad and was built from scratch by a firm in Wisconsin Dells, Wis.

The coal burner has low sulphur emissions as it transports zoo visitors on a chuffing ride through a North American Plains scene where buffalo and pronghorn roam at will in an area reminiscent of the Old West.

Actor is ready for another smash

AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Jeff Bridges decided to make movie acting his career after being in a film which was highly successful at the box office. Since, he has added to his experiences by being in a movie which didn't get released, in one which didn't work though the script read well, and by getting good personal reviews in one which the company didn't spend money to promote. Now he thinks it's time to be in another movie which is a smash at the box office.

Bridges, now 24, made his debut at age 8 in TV's "Sea Hunt," which starred his father, Lloyd Bridges. In fact, he appeared on all four of his father's TV series, of which "Sea Hunt" is the best remembered. "Whenever they needed a little kid my age, I scored." That wasn't so exciting in those days, he says, not as exciting as acting is now. "It was going to work with Dad."

He hasn't lost touch with his father; he stopped in to make a touch on his way from California to the East—borrowing from Dad shirt, sweater, jacket and slacks for his trip. "I live in three pairs of jeans."

There aren't any special roles that he covets, Bridges says, or any special kinds of roles. "I want a picture that's a smash. I try to make that the object — the whole movie rather than the part.

"Then you immediately get that positive power directed toward you. It's great — more freedom, more scripts, more money."

Bridges was in his first movie at 17, "Hills of Anger," which was about white students being bused to a black school. "But I didn't know if I wanted to be an actor or not. It was scary not knowing if you're any good or if they're hiring you because your old man is the guy he is. Your excitement is dampened by that.

"After 'The Last Picture Show' is when I decided I'll invest my time in acting. It did that thing that gives you that security. I decided, 'I guess I'm pretty good at this, so I guess I'll just do this. All right.'

"I think I was the first person cast in 'The Last Picture Show,' as the guy who goes to the Army. Peter Bogdanovich is one of those guys who dreams of how it all should be. Then he sees a person he dreamed about and he hires them. It took him two years to cast the thing."

Bridges is in New York because Henry Weinstein, vice president of creative affairs for the American Film Theater, asked him to attend a party in Washington for Smith College alumnae. Then Weinstein asked him to go on to New York to do some publicity for "The Iceman Cometh" in which he played Don Parritt, the young informer.

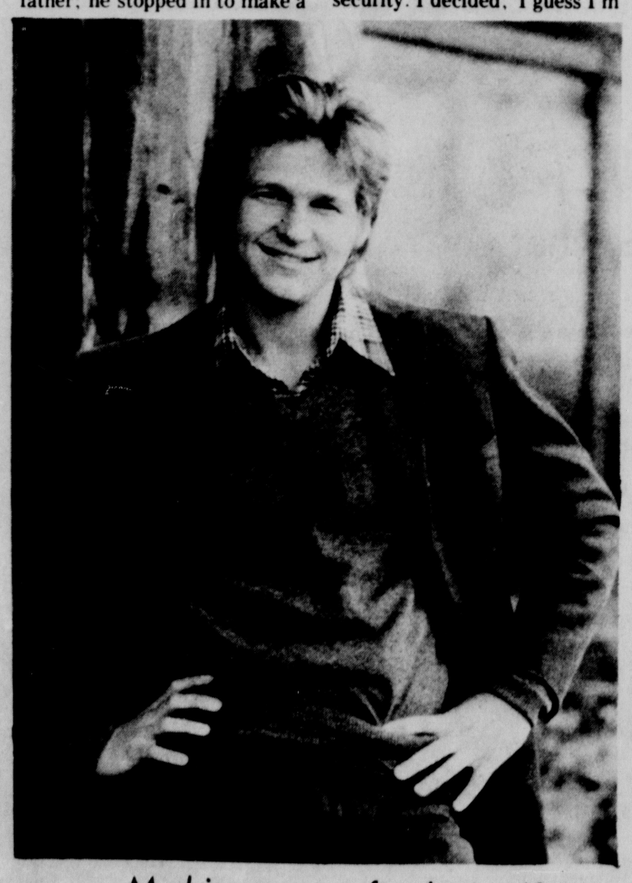

That movie already has been seen by its subscription audience but Bridges thinks there is hope that some of the performances may receive Academy Award nominations. "Oh, not mine," he says, though he received some rave reviews, which he says surprised him.

His part, he says, he found the hardest and most tiring of any he has done. Every day he had to come in, sit down and enter a mood of depression.

His most recent movie, not released yet, is "Thunderbolt and Lightfoot," with Clint Eastwood. "It's a current-day picture that takes place in Montana; it's about a bank robbery. I'm one of those bad-good guys."

Then there was "The Yin and Yang of Mr. Go," a four-month Hong Kong project Bridges greatly enjoyed and for which he got paid, though it was never released. "Burgess Meredith wrote it and acted in it. The story was beautiful."

Bridges says that most of his acting lessons come fron his father and brother, Beau, also an actor, and on-the-job training. "Beau is eight years older than I am. We're very close and he has helped me a lot. When you're little you're too far apart in age to be friends but when you're grown and become friends you realize how dear that friend is. You've had the same experiences."

Making name for himself

Jeff Bridges, pictured recently in New York, is making his own way as a movie actor — in such films as "The Last Picture Show" and "The Iceman Cometh." But there are benefits in being a member of an acting family. Jeff, who lives in jeans in California, borrowed the clothes he's wearing here for the city from his father, actor Lloyd Bridges; and he gets advice from his brother, Beau, who preceded him into acting. Jeff's latest movie is "Thunderbolt and Lightfoot," with Clint Eastwood.

'Americans' becomes big hit recording

AP Music Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A three-minute recording called "Americans," spoken not sung and written by a 73-year-old Canadian in praise of his fellows to the south is proving to be balm to the spirits of some citizens of the United States.

Two million of those citizens had bought it by Wednesday, its 16th day of release, putting it at No. 14 on the best-selling chart, which usually is a listing of rock records.

The recording puts its premise on the line in the first sentence: "Americans, this Canadian thinks it's time to speak up for the Americans, the most generous and probably the least-appreciated people in all the earth."

It was written in early 1973 as an editorial by Gordon Sinclair, 73, owner of radio station CFRB in Toronto. Reprinted in newspapers through the year, it was read on Dec. 2 on station CKLW which beams across the border from Canada into Detroit by Byron MacGregor, 25, also a Canadian.

While he played Paul Simon's "Bridge over Troubled Water," MacGregor read Sinclair's words written the spring before: "As long as 60 years ago, when I first started to read newspapers, I read of floods in the Yalu River. Who rushed in the men and the money to help? The Americans did. Today the rich bottomland of the Mississippi is under water and no foreign land has sent a dollar to help.

"Germany, Japan and to a lesser extent Britain and Italy were lifted out of the depression of war by the Americans who poured in billions of dollars and forgave billions in debts. None of those countries today is paying even the interest of its remaining debts to the United States.

"When distant countries are hit by earthquakes it is the United States that is there to help. So far this spring 59 American communities have been flattened by tornados. Nobody helped.

"I can name you 5,000 times when the Americans raced to the help of other people in trouble. Can you name me even one time when someone else raced to the Americans in trouble? I don't think there was outside help even during the San Francisco earthquake."

The essay also mentions the Vietnam war a couple of times, saying that countries which once received Marshall Plan aid have newspapers "writing about the decadent, warmongering Americans." A later reference says, "Our neighbors have faced it alone and I'm damned tired of hearing them be kicked around. They'll come out of this thing with the flag high and when they do, they are entitled to thumb their nose over the lands that are gloating over the present troubles."

The reading ends with the statement that the American Red Cross was told at its annual meeting "that it was broke. This year's disasters have taken their toll and nobody but nobody has helped."

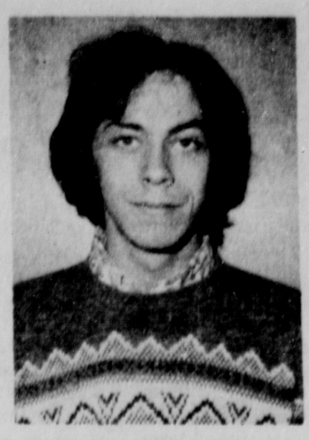

The day that MacGregor read "Americans," despite spring floods and the Vietnam war being over, his radio station received 3,500 phone calls of approval.

Armen Boladian, head of Detroit's only record company, Westbound, decided to make a recording. An arrangement of "America the Beautiful," a song in the public domain, was made and played by members of the Detroit Symphony.

The recording was cut three days after MacGregor's broadcast and distributed less than three weeks ago by Chess-Janus Records of New York, whose president, Marvin Schlachter, expects sales to reach five million.

Author Sinclair also has made a record of "Americans" and MacGregor on Thursday went into a recording studio to read the "Gettysburg Address" and a few other patriotic statements to put together with "Americans" to make an album.

Throughout the last year, U.S. buyers of spoken word albums about the United States have been far more in the mood for praise than blame. None of several comedy albums on Watergate sold well but John Wayne's LP, "America, Why I Love Her," on which he read patriotic poems by actor Robert Mitchum's brother, was an extremely brisk seller.

Duke's daughter linked to prince romantically

By JULIE FLINT
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Lady Jane Wellesley, only daughter of the eighth Duke of Wellington, is small and dark with long hair, a Mona Lisa face and mind of her own. She is interested in art, antiques and politics, not the sporty pursuits popular with much of her set and the British royal family.

Friends say she is a typical Wellington, "stubborn, proud, determined. Snappy at times, but sociable."

She is also linked romantically with Prince Charles, heir to the British throne and, despite denials from both families, is widely expected by Britons on all social levels to become his bride.

Lady Jane celebrated the New Year with the 25-year-old prince at Sandringham, Queen Elizabeth's country estate. Afterwards the prince, serving in the Royal Navy, flew to Singapore for a three-month stay there. This has been interpreted as a testing period for the couple.

Lady Jane told newsmen she had a "lovely time" at Sandringham.

A worker on the royal estate was quoted as saying: "For a couple who are supposed to be just good friends, they seem to squeeze hands and kiss an awful lot."

The Wellingtons, whose family name is Wellesley, are not of royal blood. However, they rank among the nation's most famous aristocrats, thanks to the first duke, the victor of Waterloo.

Unlike Mark Phillips, the cavalry commoner who married Charles' sister Princess Anne, the 22-year-old Lady Jane has moved in royal circles all her life.

Her parents are intimates of the queen and her husband, Prince Philip. Prince Charles was a childhood friend, almost the boy-next-door.

Lady Jane, at 5 foot 2 just shoulder-high to the 6-foot-1 prince, recently moved from her parents' stately home to a small terraced house in Fulham, an unassuming London district popular with the young. She shares a white-painted house with several girls.

She started out two years ago as general help to a public relations firm, working her way up to her current job as personal assistant to an exclusive Bond Street art dealer.

Her early ambition was to become a political writer.

Her boss in the public relations firm Billy Hamilton, described her this way:

"She has a tremendous sense of humor without being flippant. She's a serious-minded girl but serious and intelligent without being a bluestocking."

The Wellingtons are among Britain's biggest landowners. Their mansion on Hyde Park Corner used to be known as "No. 1, London." The gift of a grateful nation to the first duke, it was handed back to the nation in 1947 as a museum, with a provision that the Wellingtons should keep a free apartment there.

Better system is sought

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A fire reporting system to determine causes and methods of preventing fires in Missouri was cited Thursday by Missouri Fire Marshall Robert L. Morrison as the main goal of his office, which was created last May.

He said his office will categorize types of fires, such as home, apartment and industrial, in order that the main causes can be spotted.

As an example, he said, reports could show if fire retardants really work, what are major kitchen fire hazards, and whether rugs or draperies are especially dangerous in fire potential.

Morrison said fire officials are now "just guessing" about major fire hazards, based on experience. Although such experience is often expert, he said reporting with statewide cooperation, would yield more usable data.

Safety features and improvements could be announced to the public through an educational program his office is planning.

Reports are now coming into the fire marshall's office and some should be published by mid-February.

Earlier this year, Morrison and his six-man staff contacted 461 of the state's nearly 700 fire departments. He said "The cooperation of the fire services has been extremely encouraging."

The 18-year veteran of the Lee's Summit, Mo., fire department, who was its chief for 10 years, said another main concern is the effect of a 16.8 per cent increase in arson nationwide.

He said before his office was created, persons were more likely to commit arson because they knew there was no central fire investigating authority.

Now persons may be less likely to set fires, especially for insurance claims, because they know they may face a tough investigation by the state's five marshalls, Morrison said.

He said his office is seeking an attorney general's opionion to see if fire marshall's investigators have powers of arrest in addition to powers of search and seizure.

Morrison said in its first six months of operations his office and its investigators checked 102 cases where arson was suspected, and established arson as the cause in 60 cases.

The fire marshall said cooperation with local officials has been "great" and added, "With this kind of team work an effective means of combating the crime of arson and prevention of fires can be achieved, thus preventing the loss of lives, injuries and property damage resulting from fires."

Worst stench of Watergate: 'enemy lists'

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — I have been reflecting on Watergate lately, in the course of closing the files on 1973, and venture this observation for what it may be worth: In the whole sad list of the bad things that were done, one action stands out as the worst. It was the compiling of the "enemy lists."

Kilpatrick

Granted, that is no easy choice. One has to relegate to a secondary rank such offenses as the bugging itself, the cover-up, the extortion of campaign contributions, the attempted seduction of Judge Byrne, the contemptible devices of Donald Segretti, the presidential approval of a break-and-enter plan, the careless handling of the White House tapes — all of that, and more.

Yet my own eye keeps turning back, in a kind of awful fascination, to the memoranda that were prepared by John W. Dean III, in August of 1971 and again in September of 1972. Some of the other incidents could be explained, if not justified, in terms of over-zealousness, pure panic, human error, perverted taste, or an obsessive anxiety for the national security. The enemies lists can be understood only in terms of corruption.

By "corruption," I mean to suggest an abuse of office, an arrogance of power, that goes beyond mere scandal. The corrupt acts that Dean recommended were so far removed from integrity, virtue and honor as to shock the conscience. He was proposing a course of action at once vindictive and vile. In those sleezy memoranda from this sleezy little man, the stench becomes unbearable.

"This memorandum," Dean wrote to John D. Ehrlichman on Aug. 16, 1971, "addresses the matter of how we can maximize the fact of our incumbency in dealing with persons known to be active in their opposition to our administration. Stated a bit more bluntly — how we can use the available federal machinery to screw our political enemies . . .

"After reviewing this matter with a number of persons possessed of expertise in the field, I have concluded that we do not need an elaborate mechanism or game plan; rather we need a good project coordinator and full support for the project. In brief, the system would work as follows:

"Key members of the staff . . . should be requested to inform us as to who they feel we should be giving a hard time. The project coordinator should then determine what sorts of dealings these individuals have with the federal government and how we can best screw them (e.g., grant availability, federal contracts, litigation, prosecution, etc.) . . ."

A few weeks after that memorandum crept up the line, White House Counsel Charles Colson, catching the contagion, worked up a priority list of 20 enemies. As to Morton Halperin: "A scandal would be most helpful here." As to CBS correspondent Daniel Schorr: "A real media enemy." Dean licked his pencil and wrote down 216 names. A year later, on Sept. 11, 1972, Dean sent to IRS Commissioner Johnnie M. Walters a list of 490 "enemies" of the Nixon administration, with a request that their tax returns be specially audited.

One struggles to visualize Dean at his desk. Did the coordinator of the project lick his lips at some especially juicy prospect? Did his fantasies evoke the stammering victims as agents of the IRS began to turn the screws? Did he smile with satisfaction, rub his palms, count the enemies by five and tens as he alphabetized their names? One wants to vomit.

It is gratifying, of course, that Walters eventually paid not the slightest attention to Dean's request. There is no proof whatever that Richard Nixon initiated these lists or knew of their existence. What is so deeply dismaying is that an atmosphere existed, a state of mind existed, some perhaps unspoken understanding existed, in which this fungus growth could occur. In such a fetid climate, absolute power corrupted absolutely.

Love for her town

"I was disgusted" a woman said
"When in the paper I recently read
"A complaint of the sidewalks in the west side of town"
Then she reminisced on when folks didn't frown
On grass 'long the sidewalks or if they weren't flat.
They never worried about things like that.
She recalled the depression, not enough to eat
And they walked, not complaining, along the mud street
She and a lot of other kids, too.
There wasn't a sidewalk, not even a street,
Nor even water to keep yourself neat.
They trudged through the mud, the boys didn't care,
Girls took off their shoes and walked in feet bare.
Sometimes it was cold and it made their feet ache
But they waded the mud to the little park lake.
They washed off the mud on their feet there
And the rest of the way shoes and stockings they'd wear
For from there on there were sidwalks or streets of some kind
And to them it didn't matter, they didn't mind
They went on to school and that afternoon then
And they had to figure their problems out in odd ways.
Their principal helped — she was kind and good
And she did for them the best that she could.
But they all grew up and they're really proud
Of the successful lives of the kids in that crowd.
Business men, a colonel, and very good jobs.
They weren't the kind given to tears and to sobs
Their bad times as children made their characters strong
They've been able to take what e'er came along.
"I'd just like to say that we never berate
"Anything today — we think things are great."
She now lives in Kansas City, but she says she can't stand
Though life took her away she still feels a part
Of the town she grew up in — it is close to her heart.

House has the ball on reorganization

Gov. Christopher Bond has urged the Missouri House of Representatives to correct the Senate's mishandling of the state reorganization bill and restore to it the principles set forth by the Little Hoover Commission.

If the House will heed his advice, the people of Missouri can still get a bill that carries out the mandate issued by voters in 1972.

The Senate reorganization bill, quickly passed after a reported "compromise" with the governor on certain issues, remains unacceptable. Indeed, the chairman of the Citizens Committee For State Reorganization, D. W. Gilmore, calls the present bill worse than the one Bond vetoed last spring.

Gilmore correctly points out that the main task of his commission was to restructure lines of authority within the executive department to give more control to department heads and relieve the governor of unmanageable supervisory responsibilities. This the Senate bill fails to do.

The bill gives the Senate advice and consent powers over even second and third-level executive appointments within departments, effectively undercutting control by department heads. By extending its reach into internal departmental affairs and undermining effective discipline, the Senate, in Gilmore's words, has taken "a nearsighted view in which only a tree is visible and the forest is out of sight."

In its initial reorganization effort in 1972, the House distinguished itself by fashioning a workable bill faithful to the vision of the Citizens Commission and the voters of Missouri. We hope it does the same this time.

Bob Hope and pals get radio license

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Choosing new owners for radio station KRLA in Pasadena, Calif., was a problem that perplexed the Federal Communications Commission for over a decade.

Last month the FCC, dominated now by President Nixon's appointees, solved the problem by awarding the $15 million plum to a group of the President's friends. The majority stockholder and corporate chairman is the famed comedian and presidential pal, Bob Hope.

The KRLA license is worth a fortune to the Hope consortium whose selection was fraught with peculiarities. The struggle for the station began in 1962 when the FCC refused to relicense the former owners because of "management neglect and efforts to mislead the commission."

The powerful, 50,000-watt station was turned over to a nonprofit corporation while the FCC decided who should run it. A score of applications were filed.

It took more than a decade of hearings before the FCC on Dec. 5 awarded the golden pie to Bob Hope and his partners. All four Nixon appointees voted in Hope's favor.

The official decision was prepared by Chairman Dean Burch. The case, he wrote, was "extremely close and troublesome." The "legal, factual, technical and policy questions" were "frequently conflicting." The FCC was forced to choose, said Burch, "among applicants with a variety of shortcomings."

Hope's group was picked on technical and engineering grounds. Yet we interviewed nearly a dozen lawyers and engineers familiar with the case. To a man, they felt that awarding the station to Hope, et al, on engineering grounds was absurd. Said one expert: "It looks like an excuse to give them the license."

Indeed, the FCC's own review board denied Hope's application in 1971 "on technical engineering grounds." Yet precisely the same engineering proposal was cited as the basis for awarding the license to the Hope syndicate in 1973.

The official FCC press release, announcing the decision, nowhere mentioned Bob Hope. The announcement stated simply that the license had been awarded to the "Western Broadcasting Corporation."

It took a thorough search of the voluminous file to find out who was behind Western Broadcasting. The principal stockholder is Hope who, incidentally, contributed $50,000 to Nixon's 1972 campaign.

The second biggest stockholder, until he came to the White House in 1971, was Richard A. Moore, whom the public may remember best as the gentle, absent-minded Watergate witness. He reportedly was sent to Washington by Hope in 1970 to help Attorney General John Mitchell with his image.

Moore divested his 20-per cent share of Western Broadcasting when he moved to the White House a year later.

Another major stockholder, with a 15-per cent interest, is Ed Pauley, president of Pauley Petroleum Inc. Although he is a nominal Democrat, Pauley forked over $35,000 to the Nixon campaign.

Another entertainer-entrepreneur, Art Linkletter, owns 5 per cent of the company.

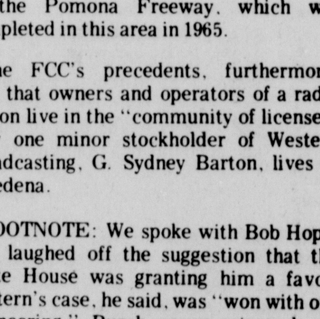

Four of the unsuccessful applicants were given black marks because their proposed site was too near "certain land reclamation and dredging projects" where "earth moving cranes" would interfere with the station's signal. This "reclamation" project, we learned, was the construction of the Pomona Freeway, which was completed in this area in 1965.

The FCC's precedents, furthermore, hold that owners and operators of a radio station live in the "community of license." Only one minor stockholder of Western Broadcasting, G. Sydney Barton, lives in Pasedena.

FOOTNOTE: We spoke with Bob Hope, who laughed off the suggestion that the White House was granting him a favor. Western's case, he said, was "won with our engineering." Burch never returned our repeated calls. Other commissioners refused to comment for the record.

FLY IN: Despite the worsening energy crisis, veterans administrator Donald Johnson has called more than 260 field officials to Washington next week for a massive fly-in conference. Many will bring their wives. They could save both fuel and money by using the VA's sophisticated "hotline" system, which makes it possible for dozens of officials around the country to participate in conference calls.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

During 1972, there were 7,061 hospitals in the U.S. registered by the American Hospital Association. These institutions had about 1.6 million beds, admitted some 30.7 million patients and spent about $32.7 billion to provide services for both in-patients and outpatients, or approximately $157 per resident of the nation, The World Almanac notes.

PROUD ENEMY: Each year, the Civil Service Commission invites former government bigwigs to update their biographies. "We are particularly interested," writes the commission, "in information about new positions, new college degrees, major awards, etc." Dr. Herbert Ley, the former Food and Drug commissioner, wrote back that he had indeed received a "major award" this year. He had been included, he said, "among those listed as White House 'enemies.'"

Four-day weekend on Humiliation Day

WASHINGTON — Just before adjourning for the Christmas holidays, the Senate passed a resolution calling for a "National Day of Humiliation, Fasting and Prayer." It was introduced by Sen. Mark Hatfield and adopted by voice vote with no debate or opposition.

Buchwald

I think it was a big mistake. While the idea of such a day is admirable, and one that no God-fearing American can argue with, the results of declaring another holiday will only cause more trouble than it's worth.

The date selected for the day of humiliation is April 30, which in 1974 falls on a Tuesday. If this holiday is celebrated as are other ones in this country, it will mean a four-day weekend.

The first people to take advantage of an official day of humiliation will be the department stores and discount houses. Our newspapers will be full of Humiliation Day sales. While the churches will stay open, it will be the stores that will run the banner headlines GLUNK BROS. WILL HUMILIATE ITSELF BY CUTTING EVERY ITEM IN OUR STORE 50%.

Or HARVEY SCHNUCKER WILL FAST ALL DAY UNTIL HE SELLS EVERY USED CAR ON HIS LOT.

The restaurants will have to take advantage of the holiday by having special Humiliation Day dinners with free cocktails and seven-course family dinners.

There will be Humiliation Day weekends at the resorts featuring Dean Martin, Paul Anka and Steve Lawrence and Eydie Gorme. SPEND YOUR HUMILIATION DAY WEEKEND IN LAS VEGAS or SPECIAL FOUR-DAY SPIRITUAL CRUISE TO NASSAU.

The race tracks will hold Humiliation Day handicaps, and some football promoter will come up with an All-Star Humiliation Day Bowl. Indianapolis will have auto racing trials for the Memorial Day weekend (which incidentally used to be a Humiliation Day of sorts until the hucksters took it over).

But the worst thing of all is that all gasoline stations will probably be closed on Humiliation Day.

With forced closing on Sundays and then no gas stations open on Tuesday, you'll have people at each other's throats again just as they were during the Christmas and New Year's holidays. Rather than humbling themselves and asking forgiveness for their sins, they'll only commit new ones in an effort to get enough fuel for the weekend.

The truth is you cannot get this country to stand still and pray for itself by declaring another holiday, no matter how noble the purpose.

I think the Senate should have debated this resolution very seriously before passing it by a voice vote.

Sen. Hatfield is a very religious man and there is no doubt in anyone's mind that he was completely sincere in offering the Humiliation Day bill, but I suspect there are quite a few senators who went along with it because they could see the great possibilities it offered them to get away from Washington for one more weekend.

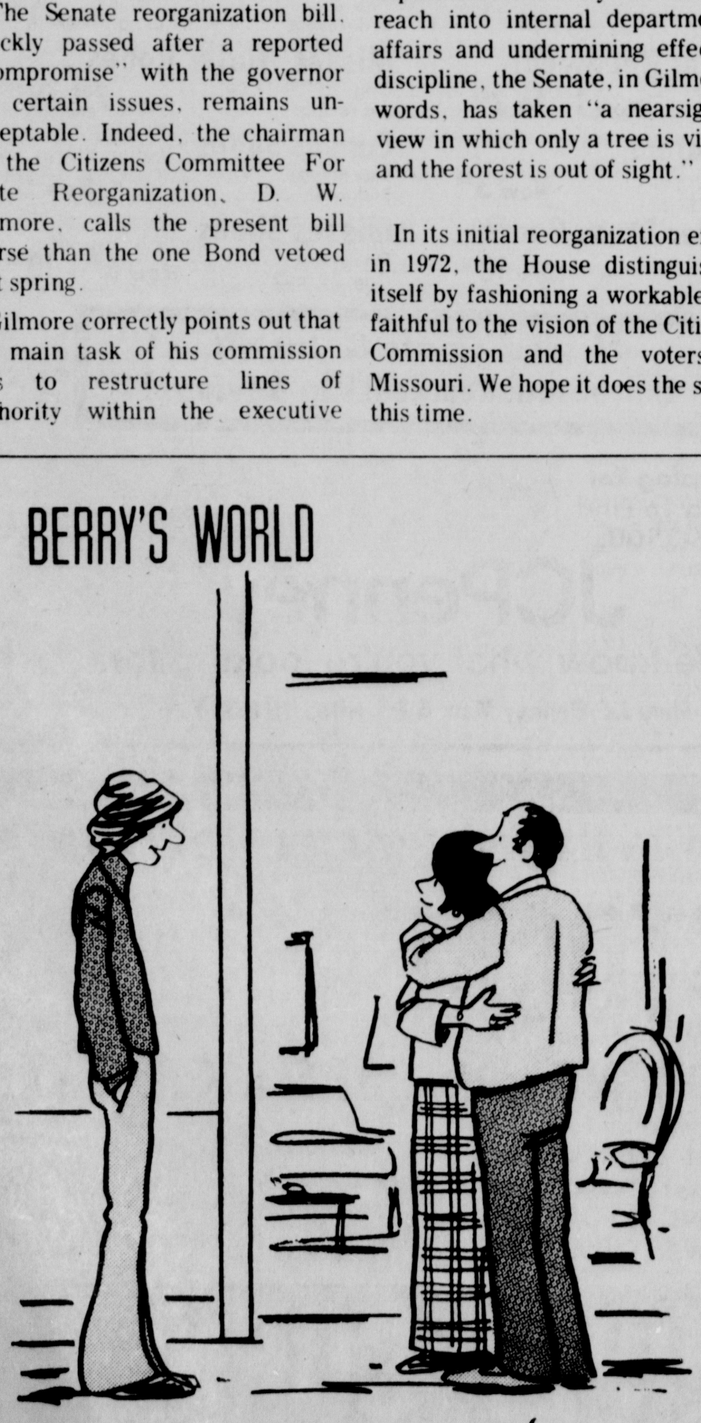

The resolution also puts the President in a very tough spot. Will he go to San Clemente or Key Biscayne for Humiliation Day? Or to save fuel will he spend the holiday at Camp David and watch "Patton" for the 123rd time?

Opening lead—Q♠

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Every book on play gives a table to show what card should be led from various high-card combinations. These tables are just about the same as you would have found in auction books 50 years ago, but that doesn't mean that modern experts have not been experimenting with new leads. Most of these new leads have both advantages and disadvantages and the difference is not enough to warrant changing.

Today's hand shows one exception. The book lead from the West hand is the king of spades. The modernists lead the queen. He would also lead the queen from queen-jack-ten or nine, but the confusion is not going to worry his partner. If East doesn't hold the ace or jack his play won't matter. If he holds the ace he can put it up; lead the suit back and pick up declarer's jack.

This time East holds the jack. He knows that his partner has led from king-queen-10 and drops the jack whereupon West has no problem; continues the suit; sets it up and defeats the contract.

Of course, he could get the same result with the king lead. East might play the jack any way. Or if East played the three, West might still continue spades.

If you want to use this convention make sure that your partner will understand it; also have either a six-card suit or the nine spot so your partner can afford to get rid of the jack if he has it.

College basketball roundup

Missouri stalls late Texas rally

The Tigers, now 8-3, led by 15 points, 62-47, early in the second half but the Longhorns sliced the margin to 74-66 and then to 74-68 with 3:02 to play.

Missouri hit three straight buckets at that point, pushing the margin to 80-68, and was not threatened again.

Senior Gary Link led the winners with 22 points and All-Big Eight Conference forward Al Eberhard added 16. Gail Wolf had 14 points and three other Tigers added 10 each.

Guard Harry Larrabee had 16 to lead Texas, now 1-10.

Oklahoma 91, San Diego State 66

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Paced by Alvan Adams' 100 per cent field goal shooting, Oklahoma roared to a 91-66 college basketball victory over San Diego State here Saturday night.

Adams set a school single-game field goal percentage record as he hit on 11 of 11 shots from the field. That broke the record set in 1967 by Don Sidle, who hit on 10 of 11 shots.

The Sooners never trailed, but were tied twice in the early going. A basket by Adams, a layup by Bob Pritchard and Lee Gilbert's two free throws blew the game open and the Sooners led, 42-34, at the half.

Oklahoma is now 8-3, while San Diego State is 3-7.

Iowa State 107, Wisonsin, River Falls 61

AMES, Iowa (AP)—Iowa State set a school scoring record by cruising past winless Wisconsin of River Falls 107-61 here Saturday.

The Cyclones, who jumped to a 60-34 halftime lead, posted their eighth victory in 11 starts while the visiting Falcons dropped to 0 7.

The Cyclones led 81-39 when acting head coach Gus Guydon pulled the regulars from the floor with 13:58 remaining.

Eric Heft hit a career-high 21 points for the Cyclones, while Hercle Ivy and reserve Bill Benson each added 18. Mike Benjamin, with 11, and Wes Harris, with 10 points, also hit double figures as Iowa State combined to hit 45 of 86 shots for 52 per cent.

They had clipped on 65 per cent of their shots from the field in the first half.

River Falls was led by Emile Etheridge's 19 points while being out rebounded 60-30 by the taller Cyclones.

Michigan 73, Indiana 71

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Joe Johnson and Waynom Britt led a second-half surge, sparking unranked Michigan to a 73-71 victory over eighth-ranked Indiana in a Big Ten Conference basketball game Saturday.

The Wolverines, now 9-2, trailed 41-26 at halftime against the favored Hoosiers.

But Michigan charged back, scoring the first eight points of the second half, then narrowing the gap until a layup by Johnson put the Wolverines ahead 59-58 with 7:30 remaining.

South Carolina 60, Marquette 58

The Warriors and the Gamecocks had battled to a 58-58 tie with 3:14 left in the game and the score remained that way until the game-winning shot by Winters, who finished with 17 points.

Marquette, 10-0 going into the game, trailed South Carolina 32-25 at the half. Then, sparked by Earl Tatum's 21 points, Marquette rallied to tie the score.

BULLETIN

Smith-Cotton's record falls to 3-6 with the defeat. The Tiger's next game is Friday night at home against Kansas City Southeast.

Flying Tiger

LSU's Glenn Hanson (35) goes in for a layup in action between LSU and Kentucky Saturday afternoon in Baton Rouge, La. Kentucky's Mike Flynn (14) tries to block Hanson's path to the basket, and Ronnie Lyons (24) trails the two. The Tigers upset Kentucky 95-84. (UPI)

Fifth win gained by Green Ridge

(Democrat-Capital Service)

CHILHOWEE — Coach Larry Barb's Green Ridge Tigers polished off their fifth Golden Valley Conference opponent here Friday night, downing the Chilhowee Indians, 73-53, in a non-conference contest.

Green Ridge, which is now 10-2 overall, had previously handled Deepwater, Calhoun, Letton and Ballard, added Chilhowee to the growing list.

Despite the 20-point margin of victory, the game was relatively close until the final minutes.

"We didn't hit well as a team from the field," said Barb, who in two years has turned the fortunes of the Tigers completely in the opposite direction. "I think the long layoff was the thing that hurt us the most," he added.

Green Ridge put up 98 shots, converting on only 34 for a weak 35 per cent.

Green Ridge jumped out to a 13-8 first-quarter lead and led at the half, 32-23. But the Indians kept it close with a 23-point third period. Green Ridge took a 57-46 lead into the final period.

John Dove, 6-foot-6, pumped in 21 points and controlled the boards with 24 rebounds. Mike Profitt scored only five points, but hauled in 17 rebounds.

Kent Scotten followed Dove in the scoring department with 19; he also had 12 rebounds.

Scotten led the fourth-quarter Green Ridge charge with nine points.

The Indians also dropped the junior varsity contest, 53-51, but forced Green Ridge into overtime for the win. Randy Scotten had 16 for the Tigers.

Scoring

Chilhowee (53) — Wilson 12, Anstine 12, Schofield 11, Byers 10, Lankford 4, Carder 2, Audsley 2.

Miller, McCord share Crosby 2nd round lead

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — U.S. Open champion Johnny Miller battled wind, rain, hail and cold for a 70 and moved into a share of the second-round lead in the weather-plagued Bing Crosby National Pro-Am Golf Tournament Saturday.

Miller had a two-round total of 138, four under par, and was tied with rookie Gary McCord for the top spot as the famed "Crosby weather" once again forced delays, stranded some players on the course and threatened further disruptions to the already ragged tournament schedule.

McCord, a thoroughly chilled 25-year-old who has played in only one previous tour event, slipped from an opening 65 to a 73 that took almost 7½ hours to complete.

Hail storms caused suspensions of play ranging from a few minutes at Pebble Beach to more than an hour at Cypress Point. At times, the ground was covered with the white pellets and left the three courses on the Monterey Peninsula looking as if a blizzard had hit.

About two dozen pros, each with an amateur partner, were stranded by darkness and will complete their rounds early Sunday morning prior to the start of the third round.

Thursday's first round was washed out by a day-long rain, setting the tournament schedule back one full day. It's now scheduled to end Monday.

But the weather could change that. The forecast called for rains all day Sunday.

"If we get rain all day, we're dead," said Jack Tuthill, tournament director for the Tournament Players Division of the PGA and the man in charge of this event.

"The courses are soaked now. They can't take any more water there just isn't any place for it to go."

"Virtually unplayable," said Jack Nicklaus, who has won the last two Crosby events and who was the pre-tournament pick to win this event that offers $215,000 in total prizes.

Nicklaus had a 73 and was well back in the field at 147.

Lanny Wadkins, a two-time winner last season and one of the outstanding players on the tour, had a 73 and was tied with Grier Jones at 140, two strokes off the pace.

Jones had a 69.

Hale Irwin, with a 71, was at 141 and the group at 142 included Barney Thompson, Dave Glenz, Gary Saunders and John Jacobs. Jacobs had the best round of the day a 68 at Spyglass Hill.

SFCC returns to winning ways

By Warren Ripley
Staff Sportswriter

State Fair got back on the winning track here Saturday night when it defeated the defensive minded Barton County Cougars at the Agriculture building, 67-59.

The Roadrunners got back in the groove in style, knocking off a team which is considered one of the top teams in the Midwest among junior colleges.

In its regional last year Barton County came within one point of winning the regional in the championship game. The team that beat them, Hutchinson Junior College, went on to place second in the Junior College national tournament.

Stan McNeil, 6-9 came off the bench in the first half to spark the Roadrunners to a 37-30 halftime lead.

The final score does not indicate the closeness of the contest, which could have gone either way until Jerry Bybee and Colles Webb combined to salt away the victory in the final few minutes.

In the first half of play the lead changed hands nine times as the two teams locked horns in a fierce defensive battle.

With two defense-oriented coaches butting heads, the game was not without excitement for even a fleeting second. It was a no-holds-barred affair with State Fair's superior offensive effort the key to a hard-earned victory.

In the second half, the Cougars rallied to a 40-40 tie at 17:23.

But the Roadrunner's all-region forward, Charles Shell, snuffed the flame of momentum for the Cougars when he turned in back-to-back tip-ins.

State Fair also switched to a 1-3-1 zone which perplexed the visitors into several costly turnovers. Bybee alertly picked off passes which his teammates converted into key buckets.

But Barton County stormed back once more.

With 5:40 remaining in the contest the Cougars knotted the score for the final time. The rest of the game belonged to Bill Barton's Roadrunners.

With just over a minute to go in the game the locals went into a delay.

Shell found an opening and drove to the basket where he was picked up by a Cougar defender. The 6-6 forward then dumped the ball off to Bybee who dropped in an unmolested shot for the killer.

Webb, Shell, Bybee and Towns all reached double figures for the Roadrunners with Jack Easley and Stan McNeil not far behind.

State Fair now possesses a 6-8 record while dropping the Cougars to 8-4.

Scoring

State Fair (67) — Webb 16, Shell 14, Towns 10, Bybee 10, Easley 9, McNeil 8.
Barton County (59) — Williams 13, Harper 12, Reed 10, Oleen 7, Konen 7, Evans 4, Feltis 6.

KNOB NOSTER — The Knob Noster Panthers dumped St. Paul's College High of Concordia here Friday night in a non-conference basketball game, 49-40.

The win was the sixth for Knob Noster, which now sports a 6-3 overall record. St. Paul's slipped to 5-5 with the loss.

Scoring

Knob Noster (49) — Evanson 20, Passamani 10, Vance 7, Youmans 7, Hogue 2, Overly 2, Kiely 1.

(Democrat-Capital Service)

VERSAILLES — First-seeded Versailles came through with a 73-56 victory over Jefferson City Blair Oaks to win the championship of the Versaillles Invitational Basketball Tournament here Friday night. Doug Anderson poured in 22 points for the Tigers, while teammate Wray Campbell added 20.

Leroy Bernskoetter led Blair Oaks with 18.

Third place went to Tipton, which won over Eugene, 63-50. Archie Edwards was the leading scorer for the victors with 19; John Morris had 18 for Eugene.

Iberia romped over Jamestown, 83-58, for the consolation trophy. James Baker was the leading scorer in the game with 26 for the winning Rangers. Larry Schoeneberg netted 20 for Jamestown.

Tentative date

JEFFERSON CITY — The Central Missouri Conference game between Hannibal and Jefferson City originally scheduled for here Friday night has been tentatively rescheduled for Feb. 19.

Coaching award voted to Knox

NEW YORK (AP) — Chuck Knox, who led the Los Angeles Rams to the National Football Conference West Division championship, was named National Football League Coach of the Year Saturday in an Associated Press poll of sports writers and broadcasters.

Knox was a lopsided winner in the voting by three-man committees who cover each of the 26 NFL teams. He received 43 votes, more than half of the maximum of 78. Denver's John Ralston was second with 10 votes, with Cincinnati's Paul Brown, John North of New Orleans, Mike McCormack of Philadelphia and Lou Saban of Buffalo dividing the remaining ballots.

"This is a great honor," said Knox, who won the award in his first year as an NFL head coach. "I think this is a credit to our football players, to my assistant coaches and to Carroll Rosenbloom and Don Klosterman, who gave me the opportunity to become a head coach."

Rosenbloom, owner of the Rams, and Klosterman, the club's general manager, hired Knox to rebuild Los Angeles after the club had sagged to a 6-7-1 record and third place in the NFC West in 1972.

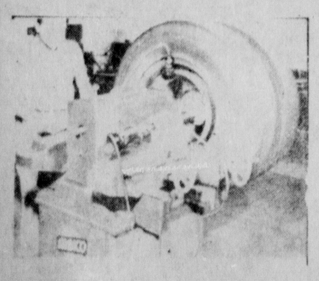

Los Angeles finished with a 12-2 record. The Rams' two losses were by a total of three points.

Tournament play underway Monday

STOVER — The opening round of the Stover Invitational Basketball Tournament is scheduled for here Monday night. Monday's schedule finds first-seeded Smithton taking on eighth-seeded Northwest at 7 p.m. Green Ridge (4) clashes with Stover (5) at 8:30 p.m.

Tuesday, Tuscumbia (2) meets Lincoln (7) at 7 p.m., while Cole Camp (3) is scheduled to meet Otterville (6) at 8:30 p.m.

Super Bowl VIII preview

The long, pressure-packed season of the National Football League comes to a climax in the 71,882-seat Rice Stadium with a matchup of potent but contrasting offenses—ground artillery against the air attack.

The American Conference Dolphins, playing in an unprecedented third straight Super Bowl and shooting for their second consecutive triumph, are largely a running team featuring the berserk antics of Mercury Morris and the crushing power of Larry Csonka and Jim Kiick.

The National Conference Vikings, on the other hand, depend on a seasoned, hickory-tough defense colorfully labelled "The Purple People Eaters" and the unpredictable proclivities of the 33-year-old Tarkenton, a scrambling quarterback who will put the ball into the air at the drop of a padded helmet.

The eighth Super Bowl could be a "holy war" for the Vikings, still smarting under their 23-7 rout at the hands of Kansas City in the 1970 Super Bowl when Minnesota was a 14-point favorite.

Bud Grant, the old gray fox of the Vikings, gave his veteran team a week's rest after the conference title victory over Dallas, allowing his aging stars to rest their bones and restock their emotional reservoirs.

It is Grant's hope that such defensive behemoths as Carl Eller, Alan Page, Gary Larsen and Jim Marshall, will be fired up and straining at the bit by the time they have to set up a barrier for the churning legs of Morris, Csonka and Kiick.

They represent an awesome front four, averaging 32 years in age, 6 feet, 5 inches in height and, close to 250 pounds in weight. They held their rivals to an average of 4.4 yards a try on the ground.

The Vikings have been equally effective in pass defense, allowing only six touchdowns through the air all year and intercepting four of Roger Staubach's throws last week.

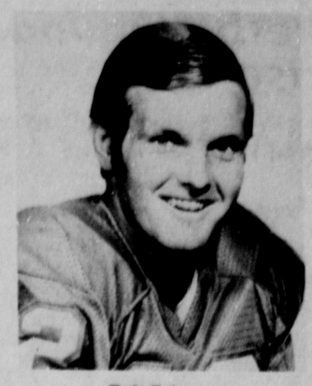

The Vikings, however, will not have as much to fear from the Dolphins through the air as on the ground, although quarterback Bob Griese is a slick sharpshooter and has one of the game's great targets in Paul Warfield.

Griese had to throw only six passes in beating Oakland a week ago, leaving it to his fleet, hard-running backfield mates to gain most of the yardage and dominate the clock.

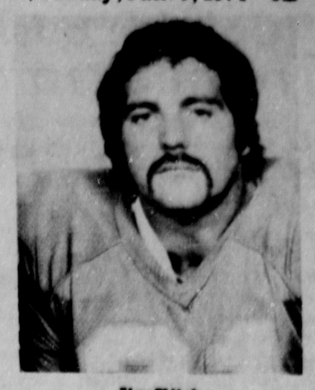

The Dolphins ran up 266 yards on the ground—symbolic of most of the games they've played in their past two championship seasons—and only 26 in the air. Csonka, a paid-up member of the 1,000-yard club, personally accounted for 117. He runs like an enraged bull.

In the National Conference game, Tarkenton, who gradually is erasing the old charge that "Fran can't win the big ones," was arrogantly cool as he unloaded passes in his own territory on first down and went for the bomb any time the notion struck him.

He hit on 10 of 21 passes, not his best average, for 133 yards. A scrambling dervish who can break out of the pocket for sizeable yardage, he found favorite targets in the rangy wide receiver, John Gilliam, and running back Chuck Foreman.

S-C uses defense to beat Kewpies

By VAUGHN HART
Sports Editor

"I just can't praise our defensive play and hustle enough," said Smith-Cotton Coach Jim Dinsdale Saturday morning, following the Tigers' 48-47 victory over Columbia Hickman.

"I said before the game we had to do two things if we expected to win . . . play tougher defense and hit the boards," he added.

The Tigers did just that and pulled off what many observers feel is an upset. Columbia went into the game with a six-game winning streak and a 7-1 overall record. On the other hand, Smith-Cotton, which Dinsdale believes has played one of the toughest 4A schedules of any out-state team, stood only 2-5.

"We did an excellent job defensively in the first half," said Dinsdale. "I don't think we could have played any better defensively."

"Offensively," he continued, "we didn't force anything; we kept our cool and tried to eliminate our mistakes."

In the rebounding department, the Tigers held a commanding 32-19 margin.

"We also blocked off the boards better than we have all year," added the fifth-year S-C coach.

"We did something else that we hadn't been doing too well in the early part of the season . . . and that's hustle. Especially when there was a loose ball . . . for a change we really looked hungry going after them," Dinsdale said.

The victory was important from the standpoint of the Central Missouri Conference race. With only four teams in the league and only six conference games, "the team that can win on the road is the one that will win the conference championship," according to Dinsdale.

"There seems to be more balance in the conference this year," he went on to say.

The victory leaves the Tigers tied with Hannibal for the top spot in the loop. Hannibal visits here next week for a showdown.

The game was tight all the way. It was tied at nine-all at the end of the first quarter; S-C managed a three-point, 26-23, lead at the halfway mark. Columbia moved ahead, 37-35, as the fourth quarter started.

Mike Best, who shared the individual rebound honors with Jeff Schnakenberg at nine, gave the Tigers a five-point lead with :42 showing, when he hit a pair of charity tosses.

Best went to the line again with just over 30 seconds to go, but couldn't get the front end of the bonus situation down.

Columbia got the ball and called time out to set up a play. They scored, but their late rush fell short, as Dane Henningsen held firmly onto the inbounds pass killing the clock.

Alan Jordan, Hickman's leading scorer and rebounder, but Coach Ken Ash's biggest problem-child, did not suit for the game because of a practice rules violation.

"Sure it hurts when a team has to play without their leading scorer, but I've noticed in the past that they play better sometimes without him," Dinsdale concluded.

Smith-Cotton took its 3-5 record to Springfield last night for a none-conference game with Hillcrest.

The next action for the Tigers comes Friday night here with Kansas City Southeast. Saturday night they will host Hannibal.

(Democrat-Capital Service)

COLE CAMP — Cole Camp kept their Kaysinger Conference championship hopes alive here Friday as they gave Lincoln a 67-32 shellacking. The win boosted the Bluebirds' record to 9-2 overall and 2-0 in loop play, while the Cardinals fell to 2-10 for the year and winless in four conference tilts.

It took the victors only the opening quarter to get their offense in gear. After edging to only a 10-7 margin after eight minutes and then seeing the Cardinals take a 15-14 lead with 4:30 remaining in the second stanza, Cole Camp opened up. Harry Goosen hit three straight two-pointers, Greg Ives chipped in with three charity tosses, Ken Weymuth hit a jumper and Chris Yeager netted a free throw to run the tally to 26-15, before Jewell Mullins broke the scoring draught for Lincoln with a basket at the half time buzzer.

The third period saw the Bluebirds put the contest out of reach as they ran up 12 straight unanswered points and lead 38-17 with two minutes left.

The B-Team contest was another win for Cole Camp as they eased past the young Cardinals 34-27. Mark Harms had 10 points for the hosts while Tracey Meuschke had the same total for Lincoln.

The Bluebirds completed the evening's sweep when their volleyball girls took two straight games from Lincoln 15-1, 15-4.

Scoring

Cole Camp (67) — Goosen 20, Weymuth 16, Ives 11, Schnell 8, Yeager 3, Brandes 2, Duensing 2, Miesner 2, Cordes 2, Steffans 1.
Lincoln (32) — J. Mullins 9, Nevius 8, Ingram 6, Rank 3, M. Mullins 2, Reser 2, Terrell 2.

Hickman gets first seed in tourney

(Democrat-Capital Service)

JEFFERSON CITY — Columbia Hickman was awarded the first seed for the Capital City Tournament, which opens here Tuesday night.

Rounding out the top four seeds are Fulton, two; host Jefferson City, three; and Webb City, four.

Jefferson City Helias, seeded seventh, will take on Fulton in the opening game of the tournament at 6 p.m. Tuesday. Other games that night include Jefferson City and Mexico, seeded sixth, and Warrenton, seeded eighth, against Hickman.

The final first-round game will be played Wednesday when Moberly takes on Webb City.

The tournament will continue through Saturday night.

California tourney opens Monday night

LaMonte barely escapes upset by Bunceton team

(Democrat-Capital Service)

LAMONTE — The LaMonte Vikings nearly started the new year on the receiving end of one of the biggest upsets of the 1973-74 season here Friday night as they barely slipped by Bunceton, 56-53, in a non-conference encounter.

Before the Christmas break, the two teams met with LaMonte winning easily, 74-50.

This time things were different.

LaMonte jumped out to a 16-6 first-period lead, when they bombed the Dragons' 2-1-2 zone defense.

In the second period, however, the host team ran into serious foul trouble. Donnie Hitaffer, a 14.4 per game scorer, was forced out of the game early in the period due to foul trouble.

With 2:20 to go in the first half, Bunceton knotted the score at 20-all. One minute later, the Dragons gained the lead in the contest, 24-22.

The score was deadlocked at the intermission, 26-26.

The Dragons started the second half playing the same way they did in the second period, gaining a 30-26 lead over the highly-touted Vikings.

But LaMonte's Glyndon' "Buggar" Bennett and Larry Whitworth led the Vikings back into the lead erasing Bunceton's short-lived advantage.

In the final period of play, the Vikings had stormed to a 51-43 lead, when Bennett, the Kaysinger Conference's leading scorer, received a leg injury. He had to be removed from the game.

Bunceton made a late rally, with both Bennett and Hitaffer, who had fouled out, on the bench. But the upset-minded Dragons' effort fell short.

LaMonte, now 9-2 overall, will not see action again until Thursday, when they meet Fatima of Westphalia on the LaMonte court.

Tim Oswald, Scott Thompson and Danny Files all scored in double figures to lead the LaMonte junior varsity to a convincing 48-32 victory over Bunceton.

Scoring

Bunceton (53) — McCoy 18, Kuhle 12, Wright 10, Brodderson 6, Williams 3, Fry 2.

Trainees to use boot leather more

SPARTA, Wis. (AP) — Summer training camp for Army reservists and National Guardsmen may be even less luxurious than customary, thanks to fuel shortages.

Officials at Camp McCoy said jeeps, trucks, buses and other personnel carriers are going to get minimum use this year, forcing thousands of trainees to rely more than usual on boot leather.

Even mass-transit troop trains may be resurrected to get the trainees to the western Wisconsin camp from throughout the Midwest.

Col. Richard Crecelius, post commander, said trainees can hike instead of ride to rifle ranges, bivouac sites and duty assignments.

The camp, he said, expects to host 45,000 trainees from Wisconsin, Minnesota, Illinois, South Dakota, North Dakota, Michigan, Ohio, Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas.

There may be trouble providing the traditional bus and truck caravans for troop shipments to the camp. Military shipments by rail to Sparta have been unknown since 1962.

Maj. William Miller said if troop trains are redeveloped, baggage would be hauled from the depot to the barracks by truck. But the trainees, he said, would walk.

Camp McCoy has 25 buses for hauling soldiers to neighboring communities for weekend recreation. Miller said use of "gas guzzling" vehicles will be held to a minimum, remarking there may be a new level of popularity expected for the base's theaters, fieldhouse, service clubs, swimming pools and fishing spots.

Besides the 45,000 men anticipated for two-week field training periods, the camp hosts about 38,000 trainees for four-day weekend drills.

Drug agents are scheduled to go on trial

ALTON, Ill. (AP)—Twelve drug agents, who were indicted last summer in connection with the now-notorious Collinsville drug raids, will go on trial in federal court here on March 6.

U.S. District Judge Omar Poos set the trial date Friday after meeting with U.S. Justice Department attorneys and lawyers for the agents, who are charged with violating the civil rights of 11 persons during the wrong-door raids last April.

Before the actual trial starts, however, Poos said a hearing will be held on more than 25 motions, most of which deal with requests for separate trials or dismissal of the indictments.

The 12 men, eight federal agents and four local policemen who were all attached to the now-defunct Drug Abuse Law Enforcement office, have pleaded innocent to the charges.

Immediately after the raids and the subsequent publicity about them, the federal government reduced operations of the federal-local anti-drug task force for the St. Louis area to a minimum. But later this month, a revitalized federal-local task force is expected to go back into operation again.

Dam project is not justified by shortages

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The energy crisis is not a valid reason for promoting the Pattonsburg dam project in northwest Missouri, says an attorney for opponents of the dam.

Arthur A. Benson II, attorney for Save Our Soil Inc., said Friday the Army Engineers have admitted that the dam could not help ease the energy crisis even if its proposed hydroelectric plant was operating now.

Missouri congressmen had said recently it was hard to justify delays in building the dam when some people in the area had chilly homes and dim lights.

Benson said few homes in the area have electric heat.

"The fact that some constitutents of these congressmen may have cold homes is due to shortage of fuel oil and natural gas; and those shortages would not be eliminated by the generation of electric power at Pattonsburg," his statement said.

VOLKSWAGEN OF AMERICA, INC.

If gas pains persist, try Volkswagen.

It also relieves those little headaches—by needing pints of oil instead of quarts. And not needing antifreeze because of its air-cooled engine.

Plus it gets rid of nervous upsets due to owning a new car. With Volkswagen's Owner's Security Blanket, you're provided with the best care any car can have...in sickness and in health.

Maybe you should take two.

Today a premium ride is not enough. You also need a car you can afford to run. And for 1974 Mercury Marquis is designed to be that kind of car. It uses regular fuel. Its standard steel-belted radials give thousands of extra miles of tread wear over non-radials. And a '74 Mercury is designed to save you an estimated average of 26% on scheduled maintenance costs when compared to a '73 Mercury in 50,000 miles of normal driving. That's due to innovations like solid state ignition. So you see, a premium ride is just not enough. Unless it comes in a car you can afford to operate. We invite you to come drive the Mercury Marquis for 1974—the premium ride that uses regular gas!

More problems may arise from changes in White House strategy

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — An apparent change in White House strategy may raise new problems as President Nixon deals with congressional Republicans anxious to resolve Watergate issues early in an election year.

The President and his advisers apparently have decided against public release of transcripts or summaries of Watergate-related tape recordings, dropping a disclosure plan that had emerged from private meetings with GOP members of the Senate and House.

There has been no response from members of Congress, now scattered for the between-sessions recess that ends Jan. 21. One Republican leader was described as angered by the shift, but reluctant to speak out publicly on the matter before he and other members of Congress have sampled voter attitudes on Watergate and alleged fund-raising scandals.

A GOP aide on Capitol Hill said Republicans who had advocated disclosure of everything relevant and available are likely to return from their recess displeased with the White House.

"How hard they go at the White House on this is going to be determined by what they find out during the recess," he said.

During a series of meetings with members of Congress six weeks ago, the President was quoted as saying he would be making public information on the tapes, and additional data that would cover such matters as the ITT case and campaign contributions from dairy industry interests. An aide has said documents on the latter two cases will be forthcoming.

Nixon also mentioned, and has since issued, an unprecedented accounting of his personal finances, including his income tax returns.

The White House has announced that the planned release of summaries of the Watergate tape recordings is being re-evaluated. Nixon is said to have decided against disclosure of summaries of the seven tape recordings that have been turned over to the Watergate special prosecutor.

In addition, the White House is expected to resist a subpoena from the Senate Watergate committee, which seeks nearly 500 tapes and documents.

A spokesman cited the committee demand, and the fact that a tape released for courtroom use was improperly played by a lawyer at a Washington cocktail party, as reasons for the apparent shift on public disclosure.

In addition, deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren noted that the President has said different people could reach differing conclusions because of ambiguities in the recorded conversations.

Warren also said nothing on the tapes is inconsistent with Nixon's denial of Watergate involvement.

That goes back to the position the President took in refusing to release tapes to the committee last July 23, a week after their existence was disclosed.

It remains unclear what will be made public on other matters, and when. Nixon is said to be planning to consult with Republican congressional leaders on the subject.

Firemen still caring for elderly 'orphan'

By DOUG STONE
Associated Press Writer

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — John Conners was a 10-year-old orphan when a firehouse crew adopted him in 1904. Firemen are still taking care of him.

"John has been loved and cared for faithfully by Memphis firemen" through the years, says Deputy Fire Chief Woody A. Vincent.

As old stations were replaced with new ones, Conners moved along with the firemen.

Vincent said Connors was a confused boy when he first drifted into into a downtown fire station.

"He slept under the hose rack, helped with horses and took occasional handouts of food and clothing," Vincent said.

"We believe his father may have been a railroad man who was killed when a switch engine overturned on him. We don't know what happened to his mother."

Conners has never been able to shed much light on the questions.

"He can talk some, but you have to be around him before you learn to understand what he is saying," Vincent said. "His mind is that of a child.

"John has been around the Fire Department longer than anyone and used to wear a fireman's uniform and ride the trucks on calls. He's probably answered twice as many alarms as anyone."

Vincent said Conners' fire truck-riding days ended some time ago after he persisted in "getting into mischief."

Firemen say Conners used to wear the uniform and attempt to direct traffic at busy intersections, creating traffic jams.

"There's no uniform, but he does wear a district chief's badge and cap," said Vincent. He said Conners is convinced he was promoted to the rank by a former chief.

"John is no expense to the taxpayers as all his support comes from regular contributions by individual firemen," Vincent said. Driven by firemen, Conners visits various stations on payday. He refuses more than $1 from any fireman.

"The biggest expense he's got is his cigars," said Vincent. Conners smokes about two dozen per day.

"Our men love this man," said Vincent. "Every morning, they bathe him, shave him and dress him. And John loves the fire department more than anything in the world and I think it would kill him not to be able to live in a fire station."

Holiday mishap

There's nothing like getting a new sled for the holidays except if you have a mishap. Thomas Edman, 2½-years-old, was coasting down a hill near his home in Londonderry, N.H., when his sled ran into a large rock. The result, two black eyes. (UPI)

Business news

KANSAS CITY — During calendar year 1973 five business loans were approved in Pettis County, totalling $53,000.00, according to C. I. Moyer, Small Business Administration regional director, Region VII, headquartered here.

In the 69 counties of Western Missouri, SBA made 454 business loans for $28,831,063 and in the 28 counties of Eastern Kansas, there were 249 business loans for $15,061,382. The Kansas City District office in both these areas made a total of 703 loans amounting to $43,892,445 in 1973. These figures do not include the disaster loans, local development company, or lease guarantees loans in 1973.

FOR PETE ROZELLE, commissioner of the NFL

Why doesn't the winner of the Super Bowl play the best of the Canadian football teams?—Patty Merriman, Naples, Texas

● For several reasons. First, the Canadian football championship—the Grey Cup—is played in November, while the NFL Super Bowl champion isn't determined until the second week in January, so the Canadian season would have ended perhaps two months prior to the earliest time when such a game could be played. Another problem is the difference in rules: The Canadian field is 110 yards and the end zones are 25 yards, compared to 100 yards and 10 yards in the NFL; Canadian teams have 12 players, NFL teams have 11; Canadian teams have three downs to achieve a first down, NFL teams four downs. And so on. No, I just don't think it's practicable.

FOR LEE MARVIN

I understand you have eight kids. Don't you ever feel the need for privacy?—P. R. O., Aurora, Ill.

● Only two children live permanently at home. The others are in and out. Yes, I do have a need for privacy. When it gets too hectic I take a long walk on the beach by myself. But when I go away on location I miss the kids and invariably take a couple with me.

FOR KAREN MAGNUSSEN, figure-skating champion

You must have gotten to know many East German skaters. Can you explain why more of them don't defect?—A. B. Green, Little Rock, Ark.

● They tell me that in a country like the U.S. or Canada, they would be nobodies. In East Germany they get special treatment—good apartments, cars and other extra privileges—that the amateur athlete in our country would not be allowed to accept.

FOR GEORGE FOREMAN, heavyweight boxing champion

What three boxers do you consider the top contenders for your crown?—Steve Nelson, East Grand Forks, Minn.

● The way I see it, Ron Lyles is the hungriest of the contenders, so I'd have to rate him No. 1. After Lyles, I'd say Muhammad Ali is No. 2. Joe Frazier is No. 3.

FOR ANN LANDERS, columnist

What type of education have you had that enables you to give advice in your columns?—Tracy Alletag, Pineville, La.

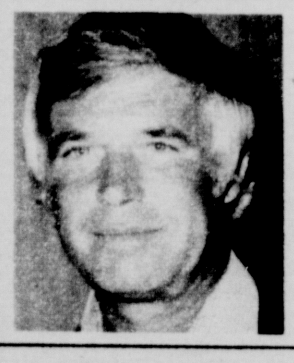

● I have had 3½ years at Morningside College. But formal education is not what "enables" a person to do this work. I have as my consultants some of the most distinguished physicians, psychiatrists and assorted authorities in every conceivable field. In a way, it's not what I know, but who I know that qualifies me to do this work.

FOR ARLENE DAHL, actress

Is it true that you used to date John F. Kennedy when he was a young senator?—Mrs. J. F. Moore, Austin, Texas

● Yes. In the early '50's he would come to Hollywood about once a month and stay for a week. He loved show business and liked being around the stars. But he was very shy. His father used to phone me occasionally, and I had the feeling he was playing matchmaker. Then I got married, and six months later Jack married Jackie.

FOR GEORGE PEPPARD

Are the proverbs used on "Banacek" really Polish proverbs? —James Brennan, Buffalo, N.Y.

● The proverbs are the work of "Banacek" executive producer George Eckstein, who did some digging into Polish culture and came up with what he says are "slightly altered" Polish proverbs.

FOR MARGARET HAMILTON

How do people usually recognize you—as the "Wizard of Oz" Wicked Witch of the West, or as Cora, the Maxwell House coffee lady?—S. K. Montecliner, Davenport, Iowa

● The coffee commercial is what they think of when they see me now, but the Wicked Witch recognition keeps returning. Being recognized is a pleasant experience. Sometimes I wish I'd get the ohs and ahs glamorous stars get, but I'm always recognized with a smile—and that tickles me!

FOR SEN. CHARLES PERCY (R—Ill.)

You've said that elderly Americans are our most neglected minority group. Can't Social Security benefits be increased again?—Mrs. Lela Owens, Havelock, N.C.

● Sure, but there'd still be too many older Americans living well below the standard they enjoyed prior to retirement. Anyway, money alone cannot end the neglect of the elderly that characterizes our whole youth-oriented culture. To overcome this will require more than money; it will require a basic change in our attitudes.

FOR ARNOLD "RED" AUERBACH, general manager of the Boston Celtics

You coached the Celtics to nine NBA crowns in ten years. In what year do you feel you had the best team?—Paul Kolar, Pisek, N.D.

● I coached so many great teams that it would be impossible to pick one "best" team. But there were two that stand out in my mind: the 1960-61 Championship team had Bob Cousy, Bill Sharman and Sam and K.C. Jones in the backcourt. It was probably our most powerful offensive team. The 1964-65 team compiled the best record of any of my teams and was the most powerful defensively.

© 1973 R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.

1. No. He's Miles Tugo, underwear salesman pretending he's a jogger. Gimmick: Cigarettes with filters so thick every time he inhales, his ears pop. 2. Meet Livingston I. Presume, gorilla. A latent Homo Sapien, who throws tires at anybody who doesn't believe in Evolution. 3. Nope. He's Jerry Bilt, zoo painter. Holds gimmick: A long pole to paint ape's cage (says he's allergic to fur and having his leg pulled off). His Maxi-Long cigarettes easily break in half, too. 4 & 5. No and no. They're Sam and Janet Evening, movie team making a low budget jungle picture: "King Kong Gives Detroit A Hickie." 6. He's Skip Tickel. Was given this address to deliver 12 Chinese dinners. Gimmick: Smokes cigarettes with filters so hollow he talks with an echo. 7. Right. He prefers wildlife to wild gimmicks. Wants no nonsense in his cigarette, either. Camel Filters. Good taste. Honest tobacco. 8. No. It's either the symbol of a high-quality cigarette, or a high-rise sheep.

Last June, as part of a double-barreled poll of the press and the public, FAMILY WEEKLY asked readers for their opinions on 29 "timely issues." The responses came in by the tens of thousands—in a great avalanche of mail. Last September, we reported on the responses of newspapermen. Now here is an analysis of how readers answered the same questions.

What seems to divide the country today is—age.

More than 60,000 readers from all 50 states and the District of Columbia responded to our 30-question poll. Generally, the regional differences in the answers were surprisingly small, and sex wasn't a key dividing factor. But on almost all issues, the answers chosen by FAMILY WEEKLY readers in the 18-to-25-year age group varied sharply from the remainder.

Perhaps it's to be expected. Modern communication and transportation are ending regional differences. East, West, North or South, we watch the same television programs and read the same magazines, shop in the same chain supermarkets and pick up the same drive-in hamburgers for the family. But age is one difference that is irreconcilable.

"Crabbed age and youth cannot live together," said Shakespeare in "Julius Caesar." "Confidence is a plant of slow growth in an aged bosom; youth is the season of credulity," said William Pitt, the noted English statesman.

These differences are apparent in all types of questions:

In domestic politics, when asked if tough price controls should be reimposed, 52 percent of the FAMILY WEEKLY respondents said Yes, but only 38 percent of the 18-25 age group wanted such firm controls.

In foreign affairs, to a question that asked if the Vietnam cease-fire strengthened the U.S. internationally, only 38 percent of the FAMILY WEEKLY respondents said Yes, but a much smaller fraction—only 28 percent—of the 18-25 age group said Yes.

On life-style questions, the differences were clear. For example, while 71 percent of all responding to the poll said the so-called "free life-style" wouldn't produce a better quality of life, only 49 percent of the 18-25 group—not quite half—were willing to give that clear No answer.

What kind of questions did the FAMILY WEEKLY poll show Americans sharply divided on?

- Gun control split the nation, with 47 percent calling for stronger laws and 45 percent rejecting such laws (but 54 percent of that 18-25-year group wanted tougher laws).
- Conditional amnesty (coupled with compensatory service) for draft evaders was another nation-splitter, with 42 percent voting Yes and 44 percent No. (The remainder are unsure or have no opinion.) Fifty-four percent of the younger group favored such a conditional amnesty.
- U.S. policy in the Middle East was split three ways among poll respondents, with 35 percent favoring our policy, 30 percent opposed and 27 percent unsure. That 18-25 group disagreed with the majority, but was just as divided—29 percent supporting our position, 36 percent opposing and 26 percent unsure.

On what does practically everyone agree?

- Pollution, with eight of ten favoring more stringent regulations to protect the water, the land and the air (but nine of ten in the 18-25 bracket wanted tougher rules).
- Rehabilitating North Vietnam, with four of five voting that it isn't a U.S. responsibility. (The 18-25 group agreed with the others on this issue.)
- Unconditional amnesty for draft evaders living abroad (in contrast to the conditional amnesty) was opposed by four out of five of the 60,000 poll respondents—but only three of five in the 18-25 age bracket.

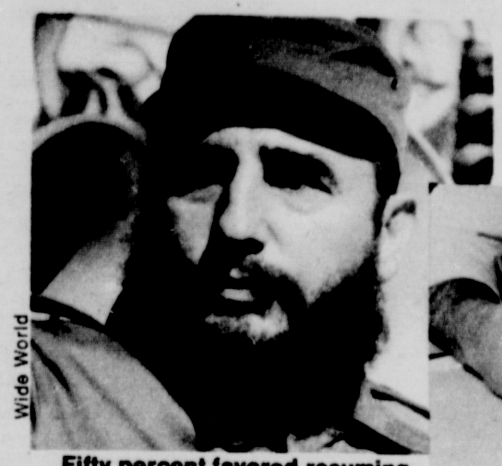

There were guides for legislators in the poll, too, indicating what type of new laws FAMILY WEEKLY readers might want—or might not want.

- A compulsory health insurance was favored 47 percent to 35 percent (the remainder unsure or not answering). In the 18-25 group the margin was 53 percent-33 percent. But readers were seriously split over how to pay for such insurance, with neither taxes nor individually paid insurance premiums winning strong support.
- No-fault auto insurance should be made available to all, nearly three of five voted, with the 18-25 group matching the figure.
- College-cost money should be tax exempt, two of three voted, but the margin was four of five in the 18-25 bracket.
- Even rehabilitating South Vietnam was unpopular, with 53 percent voting that the U.S. didn't have such a responsibility.

Radical solutions to social problems weren't popular: Two-thirds of the FAMILY WEEKLY readers said marriage won't become less important in the future. Here, only the under 18-year-old group seriously disagreed, with 55 percent of the youngsters predicting a less important role for matrimony.

Readers strongly opposed giving doctors the right to end—on their own—the life of an incurably ill patient. But in another poll theme—a strong belief in individual rights—the readers voted that the patient did have the right to choose death for him-

Fifty percent favored resuming relations with Cuba.

Stronger gun-control laws were slightly favored.

The interest in freedom showed itself, with nearly half the respondents agreeing that freedom of the press is endangered by some practices of the Nixon Administration. The right to say no was defended, too, with four of five opposing compulsory voting for the Presidency.

There were surprises:

Half the respondents—and two-thirds of the 18-25 group—thought the U.S. could reestablish normal diplomatic relations with Cuba.

And more than half those answering the poll opposed a guaranteed college education to youngsters with ability—even though, as might be expected, seven of ten of the under 18-year-olds and half the 18-25's wanted such a college-education guarantee.

Just over half the respondents—and seven of ten of the 18-25 age group—thought a woman executive could boss men and women as well as a man.

Two-thirds thought the privacy of the individual was threatened by America's vast information-gathering business, from government dossiers to credit-bureau investigations.

And what did FAMILY WEEKLY readers pick as the U.S.'s most sensitive trouble spot? The majority picked the Middle East, and picked it even before the war that surprised the world broke out this fall.

What are the nation's key problems? Inflation, energy and pollution and crime, in that order, said the majority of those polled, a tough list to quarrel with.

On the drug issue, the poll showed the concern of parents more than anything else. A strong majority—61 percent of all respondents and 75 percent of the 18-25's—said a marijuana user shouldn't be criminally punished for a first offense. But for pushers, 52 percent favored a death penalty—although only 27 percent in the 18-25 group voted for that harsh penalty.

But what's most amazing is that in one of the most dramatic years in the history of our Republic, opinions on major questions are still so moderate. The explosion of the Watergate investigation into illegal White House snooping; the inflation that suddenly pushed food prices up; the sudden stream of shortages, from fuel oil to fertilizer; the resignation of Vice President Agnew; the Middle East war; the constant talk of impeachment—any one of these issues could shake the confidence of a nation. Together, it's possible to see them leading to division and panic.

The FAMILY WEEKLY poll showed, instead, that while young and old may differ on how to resolve the nation's problems, they are in close agreement on what those problems are. For all our troubles, says our poll, as a nation we are stronger than we may think.

BEEFY MACARONI AND CHEESE

Rinse 1 pkg. or jar (4 ozs.) dried beef with hot water; drain well and shred. In medium skillet combine 2 cans (14¾-oz. size) macaroni and cheese and beef. Heat covered over medium heat 5 minutes. Meanwhile, combine 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine with ¼ cup bread crumbs, season with dash of seasoned salt. Sprinkle crumbs over macaroni mixture, cover; continue heating 5 minutes longer. Makes 4 servings

"REFRIED" BEAN TACOS

In pie pan, mash 1 can (1 lb.) baked beans with potato masher. In skillet, fry 4 slices bacon until crisp; remove and crumble. Pour off all but 3 tablespoons drippings. Cook ¼ cup chopped onion and 2 teaspoons chili powder in drippings until tender. Add beans and 1 can (4 ozs.) taco sauce (or ½ cup tomato sauce). Cook 5 minutes, stirring frequently. Divide bean mixture into each of 6 prepared taco shells (or use 6 slices toast). Top each with 2 tablespoons shredded lettuce, 1 tablespoon diced tomatoes (optional), crumbled bacon and 1 tablespoon shredded cheddar cheese. Makes 6 servings

Excuse us for butting into the recipes.

Whipping gives Miracle Brand Margarine six sticks instead of four. So a pound produces 36 extra pats.

Whipping means smoother, easier spreading, too. And whipping sacrifices none of that good, fresh Kraft margarine flavor.

They aren't.

YOUR NERVES CAN CURE THEMSELVES

once you learn how to de-sensitize them, this doctor's ingenious new way...

If You Suffer From A Single One Of These Torturous Symptoms Of Nerves, Tension Or Chronic Anxiety, THEN THE FACTS BELOW MAY BE THE MOST IMPORTANT YOU HAVE EVER READ IN YOUR LIFE!

Because they reveal, for the first time, how your nerves have tricked you into the following mental symptoms:

constant nervousness and over-irritation... indecision... depression ...loss of confidence in yourself and others... feelings of unreality... overwhelming obsession with one or two horrible thoughts...

a hopeless feeling that your entire personality is coming apart... that your identity is dissolving... or that you may be helplessly drifting into a nervous breakdown!

And—equally as bad—how your nerves have tricked you into the following physical symptoms:

chronic fatigue, that starts in the morning, and grows worse as the day goes on...

sweating hands—or "pins and needles" in either your hands or your legs...

"churning" stomach... nausea... choking feeling in the throat... inability to take a deep breath... tight band of pain around the head..."ready to jump out of your skin"... strange tricks of vision ...weak spells... insomnia, that goes on night after night after night...

hand shaking... panic spasms... knots in your chest... dizziness... difficulty in swallowing... vomiting... and all the other physical tortures that turn your life into one continuous hell!

And Every One Of These Nervous Symptoms Can Be Controlled... And Then Diminished ...And Then Eliminated—OFTEN BY AS LITTLE AS THIS ONE SINGLE INSIGHT INTO THEIR HIDDEN CAUSE!

And that insight is this:

If you suffer from any of the nervous symptoms listed above, then you must understand at once that your nerves are not ill... they have not deteriorated... they have not lost their true physical health in any way! What has happened to them instead is that they have simply become OVER-SENSITIZED..."rubbed raw" by too much outside irritation ...and are now ready to discharge the emotional and physical symptoms of panic at even the slightest thing that goes wrong!

Thus, the depression... indecision... loss of confidence and all the other emotional symptoms you feel are all caused by OVER-SENSITIZED nerves! And the churning stomach... palpitating heart... never-ending headaches and all the other physical nervous-symptoms you feel are—again—all caused by OVER-SENSITIZED nerves!

And therefore the way to treat ALL these symptoms is NOT with drugs... NOT with shock... NOT with medical formulations or hospitalizations at all! The way to treat these nerves is to change the poisonous-thoughts that are rubbing them raw!

And this is done (as proven by this internationally-famed physician on thousands of patients) in four simple steps! The first of which stops nervous symptoms (both physical and emotional) from multiplying from that moment on! The second of which serves to tranquilize and quiet down those over-sensitized nerves far more powerfully (and permanently) than any drug a pharmacist could ever give you!

The third of which lets you stop fighting those symptoms (which only intensifies them in an ever-increasing spiral of sheer torment), and—instead—leave them alone in an ingenious way that lets them start healing themselves!

And the fourth of which—the great reward—brings you slowly-but-surely back to the person you used to be! With a new, enduring feeling of control and confidence that nothing can destroy! So much so that this doctor actually comes right out and states bluntly: "The advice given here will definitely cure you, if you only follow it"!

WHAT OTHERS SAY:

"... helped me so much and released me from the particular hell I have been living in since my breakdown six years ago."

"I think of Dr. Weekes with admiration and deep gratitude, as I am sure thousands of other people are doing."

"I am amazed at the progress I made in such a short time."

"It would be no exaggeration to add that your book saved my life."

"The method you give for cure of nervous conditions is so effective—and so simple—I cannot think why nothing remotely like your system has been suggested to me."

"The great reassurance you give about the distressing physical symptoms of a disturbed nervous system is one of the greatest benefits to be derived from your book."

"You cannot possibly imagine what a relief it is to be able to view life normally again, instead of fear-panic all the while."

"I cannot describe the emotion I felt to find, at last, someone who really understood the problem, and to hear her say the condition can be cured. . . ."

"I would like you to know that my nervous condition has so greatly improved through the advice gleaned from your most precious and invaluable book . . . that all symptoms have now disappeared and I rarely need Librium or sleeping capsules."

"My physician is amazed at my progress and of course I showed him your book which he borrowed and read thoroughly and is now recommending to other patients."

"My wife has made a vast improvement since using your book and now feels for the first time like getting away from the hospital altogether. I'm sure if she had had your treatment in earlier years she would never have had to go into the hospital at all."

WHAT THE PUBLISHER SAYS:

HOPE AND HELP FOR YOUR NERVES has sold over 250,000 copies and has been endorsed by medical and mental-health associations throughout the world. Millions of Americans have heard Dr. Weekes on television and radio shows and have read excerpts from the book which recently appeared in Reader's Digest. If you are one of the many whose nerves are on edge and who sometimes feel panic and don't know why, this remarkable book was written for you.

In Fact, Case History After Case History Proves That Cure May Be So Dramatically Quick That Your Friends And Family Will Beg You To Tell Them Your Secret!

Once again, it doesn't matter what physical or emotional symptoms you are now suffering from... how "deeply entrenched" they are... how long you have been plagued by them... how "old" or "weak" or "out-of-control" you may feel today! Here is specific, step-by-immediate-step advice that will (again to quote directly from the doctor) "banish every unwelcome sensation and regain peace of mind and body"!

For example:

The two-minute self-treatment (you perform one ingenious little action with your chest) that ends sudden panic seizures on the spot—including all their side effects such as dizziness, pins and needles, involuntary stiffening of the joints, inability to breathe, and all the rest.

That "lump in the throat that won't go away"—how to banish it in minutes... and enjoy eating any food you wish to once again!

Physical weakness—perhaps the most dreaded of all symptoms—and (surprisingly) perhaps the fastest of all to banish!

How to deal with the twin monsters of fatigue and guilt! And leave behind emotional exhaustion... morning depression... thoughts that once raced around and around in your mind without cessation! (And leave them all behind—for good!)

Why so many patients who tried these simple techniques actually came out of their nervous sicknesses as far finer and stronger people than they ever were before!

How to recover from chronic tension caused by an insoluable problem! The only sane way to overcome it! How to avoid unnecessary suffering, for both yourself and others! And, perhaps, actually turn your worst defeat into crowning success!

How to bring happiness back into your everyday life! Not by waiting for some great event or reward... but simply by developing the eyes to see joy in the little things all around you!

And—the final goal: How to develop the kind of nervous control that automatically turns panic off the instant it starts! That frees you forever from "nerve-crutches" such as drugs or alcohol! That lets you pick up your life again from the point where over-sensitized nerves forced you to abandon it, with absolute confidence that you now have the poise and self-possession to accomplish the goals you have always wanted!

Already a best-seller in nine foreign nations, as well as the United States! Read it from cover to cover. We take all the risk! Fair enough? Why not send in the coupon—TODAY!

VITAL NOTE!

To gain the wonder-working benefits of this book in every area of your life starting within the first five minutes after you pick it up—there is absolutely no need to STUDY this revolutionary new book or even read it from cover to cover, or expend any more "literary" effort on your part other than to browse through it at your leisure for one or two thrilling minutes a day!

This is NOT a textbook! NOT a study manual! There are no lectures—not a single "blue-sky" theory to ponder over anywhere!

Instead, for the first time; here are revolutionary new breakthroughs that HELP YOUR NERVES DE-SENSITIZE THEMSELVES... ACTUALLY DRAIN OUT TORTUROUS MENTAL AND PHYSICAL SYMPTOMS, STARTING THE VERY FIRST DAY—all through a few incredibly-simple techniques that you can put to work for you the very first time you pick it up.

Therefore, we do NOT want you to treat this amazing volume as you would an ordinary book! Instead, we ask you this:

Place it on your bedstand, entirely at our risk, for thirty days! Browse through just a few pages every night before you retire! Skip around if you like! But make absolutely no conscious effort to "study" this book, "work" on it, or even memorize a single one of the thrilling techniques you will find on every one of its pages!

Instead, you'll make this startling discovery in these very first thirty days alone. Instantly—simply by leafing through its pages—your mind will automatically absorb the wonder-working procedures laid out for you in this book! Effortlessly, you will respond to its convention-shattering breakthroughs!

Inevitably—hour after hour—day after day—week after week—you will find your body draining away, almost by itself, the tortures of constant nervousness... overwhelming depression... lack of confidence... chronic fatigue... 'skipping' or 'racing' heart... pins and needles in hands or feet... even nausea, shortness of breath, chest and stomach pains, weak spells, and never-flagging insomnia! And much, much more!

Star Chat

By Peer J. Oppenheimer

Tough Talk from James Caan:

"So Now, Suddenly, I'm Supposed to Be a Genius!"

Caan in his newest film, "Cinderella Liberty."

"I went to college to play football and drink beer. I was 16 and nothing else mattered. Business management, history, economics, prelaw—you name it, I did it. I switched majors seven times in two years. I just kept fooling myself that I was interested in something when I really wasn't."

FAMILY WEEKLY: You've been in some pretty big movies—"The Godfather," TV's "Brian's Song"—yet you've never won an award. How do you feel about that?

CAAN: Let's face it: It's the success of the pictures that makes you a big guy, not your performance. The best job I've done was in "The Rain People," but the picture didn't make any money. Now, after "The Godfather," I am a genius and get six scripts a day!

FW: What did you think of Marlon Brando's turning down his Academy Award?

CAAN: That's his business. But let me tell you one thing: I respect Brando. Brando takes chances. He could have done "On the Waterfront" or "Streetcar" for the rest of his life. But no, he does musicals. He does "Last Tango in Paris," or the old man in "The Godfather." He does what he believes in. That takes guts. You can't become a superstar unless you've made it big, fallen on your tail, and then made it big again. The nature of this business is envy. Unless you can prove you can do it the second time, people don't believe you have what it takes.

FW: Is there any actor that you would want to be like?

CAAN: If there is, it's Brando.

FW: Your first marriage ended in divorce. How old were you when you married Deejay Mattis?

CAAN: Twenty-one. I proposed on our first date and we got married a few months later. It was too fast. We were lovers. We never had a chance to become friends. I was always in search of love. We eloped on five dollars I borrowed from my mother.

FW: Do you think that you will want to get married again?

CAAN: I have mixed emotions about it. I'd like to get married again, but I also like my freedom. I want more kids (I have one daughter), but at this point I don't like the idea of having responsibilities.

FW: You have been going with Connie ["Playboy" Playmate Connie Kreski] for a couple of years now. How does she feel about your attitude?

CAAN: She's very sweet. If she weren't, our relationship wouldn't have lasted this long. I would have felt imprisoned, and that would have been the end of it. Believe me, I am not easy to live with. It takes a lot of woman to put up with me.

FW: In what way?

CAAN: I love to go out with my friends and stay up all night. I enjoy going on rodeos. I want to do what I please without being tied down.

FW: You mean—no responsibilities?

CAAN: I don't even own a home. First of all, until now I couldn't afford one I really wanted. See, no matter how much money I make, at the end of the year I have nothing left.

CAAN: That's one of the great mysteries of life. My business manager says the same thing. I don't know. Dinner parties, rodeos, fun. . . .

FW: Why do you have a business manager when you took business management in college?

CAAN: I went to college to play football and drink beer. I was 16 and nothing else mattered. Business management, history, economics, prelaw—you name it, I did it. I switched majors seven times in two years. I just kept fooling myself that I was interested in something when I really wasn't.

FW: I read that you were born in the Bronx; then I read that you were born on Long Island. Which was it?

CAAN: I was born in the Bronx, but my parents moved to Long Island when I was six. My parents still live there.

FW: When did you have your first real fight?

CAAN: I learned to fight when I was five. I was beaten up one day, and when I came home, my father kicked me out the door and told me not to come back until I'd beaten that kid.

FW: Did you ever go to jail?

CAAN: I got pretty close. I did the usual things kids do in tough neighborhoods—stole candy, drag raced, that sort of thing. But nothing serious enough to go to jail.

FW: What do you look forward to in life now?

CAAN: I've stopped looking forward. I've decided to live for today—as long as I stay healthy. Professionally, I don't want to be tied down with more than one picture at a time. I'd like to do just one picture a year—maybe two.

FW: How come you had a nervous breakdown?

CAAN: Oh, you mean when I did "The Rain People"? I played a depressing character, and then we were shooting and traveling all over the country. There was absolutely nothing to do at night. I'd go to my motel room and play with the light switches. I can't act all day and talk theater all night. That's the kiss of death. You can't analyze everything. I've got to be active mentally and I've got to be active physically as well.

FW: Such as?

FW: Did you ever go to a psychiatrist?

CAAN: I went to a psychologist.

FW: What did he do for you?

CAAN: He made me realize that I need to have a good time!

Who else but The Divine Miss M can carry off singing the Andrews Sisters' "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy" and contemporary writer Alex Harvey's "Delta Dawn" with equal talent, verve and sensitivity? Of her own taste in music, she says: "Aretha Franklin is my all-time favorite singer. If I could make my list longer, I'd add live recordings by Glenn Miller and Martha Raye."

How Your Horoscope Can Bring You Wealth, Love, Success And Happiness

Astrology Today
PRESENTED BY THE INTERNATIONAL ASTROLOGICAL ASSOCIATION
"The World's Largest Astrological Association"

by NORMAN P. KENNEDY

Did you know your horoscope could mean the difference between happiness or sorrow; between success or failure?

Picture a long room with doors at each end. In this room there is money, attractive persons of the opposite sex, books that tell you the secret of happiness and many other valuable articles. But, also in this room are bottomless pits, traps, hostile persons and dangerous beasts chained in various places around the room. You must walk through this room, but you may take out of it anything you can.

Now if you had a choice, would you choose to 1) go through the room blindfolded or 2) go through the room with your eyes open and with written instructions on which places an and people to visit or avoid.

Of course, all of us would pick the second choice in a case such as this. Isn't it ridiculous, then, that we would choose to go thru life, the same situation, blindfolded! Even when there is a means to go thru life with a map and our eyes wide open! The means provided is Astrology. The map is our astrological horoscope.

How does it work? Nature's cosmos imprints each of us at the time of birth - when the umbilical cord is cut. We then become ourselves. Until the cord is cut, we are part of our mother. Why or how we presently do not know. The movement of the large solar bodies then times potentials for events in our lives. Astrology does not cause events but is timing of events. But, it's not fortune telling. It's a prediction of potentials which free will can override.

Here is a common misconception about astrology. Some people say, "how can stars millions of light years away be related to our lives." The error here is the word stars. Astrology deals with the relationship of our lives with the sun, moon, and planets–not stars.

And, anyone who doesn't think that the sun, moon, and planets do not regulate earth and its inhabitants, had better think again. We all know how the moon controls the tides. We have all heard of the famous clam experiments where the clams open and close by the cycle of the moon, sun, and planets. Police departments and insurance companies show exact relations with crime and violence with cycles of the moon, sun and planets. Doctors are finding direct relationships with successful operations and the cycle of the solar bodies. Authenticated research is now proving that astrology can predict natural disasters, wars, diseases a person will suffer, personalities of people and much more.

What does a natal horoscope analysis by a qualified astrologer contain? A natal horoscope analysis contains the best psychological analysis of yourself that you can get today. Because, in a controlled experiment in 1960, astrologers beat psychologists in predicting case histories.

In addition, a natal horoscope analysis includes discussions on the following: financial outlook; taxes and inheritances; early home environment; relationships with family; relatives and parents; lovelife and marriage; children; career and occupation; hopes; wishes and goals; and subconscious attitudes. In a major analysis, a one year forecast is also included.

Many people think that astrology only appeals to "way out" unscientific people. Nothing could be farther from the truth. In fact, studies show that astrology appeals most to intelligent and logical people.

Consider these famous scientists: Galileo-astronomer, Carl Jung-psychologist, Johannes Kepler-astronomer, Roger Bacon-mathemetician, Tycho Bache-astronomer. Want to know what they all had in common? They all were astrologers themselves or used astrology in their work. Even Albert Einstein was impressed by the accuracy of astrology when he studied it in his late years.

Astrology appeals to people in every walk of life. A horoscope has meant the difference between success and disaster for famous people throughout history. Your horoscope can mean the same to you.

Your horoscope can help you be in the right place at the right time.

Did you know that the three wise men who found the Christ Child were astrologers? The "large star" which guided them to the Christ Child was really a cluster of cosmic bodies which were, as predicted by astrological charts, in line at that particular time. This was the reason it was so bright. This alignment of bodies allowed the wise men to know the time and place of the birth of Christ. Also, Christ chose His 12 apostles according to the 12 astrological signs.

Your horoscope can help you avoid disasters while guiding you to your beneficial opportunities.

Did you know that astrology helped the allies win W.W. II? The allies employed astrologers. The axis powers started out employing astrologers. But, this was ceased early when the famous astrologer, Karl Ernst Krafft, predicted the exact time and place of an attempt on Hitler's life in 1939. Hitler thought the astrologers were conspiring against him, so they were imprisoned.

This proved to be a tragic decision for Hitler. A decision that may have altered the course of the war. Because, if Hitler had studied his horoscope, he would have used different strategy. Why? Because two horoscopes, one of Adolf Hitler, drawn by two different astrologers, in two different countries, at two different times exactly predicted the course of W.W. II.

Hitler did get to see these horoscopes . . . . too late. He read them in the last hours of the war as Berlin burned around him. The following is an authentic account of the incident.

> "They sent for two horoscopes, which were kept in the files of one of Himmler's multitudinous "research" offices. One was the horoscope of the Fuehrer drawn up on January 30, 1933, the day he took office; the other was the horoscope of the Weimer Republic, composed by some unknown astrologer on November 9, 1918, the day of the Republic's birth. Goebbles communicated the results of the re-examination of these two remarkable documents to Krosigk.
> An amazing fact has become evident, both horoscopes predicted the outbreak of the war in 1939, the victories until 1941, and the subsequent series of reversals, with the hardest blows during the first months of 1945, particularly during the first half of April.* In the second half of April, we were to experience a temporary success. Then there would be stagnation until August and peace that same month. For the following three years, Germany would have a hard time, but starting in 1948, she would rise again."
> *Hitler committed suicide in April, 1945.

On the other hand, astrologers aided the allies in forecasting the axies moves. The most famous astrologer, Louis de Wohl, employed by British government, predicted the exact events leading to the downfall of Mussolini. He gained the faith of the American military when he predicted Pearl Harbor a year before it happened.

More on avoiding disasters, here is a story from a recent newspaper article in the Miami Herald's Sunday magazine.

> –Mary Kelly is a computer programmer. She credits astrology with saving her from an operation on her legs that would have left her crippled. "It happened in New York in 1963," she says. "My doctor decided an operation was needed, and told me to check into the hospital Friday for the procedure on Monday. I consulted my astrologer, who did a special lunar return chart and came up with the possibility of a wrong diagnosis for Monday. She told me to have the operation changed to Wednesday, in order to allow the planet Neptune, amongst others, to change position. I did this, and on Tuesday the doctor suddenly discovered a blood clot was causing the trouble. Had he performed the operation, as any doctor would have on Friday's symptoms, I probably would never have walked again."–

Also in the Miami Herald article, was a story about a noted Miami astrologer, Clifford McMillen. Here is an excerpt.

> –McMillen is also listed as the official astrologer to Sen. George McGovern, and predicted in February, 1972, that he would lose in November to President Nixon. At the same time, he forecast the victory of his Democratic nomination at Miami Beach.
> As he explained to his afternoon museum class recently, "The planet Saturn came into conflict with a planet of McGovern's career area, setting up a T-square, which means considerable difficulties to overcome. In October, Nixon, a Capricorn, will be benefiting from the good planet Jupiter, while McGovern, a Cancer, will have the trouble-giving planet Saturn in conflict with his career area, from the 12th House, building up unknown enemies. Really, in the coming race, he might as well stay home."

Your horoscope can bring you wealth. Famous business tycoon J. P. Morgan, used astrology to acquire his fortune. Morgan did not make a financial move without checking his natal horoscope forecast.

From the article in the Miami Herald come these stories:

> –Stockbrokers on Wall Street are as likely to call an astrologer in this decade as Hollywood film stars would call a psychiatrist in the last. David Williams, a 75-year-old retired financial expert who lives in Clearwater, has made $150,000 from the stock market in 13 years by using astrology as an investment guide.
> Robert Cooper is a classic, middle-aged establishment sort with silver-rimmed glasses - but he wouldn't move a penny in the $4-million St. Petersburg corporation from which he retired recently as vice president, before charting the planets.–

Your horoscope can show you the way to success and happiness in love and marriage. Horoscopes of Grace Kelly and Jackie Kennedy predicted their current successful marriages. Grace Kelly to Prince Rainier of Monaco and Jackie Kennedy to Aristotle Onassis, Greek multi-millionaire.

Princess Grace and Prince Rainier have recently had their horoscopes done together by American astrologer, Keith Clayton. As with these famous people, your horoscope can help you find and keep a lasting and meaningful love relationship.

By knowing how to advance your career or making a correct financial decision, you would get back your investment thousands of times. Success in the areas of lovelife, marriage, children relationship and peer relationship is of infinite value. Knowing what future potentials to take advantage of and which ones to avoid can offer a priceless feeling of security.

Now and through the ages a good natal horoscope analysis has meant success for many people. In other cases many men have missed their opportunity; some with tragic consequences, such as Adolf Hitler.

Will you miss your success opportunities? Will you stumble into pitfalls you could have avoided?

Today, right this moment, you can have your natal horoscope cast and analyzed. You can get it for only the cost to make your duplicate copy. You get the expensive casting and analyzing process–FREE. The article below will tell you how. The means are available, but the choice is yours.

BY SIMPLY MAILING IN YOUR BIRTH DATA FOR RESEARCH

by John F. Ford, President of International Astrological Association

Send me your exact time and place of birth. I'll cast and analyze your natal horoscope for research purposes. You may have duplicate copies of your horoscope for only $3.00–the cost to make your copies plus postage and handling costs. You get the expensive casting and analyzing process–FREE, because of the fact that we must produce your horoscope for research anyhow.

Your natal horoscope will consist of nine pages and over 3,000 words. Your natal horoscope will contain your psychological analysis plus a discussion of the following: your lovelife; financial outlook; marriage, family and children relationships; career and occupations; hopes, wishes and goals; and subconscious attitudes. A horoscope of this type would cost up to $300 if done by an astrologer.

I will cast your horoscope with the help of our 360 - 65 I.B.M. computer, which contains over 24 million bits of information. Your horoscope will not be the worthless type found in daily newspapers. Your natal horoscope will be cast from your exact time and place of birth for you and you alone.

THERE'S ABSOLUTELY NO CATCH. I need this information for my astrological research. I am looking for certain planet configurations. If you are chosen as a research subject, I will mail to you a research questionnaire. If you fill out and return this questionnaire, you will be entitled to extra bonuses.

There is no need to worry about finding out about an unavoidable coming disaster thru your chart. As mentioned, astrology deals in potentials. Your free will can override potentials if you know about them. In any case, the policy of qualified astrologers is positive astrology. If there is something negative in your chart, you are told what you can do to make it positive.

To get your horoscope thru this special opportunity, simply fill out the research computer form to the right and mail to the address given on the form. Include the $3.00 copy cost for each horoscope or charge your credit card. There is a limit of two per family. If you don't know your exact time of birth, fill in 12:00 PM.

If you have any questions, call me, John F. Ford, President, International Astrological Association, at (216) 494-4282. Thank you!

COMPUTER DATA ENTRY FORM - PLEASE PRINT

I submit my birth data for research. I am now eligible to promptly receive my 3,000 word natal horoscope for only a $3.00 cost to make my duplicate copy. One or two names from my household may be submitted. (Limit of 2 - no exceptions)

People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

The Place You Live— And How It Affects Your Life

True or False: How much you trust your fellowmen is likely to depend on what part of the country you live in.
(See number 3)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Almost everybody agrees that there is one state in the U.S. with the greatest scenery, the most natural beauty.

2. Where you live has a bearing on how long you're likely to live.

3. How much you trust your fellowmen is likely to depend on what part of the country you live in.

4. Most Americans are dissatisfied with the region they live in and wish they could move somewhere else.

5. How strictly you will be judged should you stray occasionally from the straight-and-narrow path in your social attitude or conduct depends more on where you happen to live than how you live.

ANSWERS

1. False. No question is more controversial, for virtually every state has outstanding features that are rated highly by some, shrugged off as unimpressive by others. On two separate occasions, however, nationwide public-opinion surveys were conducted that showed eight states as being most frequently mentioned for their beauty. They are: California, Colorado, Florida, Pennsylvania, New York, Washington, Oregon and Kentucky. When people were asked to name the city with the most beautiful setting, San Francisco scored the most votes, with Washington, D.C., as second choice, followed by Los Angeles, New York City and Miami. Others high on the list included Denver, Honolulu, New Orleans, Salt Lake City and San Diego.

2. True. Longevity studies conducted by a leading life insurance company show that "longevity in the U.S. varies appreciably from one region to another." It's pointed out that the chances of surviving from age 65 to age 85 provide a practical measure of longevity. It was found that men aged 65 had the best chances of living 20 more years in Florida, Minnesota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oregon, California and New Mexico. As for the women, they had a survival advantage over men throughout the U.S.

3. True—as shown by a nationwide survey of people's attitudes conducted by the University of Michigan's Institute of Social Research, which showed Westerners to be the most trusting of their fellowmen by a significant margin. Easterners and residents of the Midwestern states ranked next. Southerners, it was found, were inclined to be most skeptical of other people's motives, particularly if those people are strangers.

4. False. In a coast-to-coast survey, people were asked if they had ever thought they would like to move to another state. Two out of three said they preferred their own state for a variety of reasons and wouldn't want to move anywhere else.

5. True—according to a recent survey of the attitudes of Americans as regards morals, ethics and human conduct in general. Findings: The most morally strict and disapproving of permissive life-styles were the Southerners. Midwesterners ranked next, then came Westerners. Most broad-minded of all, most tolerant of human frailties and peccadillos, were the Easterners. They tended to embrace the most uncritical, live-and-let-live attitude.

Arthritis, Rheumatism Sufferers Just Wouldn't Let Me Stop Making ICY-HOT!!!

By Bryan Auer

For 50 years the J. W. Gibson Company, makers of pharmaceuticals and household items, has been selling more than 275 different products. When I was fortunate enough to take charge of this company, I thought it wise to review all the things we had been selling. As a good manager I made an effort to economize and decided to eliminate more than 150 products. One that I eliminated was called ICY-HOT—a medicated cream that was really different . . .

Well friends—you can't imagine what happened! It was like the roof fell in—I got hundreds—literally hundreds—of letters from people who suffered from the minor aches and pains of arthritis and rheumatism pleading with me that ICY-HOT was their salvation, and that I'd be letting them down if I took it off the market.

What could I do? The same thing you'd have done. I started making ICY-HOT again. What's more, I felt that if ICY-HOT was that good, I'd like everybody in the United States who suffers from the minor aches and pains of arthritis and rheumatism to know about it. That's why you're reading this now.

And that's why you can try ICY-HOT on this iron clad guarantee of complete satisfaction or money back. But you won't find it in your drugstore. You can only purchase ICY-HOT by mail. All you do is send only $2.00 for a big 3½ ounce jar of ICY-HOT. If you are not completely satisfied don't bother sending back the unused portion of the jar—just send us a note and I will send you your $2.00 by return mail.

Take advantage of this no-risk offer—you have nothing to lose. Trying is believing! Only by trying can you fully appreciate the benefits of ICY-HOT. Send only $2.00 to:

THE LENNON SISTERS
Don't argue—discuss

QUOTE: The Lennon Sisters Secret of Success: "We think the reason we've lasted so many years is because we don't argue. There are 11 children in our family, and when we were little, Mom would say, 'Please keep your voices down. Don't argue – discuss! With so many of you around, what if everyone argued? I couldn't take it!' The result was that we grew up talking things over. The majority rules, and that's that." UNQUOTE.

Ever gone to the supermarket with a man? Here's how Sam Levenson sees it: "Getting out...is...more difficult than getting in. It is somewhat like leaving a foreign country. 'What do you declare?' The check-out counter looks and operates like the U.S. Customs. There are two lanes marked Local, two Express, one Ten items or less, and seven lanes marked This lane closed. Any lane may be closed at the discretion of the customs officer if said lane should become dangerously overcrowded by one person." From "In One Era & Out the Other" (Simon and Schuster, $6.95).

WHAT'S YOUR HANDPRINT?
This machine knows

A foolproof security system that checks handprints instead of fingerprints has been invented by Robert Miller of Northvale, N. J., and is currently being used by banks, businesses and the Strategic Air Command as a means of identifying employees. The machine, a large black box, measures the lines coming into the center point of a person's palm and acts like a giant fingerprint. Exactly how the machine works is something Mr. Miller would have to explain, but essentially what happens is this: A person places a card into the machine. Then he places his hand palm down on the machine. If the data on the card matches the handprint, then the person can enter the building. If not, lights flash, bells ring and the doors remain shut. 1984 is only a decade away!

BUY CYCLE

The bike is back, I realize:
Two wheels, two pedals, handlebars,
A seat—it's simpler far than cars.

The three-speed's noticed now and then,
But mostly you must have a ten.

Our children's bikes, the very latest,
Are really slick, the kind that's greatest.
They've hand brakes, racing tires and sirens,
Imported, best in our environs.

They're made of finest steel I'm told,
Though I insist they're made of gold.
You say this isn't really so?
I paid for one. I ought to know.

THROUGH A CHILD'S EYES
Kids see life differently. Send original contributions to "Child," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., N.Y., N.Y. 10022. $10 if used—none returned.

Having one daughter, 5, and a son, 3, we were pleased that our third child was another little girl. On my arrival home with the brand-new baby, my daughter sat next to me. While I was talking about my two beautiful little daughters, my son rambled over and asked sullenly, "Momma, do you like the girls better than me?" "Of course not," I answered, "I love all of you—and especially you because you're my only son." With sheer delight and amazement he looked at me and said, "Oh Momma, am I really?"

LITTLE EMILY

"Try to bring back the Big Band Sound, and this is the thanks you get!"

Where the Indians still don war paint to collect scalps and the buffalo roam in thundering herds. Where the land is still up for grabs—waiting for men with courage enough to tame it.

If this is the world you would like to explore, let us send you—for only $1—three of the greatest books Zane Grey ever wrote:

The Thundering Herd.

Riders of the Purple Sage.
Probably the most popular Western ever written. In the midst of fiery action, a mysterious rider and the girl he loves gamble their lives in the winning of the West.

Arizona Ames.
A blazing epic of a hard-riding cowpuncher whose six shooter spread terror among the toughest bad men.

These handsome, hardbound books are clothed in sunset red, desert tan and cavalry blue, and stamped in genuine gold. They're the first of what could be a library of Western classics you'll be proud to own.

And to celebrate Zane Grey's 100th Anniversary, we'll send you all three books (regularly $11.67) for only $1.

They will include: Wildfire, Wild Horse Mesa, The Vanishing American, Fighting Caravans, The Hash Knife Outfit, Maverick Queen, Thunder Mountain, and many more.

Because we print in large quantities, and because we sell directly to the public, we can offer our subscribers beautifully bound Zane Grey books for only a fraction of what you'd expect to pay—only $3.89 each plus shipping.

The Zane Grey Library
Roslyn, N.Y. 11576

Please send me Riders of the Purple Sage, Arizona Ames and The Thundering Herd.

If I don't want to keep these introductory volumes, I'll return them within a week and owe nothing. Otherwise, I'll pay just $1 for all three, plus shipping.

Also reserve for me other beautifully-bound volumes in the Zane Grey Library, which I will be entitled to receive as they come from the presses.

I'll get advance descriptions of all future volumes. I may reject any book before or after I receive it.

For those I keep, I pay just $3.89 each plus shipping. And I may cancel my reservation at any time.

DEAR POLLY — Make an inexpensive necktie rack by putting two cup hooks on the inside of a closet door and stretch a heavy rubber band between them. — MRS. D. R.

DEAR POLLY — To prolong the use of small rugs with foam backing that is beginning to crumble, I sew a used bath towel to the back of such a rug. This prevents those foam bits from scattering on the floor. — CATHY

DEAR POLLY — When a flea collar for a dog or cat has to be cut down to the correct size — there is usually quite a big strip left — particularly when putting one on a cat. I put these extra pieces in my sofa and chairs to help rid the furniture of any fleas. I also tuck some under blankets in the dog's house and the cat's basket,which helps quite a bit. — GRACE

DEAR POLLY — It was necessary to leave a window slightly open while I was away from home. Being afraid it would rain and blow in, I propped the window open with a stiff household sponge. Part of the sponge was left sticking outside. When it did rain the sponge became wet and soft which allowed the window to go down automatically. — L. H.

DEAR POLLY — I have an inventory list of everything I normally use in the kitchen. It shows which things are needed. On the day all the food ads appear in the newspaper I determine which stores have the lowest prices on the items needed. The first day the specials are on I drive to each of the markets by a route in the order of their locations. This saves me much time and money. I figure the car usage costs about 11 cents a mile. — BORIS

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is for those who write that they are bothered with either dog or cat hairs on their rugs. I use a pair of old pantyhose to rub those hairs off. This does a nice job. — H. A.

DEAR POLLY — When my baby grew big enough to pull her crib mobile down, I screwed a cup hook into the ceiling and hung the mobile from it. This still keeps her interested and adds a special touch to an uninteresting corner. — MRS. H. L. S.
